Confer on Budget

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 27.—President Roosevelt conferred for three hours today with Budget Director Harold D. Smith on appropriation estimates. Both tried to pencil items in an effort to meet the President's fixed objective of a deficit not larger than 2 billion dollars for the next fiscal year, which begins next July 1, but Mr. Roosevelt found budget slashing difficult. No figures, even of a tentative nature, on revenue estimates or departmental cuts were released. The President is counting on additional revenues as well as budget slashes to reach his goal.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—A tentative Republican program for effecting government economies totaling more than a billion dollars was outlined today by Representative John Taber (R., N. Y.), ranking minority member of the house committee on appropriations.

John Taber.

The committee, which initiates all spending bills in congress, began operations today in preparation for the 1940 session.

"I am reserving comment on the necessity for the vast military appropriations which we have been told would be asked by the President," Taber said. "That subject can be discussed better after the committee has held hearings, but there are a number of other places where terrific savings can be effected."

Makes Profiteering Charge.

As outlined by Taber, congress, without affecting the efficiency of the government, could accomplish the following general savings by eliminating:

WPA "racketeering"	$ 300,000,000
Wagner act; housing authority	500,000,000
Propaganda bureaus	300,000,000
Interior dept. "waste"	150,000,000
Total savings	$1,050,000,000

Taking up these items in their order Taber asserted:

"Our committee investigation of the Work Projects administration convinced practically the entire membership that elimination of racketeering in the administration of relief could save 300 millions of dollars without hurting a single needy person. The evidence was indisputable that contractors were profiteering on WPA projects, and that thousands of ineligibles were on the pay rolls.

"Getting rid of the Wagner act and the labor relations board would not only save a great amount, but would stimulate business and increase revenues greatly. The federal housing authority also could be done away with at a tremendous saving.

Thoro Inquiry Predicted.

"The publicity agencies which permeate every government department also should be eliminated. Their pay rolls are crowded with incompetent newspaper men and political leeches.

"The wasteful activities of Mr. Ickes' interior department easily could be pruned. Aimless putting of land into cultivation without any apparent objective must be stopped."

The appropriations committee, Taber said, intends to inquire thoroly into the revelations of faulty design in warship construction, necessitating costly reconstruction, which have come to light recently. The complaint against some of the new warships has been that they are topheavy.

Representative Clifton A. Woodrum (D., Va.), leader of the Democratic economy bloc, said he believed congress was ready to make cuts.

A subcommittee of the appropriations committee met today with Woodrum as chairman. It heard Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, testify in support of the administration's request for approximately $272,000,000 to finance recent army and navy expenditures under the limited emergency proclaimed by the President.

MUST BORROW ½ BILLION MORE: MORGENTHAU

Bond Issue to Draw 2 Pct. Interest.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. today said that it will be necessary at the next session of congress to raise the 45 billion dollar limit on the public debt. The debt is now 41 billions 278 millions.

Mr. Morgenthau made his statement in connection with offering of a new 500 million dollar bond issue to replenish Uncle Sam's till.

The government has the prospect of a deficit approaching 4½ billion dollars for the current fiscal year compared with 3 billions 600 millions in the 1939 fiscal year. Expenditures so far this fiscal year exceed those of last year and receipts are diminished.

When asked at his press conference whether the debt limit would be boosted, the secretary replied: "It will have to be if you and I are to eat."

Turned Down by Congress.

A year ago the administration moved the lifting of the debt limit to 50 billions, but the Democratic congress, in an economy minded moment, turned thumbs down on the proposal. Thus rebuffed, Mr. Morgenthau recently said it is now up to congress to initiate the raise of the limit, that he will meet demands on the treasury up to 45 billions and not a cent more.

Including contingent liabilities, the debt is now close to 50 billions. When the debt was about 30 billions a few years ago President Roosevelt said he had been advised by the bankers that the United States could safely incur a debt of more than 60 billions.

The new borrowing announced today will be effected by an issue of 500 millions of 2 per cent 9 to 11 year treasury bonds. In addition 50 millions of these bonds will be sold to government investment accounts.

Small Investors Preferred.

For the benefit of small investors preferential allotment will be given to subscriptions for $5,000 and under where delivery in registered bonds 60 days after the issue date is specified. Subscribers for preferential allotment will be restricted to one subscription.

The bonds now offered will be dated Dec. 8, 1939, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 2 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on June 15 and Dec. 15, with the first coupon covering a period of slightly more than six months.

The bonds will mature Dec. 15, 1950, but may be redeemed at the option of the United States on and after Dec. 15, 1948. They will be issued in two forms—bearer bonds, with interest coupons attached, and bonds registered both as to principal and interest. Both forms will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

Are Made Tax Exempt.

"The bonds shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest," said the treasury, "from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any state, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority, except [a] estate or inheritance taxes or gift taxes, and [b] graduated additional income taxes, commonly known as surtaxes, and excess profits and war profit taxes, now or hereafter imposed by the United States, upon the income or profits of individuals, partnerships, associations, or corporations.

"The interest on an amount of bonds authorized by the second Liberty bond act, approved Sept. 24, 1917, as amended, the principal of which does not exceed in the aggregate $5,000 owned by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation, shall be exempt from the taxes provided for in clause [b] above."

The offering is the first cash financing by the treasury since last December except for three note issues this fall totaling 150 million dollars. Last December the treasury borrowed 642 million dollars cash thru the sale of 239 million dollars five year 1¼ per cent notes and 403 million dollars 2¾ per cent 20 to 22 year bonds.

Asked why tomorrow's offering is bearing only 2 per cent as compared with the last December's bond issue, Morgenthau said that there was a difference in maturity.

FINNS TO RUSSIA: WE'LL MOVE BACK ARMY IF YOU DO

BULLETIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 27.—Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Emil Mannerheim, chairman of the Finnish council of defense, who, accompanied by Gen. Ernst Linder of Sweden, is making a tour of the fortified areas in the Karelian Isthmus, is expected to return here immediately to consult with the general staff concerning further defense measures. It was admitted here that Germany is placing strong pressure on Finland to force her into an agreement with Russia. Twenty-five Finnish steamers, many of them en route to American ports, are held up in Germany.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 27 (AP).—Finland gave a soft answer tonight in an attempt to turn the wrath of Russia in connection with the soviets' renewed border demands.

In a note sent by the foreign minister to Moscow, the Finnish government stated Finland is willing to negotiate for withdrawal of its troops from the Russia-Finland frontier if Russia withdraws its armed forces.

The note replied to a soviet protest last night which charged Finnish artillery with having killed four Red soldiers and having wounded nine at Mainila [Maimila] on the frontier north of Leningrad. The soviets asked that Finnish troops be withdrawn 12 to 16 miles in that area. The frontier here is less than 30 miles from Leningrad and on the isthmus that separates Lake Ladoga from the Gulf of Finland.

[Withdrawal of the Finnish troops, it is said, would mean virtual surrender of frontier fortifications in the area, which Finland recently refused to consider.]

No Shot Fired, Say Finns.

Finland's answer was delivered at the Kremlin tonight. It denied that any shot had been fired from the Finnish side. The text follows:

"The Finnish government speedily made an examination of the incident of frontier violation alleged to have taken place.

"It established the discharge of cannon shots you mention in your letter did not take place on the Finnish side. The investigation showed, instead, that on Nov. 26, between 3:45 p. m. and 4:05 p. m., firing was going on on the U. S. S. R. side in the vicinity of Maimila [Mainila], which was the place mentioned by you.

"On the Finnish side it was possible to see the site of bursting shells on the open plain at Maimila which was situated only 800 meters [about 900 yards] from the frontier behind an open field.

Russian Accident Suggested.

"From the sounds caused by the seven charges which were heard it was possible to establish that the gun or guns which were used were situated about one and one-half to two kilometers [about a mile to a mile and a quarter] southeast from the place of the bursting shells. Observations concerning the shots were written in the diary of the frontier guard when the event occurred.

"Thus the question is that of an accident which perhaps happened on the Russian side in connection with exercises and which, according to your information, unfortunately claimed a loss of lives. Therefore, my duty is to deny your protest and to establish the fact that from the Finnish side no hostile actions toward Russia have taken place.

Joint Inquiry Proposed.

"I wish to remark that on the Finnish side mainly only frontier guards have been stationed, and not such artillery whose range would reach the other side of the frontier. Consequently, altho there is no concrete reason to remove troops from the frontier line in the manner you suggested, my government nevertheless is ready to deliberate the Russian proposal with the intention that troops be removed by both sides to a fixed distance from the frontier.

BRITISH VESSEL SUNK IN FLAMES BY NAZI RAIDERS

Riddled by Big Guns of Deutschland.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Nov. 28, Tuesday (AP).—The British steamer Uskmouth, 2,483 tons, was sunk today, and three of her crew of 25 were missing. The Uskmouth's port of registry is Newport. Cause of the sinking was not immediately made known.

Ship Sunk in Thames

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—The 8,859 ton Dutch freighter Spaarndam was sunk today by a mine in the Thames river estuary, just below London. Mrs. Frederika Gonbel Steffens, a citizen of the Netherlands, and four sailors were killed. The woman at first had been reported to have been an American. It was reported that the other members of the crew of about 40 were rescued by a pilot cutter.

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—The story of a sea battle, in which two German raiders, one the 10,000 ton pocket battleship Deutschland, sank the armed British merchantman Rawalpindi off the southeast coast of Iceland, was told tonight in a vivid admiralty communique.

Fighting until riddled by shot and shell, the Rawalpindi went down with colors flying in a fight against overwhelming odds on Nov. 23, the admiralty said.

Search for Deutschland.

Britain's warships are searching night and day now for the swift, heavily armed raiders, which eluded a British cruiser in darkness and storm after sinking the 16,697-ton Rawalpindi with an estimated loss of 259 lives. The British said three boats were lowered and two of the boats, containing about 30 men, were believed picked up by one of the German ships.

The admiralty said the British ship Chitral, another merchant vessel converted to war uses, picked up 11 survivors of the crew of about 300.

[Dispatches from Glasgow stated that the Chitral had landed the Rawalpindi survivors at that port. They still were suffering from cold and exposure. The Chitral also brought 34 German prisoners whom the Rawalpindi had taken from a German merchant ship which it had captured the day before the sea battle. The captured ship was put in charge of a prize crew from the Rawalpindi.]

Story of the Sea Battle.

The admiralty, in its story of the sinking of the Rawalpindi, said the vessel, on contraband patrol duty, had ignored a warning shot across its bows.

"The first salvo was fired by 11-inch guns of the Deutschland at a range of 10,000 yards [about 5¾ miles]," the account continued. "The Rawalpindi replied with all four of its starboard six-inch guns.

"The third salvo from the Deutschland put out all the Rawalpindi's lights and broke the electric winches of the ammunition supply. The fourth salvo shot away the whole bridge and the wireless room.

"Both German ships were now closing rapidly and by this time the second had gone around the Rawalpindi's stern and was firing from the port side.

"The Rawalpindi maintained the fight until every gun was put out of action and the whole ship except the forecastle and the poop was ablaze.

Ship Burns Four Hours.

"After about 30 to 40 minutes of this unequal combat the enemy ceased firing and three boats were lowered from the Rawalpindi. Two of the boats, containing over 30 men, were, it is believed, picked up by one of the German ships."

The account said the Rawalpindi continued to burn amidships about four hours, when it turned turtle to starboard and foundered with all remaining hands.

The three boats which were lowered were said to have been the only ones not shattered by shellfire.

Governor May Operate Docks to Break Strike

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 27 (AP).—Gov. Culbert Olson today hinted the state may attempt to take over and operate San Francisco's strike bound waterfront. He appointed a five man commission to investigate the C. I. O. ship clerks' strike and the resulting 18 day tieup of more than 30 San Francisco piers, which are owned by the state and leased to shippers.

"I am investigating the matter of whether the state has the authority to take over harbor operations in an emergency and to operate the port pending a final determination of the present dispute," he said.

Many Pleas for Action.

The governor said he had received many requests to intervene in the tieup and that "the time has come when the welfare of the state demands intervention by its government."

His commission comprises Joseph F. Marias, chairman of the state board of harbor commissioners; Dr. R. B. Calkins, professor of economics at the University of California; Paul Smith, general manager of the San Francisco Chronicle; George Schimeyer, master of the California state grange, and O. K. Cushing, San Francisco attorney.

Picket Lines Effective.

The strike of ship clerks, who walked out when negotiations for a new contract collapsed, virtually tied up waterfront operations here because other unions respected the clerks' picket lines.

Business and farming groups are bringing pressure to break the shipping blockade. A caucus of rine farming organizations met here today upon summons of the Associated Farmers and demanded that relief money and unemployment insurance payments be withheld from those participating in strikes and condemned the closed shop and secondary boycott.

KANSAS CITY RELIEF FUND QUIZ STARTED BY FEDERAL JURORS

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 27 (AP).—Another federal grand jury started along Kansas City's well blazed crime hunting trail today, admonished by Judge Albert L. Reeves to move against "persons in high places willing to take bread from the mouths of the hungry by looting emergency relief funds of the government."

The charge came from the same judge who nearly three years ago sent a grand jury on the vote fraud conspiracy path where the first heavy federal guns were turned on Boss Tom Pendergast's Democratic organization.

Judge Reeves pointed to the income tax statutes which sent Pendergast, R. Emmet O'Malley, former insurance superintendent; T. J. Higgins, former police director, and Charles Carollo, machine gambling overlord, to Leavenworth penitentiary as a weapon to be used against those who have misapplied relief funds.

"Where there is graft against your government it is your duty to investigate the income tax returns of those who may be involved," he said. Of those who may have misspent relief funds, Judge Reeves said:

"Such persons are breaking down the government of the United States."

Policemen Find 'Possums Grow on Persimmon Trees

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 27 (AP).—County Patrolmen Claude Webb and I. N. Eason thought they exhausted the opossum crop of a persimmon tree in a thickly settled suburban section when they shook nine from it in a single week early this month. Last Saturday night they found four more 'possums 'mong the 'simmons and these were added to the bag.

Nazis Tell How to Be a Beauty Without Soap

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—Beauty need not suffer under the prevalent shortage of soap, creams, and lotions, Anna Charlotte Roemer, beauty expert of the German labor front, declared in an interview in the newspaper Berlin Nachtausgabe today. She advised her countrywomen in quest of beauty to use more rain water for their ablutions and to take short air baths.

"The body reacts the same as linen to bleaching in open air," she said. "The skin remains clean for a longer time. Those who take many baths do not need so much soap. Water alone is a cleanser. Soap deprives the body of fat, and therefore it is better to use it sparingly."

Bars Milk for Face Wash.

Those who use milk for face washing are doing wrong, she said. It is not necessary, Miss Roemer advised, because one can use rain water and wild chestnuts.

"Peel the chestnuts," she said; "dry and grind them, then boil them. Use the broth thus concocted. This is a great cleanser."

Ivy leaves also can be used, she said, as an excellent substitute for soap.

As for a beauty diet, Miss Roemer said that women can get all the vitamins they need from cabbage, carrots, parsley, and apples.

"A woman who takes care of her looks conscientiously never will be crushed by her worries," she said. "She will always be above them—that is the best one can wish women nowadays."

Plan Beauty Courses.

The labor front will open a new beauty treatment course tomorrow.

Commercial beauty establishments report their sales greater than ever, with women buying the biggest bottles of preparations and hoarding the supplies for the day when production of beauty preparations stops.

Ambassador Kennedy Bids Farewell to Chamberlain

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy called on Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today to bid him farewell before his return to the United States, scheduled Dec. 3. Kennedy plans to return here after the Christmas holidays.

of the Deutschland was the first authentic report concerning it since it captured the American freighter City of Flint on Oct. 9.

It was at first reported to have been the raider which sank the British tanker Africa Shell off the east African coast on Nov. 16, but survivors later identified pictures of another German pocket battleship, the Admiral Scheer, as the raider.

Previous exploits of the Deutschland have included the sinking of the British steamer Stonegate on Oct. 5, 500 miles off the coast of Florida. It also was mentioned as the probable raider which sank the Norwegian ship Hansen off Newfoundland on Oct. 14. ported saved.

Its six 11 inch guns and 54,000 horse power Diesel motors, which drive it at 26 knots, are said by naval experts to leave but five British and French warships which could outgun and outrun the Deutschland. They are the British Hood, Repulse, and Renown and the French Dunkerque and Strasbourg.

Built in 1933 with an electrically welded hull, the Deutschland has a cruising range of 10,000 miles. Its new Krupp guns throw 670 pound projectiles 30,000 yards. It carries two planes.

British Freighter Sinks.

Other developments of the day in the war on the seas included:

The 5,144 ton British freighter Royston Grange sank in the Atlantic. All members of the crew were reported saved. No details were given of the sinking.

An unidentified 300 ton German trawler sank after striking a mine off the Danish island of Langeland.

The 10,525 ton British tanker James J. Maguire was reported damaged by a mine last Thursday. The British Press association said the vessel reached its anchorage the next day.

The government quoted members of the crew of the British freighter Pensilva, sunk Nov. 19, as saying they believed the U-boat which attacked their ship was sunk by depth charges.

A German freighter, the 4,458 ton Konsul Hendrik Fisser, was captured and taken to port, the admiralty said.

Japan Asks Explanation.

TOKIO, Nov. 27 (AP).—The foreign office sought an explanation today of the sinking of the 11,930 ton steamer Terukuni Maru by a mine off the coast of England on Nov. 21.

The foreign office forwarded instructions to Mamoru Shigemitsu, the Japanese ambassador in London, and to Uzuhiko Usami, charge d'affairés in Berlin.

Sweden Lodges Protest.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 27 (AP).—The foreign office today handed the German chargé d'affaires a protest against the alleged violation of Swedish territory by mine laying.

A communique added that Sweden reserved rights of compensation for losses to shipping thru the Baltic. Mines and storms halted traffic today.

[German-Swedish trade negotiations were disrupted on Nov. 14 and reliable sources said one of the reasons was the German desire to establish mine fields up to the three mile limit of Swedish waters opposite the Danish coast.]

1,000 IDLE STORM CLEVELAND CITY COUNCIL FOR AID

Cleveland, O., Nov. 27 (AP).—A thousand shouting jobless persons stormed a city council meeting tonight and asserted they would obtain food on their own authority unless the city takes immediate steps to restore recently curtailed relief services.

"That is anarchy," sharply retorted Mayor Harold H. Burton. "It must not be permitted in America and will not be permitted in Cleveland."

The group's demand was voiced by C. B. Cowan, head of an association of unemployed, who said:

"If it is necessary to destroy the city's services, that will be done."

Cowan demanded that the council restore to all relief clients regular food orders, drastically reduced because of dwindling relief funds.

MEAT DEALER ROBBED.

Anthony Janello, owner of a meat market at 130 North California avenue, was held up by three young bandits near 57th street and Ashland avenue last night, slugged and robbed of $10, and put out of his car, which was later recovered, at 59th and Loomis streets.

Foes in Naval Battle

The 10,000 ton pocket battleship Deutschland which sank British ship Rawalpindi in thrilling naval engagement off the southeast coast of Iceland. The Deutschland carries six 11 inch guns, with a range of 30,000 yards. The ship is belted with 4 inch steel, with seven inches on turret faces.

The armed British merchantman Rawalpindi, which was sunk after 40 minute battle with the Deutschland and another German ship. That the British ship undertook a suicidal mission is indicated by the fact that it carried five 6 inch rifles (only four of which could be used) with an effective range of about 18,000 yards. The Rawalpindi was unarmored.

RED CROSS GIVES $250,000 TO AID RELIEF OF POLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—American Red Cross delegates, who are here striving to organize Polish relief, announced today that the American Red Cross would ship $250,000 worth of medical supplies and clothing into the German occupied portion of Poland.

Dotted line and arrow indicate route of American Red Cross supplies to Poles.

This decision was made in spite of the fact that the Americans have not yet obtained a guarantee for "full privileges to inspect the work done in Poland," and permission to see the results obtained with the money spent in the stricken areas.

Officials of the German Red Cross and officers of the German general staff assert that the grant of such privileges is impossible because of the danger of "civil uprisings that may come to pass."

Nevertheless, the American Red Cross workers feel that real help is being given to Poland. An initial gift of $25,000 and supplies of bandages and surgical dressings already have been disposed of to the satisfaction of a committee which investigated thoroly in Warsaw and other war areas.

The new stock of supplies and clothing will be purchased chiefly in America and shipped to Trieste, Italy, and thence to Cracow, Poland, where an American Red Cross representative will supervise distribution in association with the German Red Cross.

The American Red Cross degelation includes Ernest Swift of Washington, D. C., international director; Wayne Chatfield Taylor of Lake Forest, Ill., and James Nicholson, former manager of the Chicago Red Cross chapter.

The battle took place off the southeast coast of Iceland (1), but its exact location was not announced. Another ship hit a mine in the Thames estuary (2).

The German ship Deutschland opened fire at 10,000 yards, a distance equal to that from State street to a point near Cicero avenue.

SOVIET DEMANDS ON FINLAND JUST, GERMANS ASSERT

Say Reds Must Safeguard Vital Defenses.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—A new war may break out in Europe between Russia and Finland, judging from the reaction in Berlin to the border incident in which, according to the Russian version, four Russian soldiers were killed by Finnish artillery fire.

Official spokesmen declared that Germany fully sympathizes with Russia's request that Finland withdraw its troops 12 to 16 miles from the frontier on the Karelian Isthmus.

Comparing Russia with postwar Germany which "freed herself from the Versailles fetters," these spokesmen said that "a great power the size of soviet Russia cannot be denied free access to the sea. You cannot expect any one in the long run to breathe thru the lungs of another man. Such a great power also is justified to look after the interests of her national defense."

Calls Speech "Idle Prattle."

These sources also said today that Prime Minister Chamberlain's "idle prattle about a new pan-European order of things is Utopian and has no connection with realities."

The comment was drawn forth by yesterday's broadcast of the British prime minister, who reiterated Britain's war aims and voiced a desire to "establish a new Europe . . . in which nations will approach their difficulties with good will and tolerance."

Chamberlain is "getting very old," these commentators said, adding that "we can only laugh at the assertion that the British government truthfully informs the public."

Finns' Dispute Aids Italy.

ROME, Nov. 27.—Russia's renewed involvement with Finland attracted considerable interest in official Italian circles today. The more Russia involves herself in the Baltic, the better for Italy, it is said, because this will mean Moscow will have no time to turn toward the Balkans. Italy is represented now to be chiefly concerned with how long this present dispute is going to last, and the longer the better.

BRIDGES ACCUSES NEW DEALERS OF MISUSING RELIEF

Reno, Nev., Nov. 27 (AP).—Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] charged tonight that New Dealers sought to use relief funds "as a vehicle to carry out their plan for a new state."

In a speech before a Republican rally, the senator declared that the present administration sought, with funds congress voted for relief, "'to elect its own men to congress and purge those who were unfriendly to it."

"Do you realize," he said, "that relief funds have been used to force private enterprise out of business and to set up government plants in its stead?"

FINLAND OFFERS TO QUIT BORDER IF RUSSIANS DO

Note Denies Moscow's Shooting Charge.

I have noticed with satisfaction your intimation the soviet government does not intend to exaggerate the importance of a frontier incident which they, according to your letter, at that time believed had taken place.

"I am glad to have been in position to remove the misunderstanding a day after having received your letter.

"In order that no obscurity whatever might remain in any circumstances, my government suggests the Karelian isthmus frontier agents of both countries be instructed to investigate jointly the incident in a manner regulated by the treaty of Sept. 24, 1938, concerning the frontier agents.

[Signed] "ELJAS ERKKO,
"Foreign Minister."

Door Opened to New Parleys.

Diplomatic observers interpreted the Finnish answer as designed to give the Russians the opportunity to resume negotiations broken off by Finland Nov. 13, when Finland refused to make further concessions to soviet demands for border revisions and naval bases.

An opportunity was afforded, it was said, for Russia to relieve any embarrassment caused by the firm Finnish stand regarding earlier demands. This view was based on the belief in some quarters that Russia is not planning to use force, but hopes to use the alleged incident to continue pressure on Finland.

Russians Threaten War.

MOSCOW, Nov. 27 (AP).—Soviet meetings and the press produced mass excitement today over the Russian charge that Finnish troops shot across the border and killed four and wounded nine Red soldiers.

The press initiated a campaign against Finland which was strikingly similar to that which preceded the invasion of Poland.

Throughout the country countless meetings of soldiers, workers and farmers were held at which resolutions were adopted, some expressing anger against Finland or threatening her or calling for the Russian government to take action by adopting "the strictest measures."

Meetings of troops stationed in the Moscow district adopted resolutions stating "there is a limit to any patience—ten days were enough to conquer Poland."

"We Will Throw Them Out."

If the Finnish troops do not withdraw from the frontier, "we will throw them out," stated a resolution adopted by factory workers. Still another warned the Finns that if they did not yield "we will repeat the lesson given the Polish pans [landlords]."

The resolutions accused Finnish leaders of "fulfilling orders of their imperialistic masters," presumably Great Britain and France.

[Authorized quarters in Berlin said that Germany "read with extraordinary interest that Russia regards England and France as responsible for Finland's unyielding stand." The information service Dienst Aus Deutschland, which often reflects German foreign office views, said Germany sympathized with Russia's demands on Finland.]

No mention was made in the soviet newspapers or over the soviet radio of Finland's denial that any shots had been fired by Finns.

Foreign observers here found themselves unable to agree on Moscow's intentions.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

KING SIGNS ORDER FOR BRITISH BAN ON GERMAN TRADE

Forbids Neutral Vessels to Carry Nazi Goods.

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—An order in council for the seizure of German exports was signed today by King George VI. of Great Britain as an avowed reprisal for German mine laying warfare.

King George VI. of Great Britain.

The order for the complete blockade of Germany will be published in the London Gazette tomorrow and probably will become effective in a few days. German goods will be seized on neutral as well as German ships.

Six neutral nations — Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark, Sweden, and Japan—already have protested the blockade as a violation of international law. Japan threatened countermeasures.

France Follows British Lead.

PARIS, Nov. 27 (AP).—The official journal tomorrow will publish a decree paving the way for the French part of the empires' blockade of German exports. The date it becomes effective was not given.

Georges Pernot, minister of blockade, who announced the forthcoming decree, said that "If this results in hindrance for neutral countries, it would appear a very weak contribution to the defense of the liberty of the world for which the allies each day make such heavy sacrifices in human lives and material resources."

He recommended that shippers facilitate the empires' control by delivering certificates of origin before loading boats.

Say British Prestige Wanes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—German newspapers today said Great Britain's prestige as a naval power is disappearing and the seas around England have become a mass grave for sunken British vessels.

"German naval strategy has shaken faith in British sea power, and especially in the invulnerability of the British Isles," Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung said. "It suits us all right if we can employ a weapon with which we cannot be attacked. We Germans do not live on an island. England's insular position has become a weakness. No efforts by British inventors to find a remedy against modern naval warfare will change this weakness."

Claim Wrecks Block Humber.

German papers published a statement by the captain of the sunken Danish steamer Canada before the maritime court in Copenhagen. The Danish captain said the mouth of the River Humber [on the east central shore of England] is blocked by the wrecks of no less than 26 vessels which have been sunk recently.

The papers also declared that neutral shipping companies were informed by London harbor authorities that they may no longer call London a port, since it is blocked by wrecks. Ships of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, a Japanese company, will call at Liverpool until further notice, it was said.

Danced for Hitler

[Maurice Seymour Photo.]

ANITA LANE.

Anita Lane, 22 year old Chicago dancer, thinks Adolf Hitler is a "nice sort of person, who loves to see things and loves to laugh." But Miss Lane saw him, at a distance, before Europe went more or less out of hand.

In Munich, before the Hitler-Chamberlain talks, members of her show troupe were told they were to appear before "the most important man in Europe." Hitler, who was seated in a box, applauded Miss Lane's ballet number. As an encore, she performed an acrobatic dance, which also pleased the German Fuehrer.

So appreciative was he of her company's performance, she said, that he later gave orders for the theater to be remodeled. The orders were carried out. Miss Lane said members of the troupe were forbidden to leave their dressing rooms for five minutes after the close of the performance, apparently to give Hitler time for a guarded exit.

TAFT DENOUNCES FAILURE TO HALT FEDERAL DEFICIT

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 27 (AP).—Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.], candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, tonight lashed the "spendthrift policy of the federal government" in a speech before a gathering of Oklahoma Republicans.

Taft declared it was "hard to exaggerate the danger to the future of this country in the growing deficit and the utter lack of any government attempt to eliminate it." Many public works projects rejected by congress, such as superhighways and canals, are likely to be included "under the cloak of the preparedness program," he said.

"It always has seemed clear to me," Taft added, "that no American nation can become involved in Europe if its people are determined to keep out."

DALADIER TO ASK EXTENSION OF HIS RULE BY DECREE

Parliament Called to Vote on War Budget.

PARIS, Nov. 27 (AP).—The French parliament tonight was called to meet Thursday, in its first session of the war, to approve the Daladier government's conduct of the war and to extend its power to rule by decree.

The session also will vote on a civil budget, more than double that of 1939, to carry the war into 1940.

Premier Edouard Daladier's decree powers expire on the day parliament meets. For almost three months Daladier, who holds the portfolios of minister of war, national defense, and foreign affairs as well as premier, has been prosecuting the war. He has decided to give an account of his leadership and to present a new budget.

Finances are expected to provide the major battle. Finance Minister Paul Reynaud has drafted an ordinary budget for 1940 calling for expenditure of 349,000,000,000 francs [$7,678,000,000 at the current rate].

The total 1939 budget was only 162,364,000,000 francs [$3,572,008,000]. This included ordinary expenditures of 66,364,000,000 francs [$1,460,008,000], extraordinary expenses of 27,000,000,000 francs [$594,000,000], and the September war budget of 69,000,000,000 [$1,518,000,000].

Budget Voted Unanimously.

This war budget was approved unanimously by parliament at its last session, held Sept. 2, the day before France and Britain declared war on Germany.

Government quarters believe the cabinet will win a strong vote of confidence and push thru next year's budget before Jan. 1.

In the first two months of the war parliament has functioned thru committees and the delegation of presidents of political groups of the chamber, which have received frequent accounts of operations from the ministers.

There has been occasional criticism of the government from parliament on minor war issues. The chamber's delegation of presidents of political groups on Oct. 26 listed points on which it opposed the government.

Requisitioning Assailed.

It protested "excess of requisitions in general," such as the taking over of vehicles, horses, houses, and ships, and asked "acceleration of payment for requisitions." It called for a reduction of the zone submitted to army control and asked that the older classes of mobilized soldiers be released. It urged freer distribution of permits for travel in army zones and disapproved of any further removal of population from cities and towns behind the lines.

The government already has moved to satisfy the legislators. Men who started their military training in 1909 and 1910 have been released. Restrictions on circulation, communications, and lighting have been relaxed.

Mrs. Barbara Vandenberg Knight.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 27 (AP).—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] tonight announced at his home here that his daughter, Mrs. Barbara Vandenberg Knight, will be married Dec. 30 in Washington to John W. Bailey Jr. of Battle Creek, Mich. Bailey's father ran for United States senator against Vandenberg in 1928 and was defeated, 974,203 to 375,673.

Referring to the political contest and the engagement, Senator Vandenberg said, "That just shows you what a good coalitionist I am."

Vandenberg said he will fly to Washington tomorrow.

GOEBBELS BOASTS NAZIPROPAGANDA IS WORLD'S BEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—Speaking at the annual session of the German culture chamber here today, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi propaganda director, said that Germany lost the world war because of her inadequate propaganda.

"Matters have changed since then," he said. "In our spiritual fight against our foes we have attained technical perfection. In the field of propaganda we fight before the eyes of the world the great battles of modern warfare.

"We not only have the technique but the people who know how to make use of it. We are now a nation, but we want to become a world nation."

WINTER LULLS WESTERN FRONT INTO QUIET WAR

Germans Report Scouts Reach Maginot Line.

PARIS, Nov. 27 (AP).—The French high command's evening communique tonight said: "A local infantry and artillery engagement occurred during the morning in the region east of the Moselle. Otherwise nothing to report.

With wintry weather hampering western front operations, the French high command's morning communique said:

"Nothing important during the night to report."

Germans Report Lull.

BERLIN, Nov. 27 (AP).—The German high command reported a lull today on the western front, its communique saying only: "In the west, except minor artillery annoyance fire, no noteworthy fighting activity."

Germans were told, however, of scouting on the western front, in which a detachment went "sneaking like Indians thru advanced posts to the Maginot line."

DNB, official German news agency, said the scouts made valuable sketches and important observations after reaching the French fortification line and returned safely.

Swiss Intern German Flyers.

BERNE, Nov. 27 (AP).—The Swiss general staff announced today three German aviators, whose bombing plane was shot down in France, had surrendered to Swiss frontier guards and been interned for the duration of the war.

The announcement said the flyers succeeded in hiding behind the French lines and making their way to the Swiss border near Chatel under cover of darkness.

LABOR UNIONS IN BRITAIN SHORN OF POWER BY WAR

Regimentation Gives Trades a Talking Role.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Trades unionism in England appears to be heading for an eclipse.

Under the guise of war emergency measures, labor societies representing about 5 million workers are being gradually shorn of their powers by government burocrats.

Economic regimentation in only three months of war has reached the point that it took nearly three years to achieve from August, 1914. The government has armed itself with power to regulate the transfer of labor and the waiving of trades union authority. It has set up a so-called advisory council of industry comprising hand-picked unionists and employers regarded by many labor critics as a sort of buffer between the government and the workers' demands.

Many Powers Taken Over.

It has taken control, more or less, of public transport and power. It has entered world commodity markets and directly or indirectly has appointed itself the chief buyer, seller, investor and employer of the nation.

A parallel is drawn in some quarters here between present events in England as they affect organized labor and economic life generally and the development of Premier Benito Mussolini's corporative system for controling Italian industrial economy at the time of the Ethiopian war.

Stage by stage, the British government has tightened its hold on the nation's industry, commerce, and labor under the ægis of war. The general council of the trades union congress, representing the outstanding leaders of the labor movement, put up comparatively weak resistance to the encroachment, but individual unions and the rank and file of left wingers manifested a tendency to protest against what they claim was abrogation of their rights. Eventually, however, they fall in line with the government's wishes.

Labor Gets a Talking Role.

The unions' clamor for a voice in the direction of the economic war effort, however, forced Premier Neville Chamberlain personally to promise that the government would make amends for cold shouldering labor.

As an indication of the government's intentions, and to stifle opposition, trades unionists have been given places on a mass of advisory committees, where they cannot do much beyond talk.

The first move toward trimming the trades unions' direct authority came on the heels of the declaration of war, when Labor Minister Ernest Brown brought before parliament his new control of the employment bill.

The bill, passed on Sept. 21, vests in the minister power to ban any particular employer or group of employers from hiring or rehiring workers without his consent. Certain grades of workers in the so-called "reserved occupations" can't change jobs or join the army without official sanction. In fact, Minister Brown has been elevated to a sort of national labor dictator.

Friction Kept at Minimum.

Tho friction has arisen between unions and government departments since the outbreak of the war, the industrial atmosphere in England appears to be better than in 1914, when labor troubles, which even legislation could not prevent, led to setbacks in production of war materials. This time the government seems to have the labor situation well in hand. Only one strike, affecting a small section of public transport workers, has been reported since the war started.

A decision of the British and French trades union movements, representing 10 million workers, to get up a joint committee to defend mutual interests may be significant. The Anglo-French labor committee will hold its first meeting in Paris on Dec. 14.

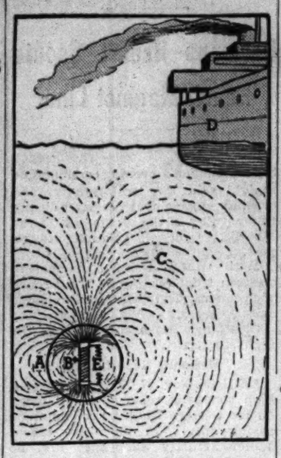
Much interest in labor circles has been directed toward the workings of the newly formed industrial council. Sitting under the chairmanship of Labor Minister Brown, the council is made up of 15 members of the trades union congress and 15 representatives of the employes' confederation. There appears no limit to the scope of problems affecting labor and industry on which the council can tender advice to the government. Some critics fear trades unions' functions will be absorbed by a clique of officials.

Since the start of the war it is estimated 4,000,000 British workers have won higher rates of pay at a cost to industries of 80 million dollars yearly, but the increases lag behind the rise in living costs. Unemployment, moreover, has increased by 200,000 since the war began.

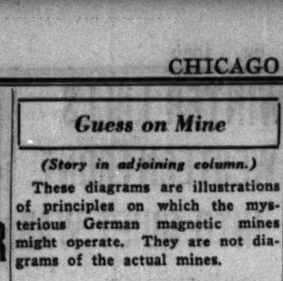
Guess on Mine

(Story in adjoining column.)

These diagrams are illustrations of principles on which the mysterious German magnetic mines might operate. They are not diagrams of the actual mines.



A represents the mine, B the magnet and coil within the mine, C the invisible magnetic field around the magnet and coil, and D is the approaching iron or steel ship. As explained by physicists the approach of a metal vessel would cause a change in the magnetic field, inducing a slight flow of current thru the coil circuit. E is the amplifying apparatus used to strengthen this current and perhaps detonate the mine.



In the ordinary mine field actual contact with the mine by the ship is necessary for detonation.

In the magnetic mine field the ship would not have to strike the mine itself. The magnetic mine field, if it exists, is still a mystery, however.

PHYSICISTS TELL THEIR THEORY ON MAGNETIC MINES

Rule Out Direct Pull, but Suggest Induction.

Some scientific guesses were made here yesterday by Dr. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago and by other Chicago physicists about the principle behind the Germans' so-called magnetic mines that have taken a heavy toll of shipping off the British coasts.

First, the scientists ruled out the use of direct magnetic pull in drawing mines to the sides of iron or steel vessels that may pass near them. They said such magnetic attraction is effective only within a few inches of the most powerful magnet and it could not move a heavy object like a mine.

The best guess, they said, is that electromagnetic induction is used in some way to impel movement of the mines or to detonate them when ships come near. One example of the principle of electromagnetic induction may be shown by winding a coil of insulated wire around a bar magnet. Any change in the magnetic field produces electrical impulses in the coil and these impulses, no matter how minute, may be detected by delicate instruments and amplified to do any required job.

Ship's Approach a Factor.

The changes in the magnetic field which cause the electric currents in the coil may be produced by the approach of another magnet, magnetic field, or magnetic substance. For instance the steel and iron in an approaching ship would disturb the magnetic field and cause currents.

"While I have no direct knowledge of the magnetic mine," said Dr. Compton, "it is conceivable that the Germans may have perfected an electromagnetic induction detonator that would cause mines to explode if a ship approached within 20 to 30 yards.

"It is even possible that the Germans have perfected a floating torpedo that could be released and have a self-contained motor start it in the direction of an object impinging upon the magnetic field around the coil within the mine. The area within which the induction would occur, however, would be relatively limited."

Another possibility suggested was the use of a magnetic compass which would be deflected by the approach of a vessel and thus create the impulse used to set off the mine.

Water Would Transmit Force.

Naval officers here said that the explosion of a mine within 20 to 30 yards of a lightly built merchant vessel would, in all probability, be sufficient to cave in its walls. Water would transmit almost as much force against a vessel from an explosion 30 yards away as would be applied if the mine actually struck the ship, they said.

Dr. Compton said that the greatest difficulty in producing such magnetic mines, as he viewed it, would be the cost of the highly sensitive apparatus required for them.

Other physicists suggested that the British use wooden mine sweepers and that the apparatus used in sweeping in the mines should be wooden, with hemp ropes instead of steel cables, so that the mines caught by the trawlers would not be exploded.

New Zealand, Australia to Let Britain Pay War Bill This Time

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Nov. 27.—One difference between this European war and the last is that this time it looks as if Britain will soon have to finance the campaigns of Australia and New Zealand which 20 years ago were largely able to look after themselves.

Waging a war is expensive and the governments in the South Pacific expect their anti-Hitler expenditure will cost them plenty in the next year. New Zealand's estimate for the war bill in 1940 is up to 150 million dollars; Australia's is from 600 to 750 million dollars. Together, the South Pacific dominions may easily spend a billion dollars.

Britain Balks at High Prices.

In the last war, New Zealand financed operations against Germany and Turkey from 1914 to 1917 virtually without aid from Britain. She raised 130 million dollars in war loans within the country. Only as the struggle entered the fourth year did she turn to Britain for help. Of her total war time borrowings of 400 million dollars only one-sixth came from London. Aside from an early war loan of 90 million dollars, Australia provided most of her finances. Her total war time borrowings were 1 billion 420 million dollars, and 995 million dollars of this was raised in Australia.

Today things are different. In 1914-'18 Australia and New Zealand were receiving much money for exports Britain found essential in war time—meat and butter, wool, hides and wheat—at good prices. This time the British are chary of paying big prices.

Moreover, New Zealand has been living above her income. Her foreign exchange held in London which was $52,000,000 a year ago stands at only $25,000,000 today. New Zealand already has proclaimed her intention of borrowing from Britain to pay any troops sent overseas.

Australia also is in a jam. With the fall in prices for her large exports she has had to resort to some reflation to keep industry in gear and launched a $250,000,000 arms plan which called for big expenditure this year. In addition, costs and wages have been rising in the last two years and the national income is much lower.

Higher wages, boosted transport charges, increased railroad freights, price fixing agreements, and raises in the sheltering tariff are factors in the additional strain on industry.

Australian Debt Soars.

In addition Australia is reverting to high borrowing. In the 10 years up until 1938 the population grew from 6,400,000 to 6,900,000, and the total public debt climbed from $5,460,000,000 to $6,375,000,000, that is, from $854 to $924 a head. Today the average Australian is taxed $40 a year.

The sudden burst of arms expenditure in both countries comes at the end of a long period of borrowing to maintain standards of living and enormous investments in development works by the state governments. Up until March 31 this borrowing had reached almost $4,500,000,000 since the world war.

New Zealand is in much the same position and in the last year the Social government has taken more than $60,000,000 in inflationary loans from London's National Reserve bank. The result has been a steady upward pressure on prices.

JAPS PUSH DRIVE IN SOUTH CHINA; NANNING AFLAME

HONGKONG, Nov. 27 (AP).—Japanese reported today their forces had pushed on from Nanning, Kwangsi province capital, toward another important Chinese base. The new objective of the offensive against Chinese lifelines in southwest China was not identified.

Headquarters of the Kwangsi army said withdrawal of defense troops from Nanning had been completed after a Japanese bombardment set the city aflame.

The Kwangsi People's council appealed for aid in resisting the invasion by the removal of all foodstuffs and destruction of all buildings and roads that might aid the Japanese advance.

PROSECUTOR AND JUDGE TELL FIGHT ON VOTE FRAUDS

22 Seized in Raids Hit at Night Arrests.

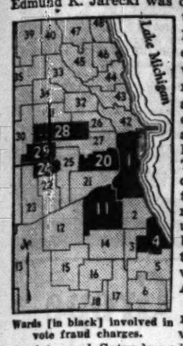
BY JAMES DOHERTY.

The courtroom of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki was crowded yesterday. Present and complaining were 22 former judges and clerks of election and their lawyer. They were complaining that the methods used in bringing them there were un-American.



Wards [in black] involved in vote fraud charges.

"Police raiders went thru the 1st ward Saturday night, throwing men and women, young and old, into jail without opportunity of furnishing bail," said Attorney Edward S. King.

"It was necessary to do it that way to preserve the sanctity of the ballot," replied Special Prosecutor John F. Cashen Jr.

Not Interested in Personalities.

"I'm not interested in the personalities or the politics of the situation," said Judge Jarecki, who, by law has supervision of all elections in Cook county and control of the board of election commissioners. "Ballot stealing must be stopped and when judges and clerks of election fail in their duty they must answer to the court.

"It's unfortunate that some persons had to suffer who may not have been at fault. I don't see personalities. When I am shown evidence that one candidate or another was cheated out of votes, I issue attachments for the judges and clerks who permitted such cheating, whether knowingly or not."

Indignation Aroused.

State's Attorney Courtney, who is cooperating with Judge Jarecki in the campaign against vote stealers "and the men higher up if we can get them," said he did not approve of what had been done Saturday night. But judges and clerks should not permit themselves to be made the dupes of precinct leaders who probably do the actual stealing, he asserted.

Indignation had been aroused most by the treatment accorded Mrs. Rose Dilly, 69 years old, who was uncomplaining about herself. She lives at 1354 South Wabash avenue. For the last three elections she served as Republican judge in the 11th precinct of the 1st ward. She said she hadn't enjoyed her stay in the county jail after being taken out of her bed at 1 a. m. Sunday without warning or previous notice that she was to be cited for contempt of court.

Seized Early in Morning.

Miss Maybelle C. Dodds, who has a studio in Kimball hall, 25 East Jackson street, also was taken from her home at 3 a. m. Sunday and sent to jail. She is elderly. So is Miss Esther Sielaff, who has lived for four years at the Great Northern hotel, and who was "captured" between 3 a. m. and 4 a. m. Sunday, and the same may be said of Miss Minnie Fowler, who lives at the Auditorium hotel and who was "seized" in her room there at 4 a. m. Sunday.

These women, too, had served as judges or clerks of election. In the precinct where Mrs. Dilly served, a recount showed that last April election Mayor Kelly was credited with 36 votes too many, and Dwight H. Green, his opponent, was given less than a recount showed he should have received.

Has Equipment in Hotel.

In the voting precinct where the other three women acted as election officials, Kelly was credited with 46 votes too many and 36 of Green's votes were not counted for him. Dr. Bernard Rattner, who lives at the Great Northern hotel and has several thousand dollars worth of equipment there, also served on this election board. He was routed from bed at 3 a. m. Sunday and taken to the county jail.

The other defendants are Evelyn Kopman, 2735 Prairie avenue; Isabel Harrison, 2514 Prairie avenue; Robert O. Lowhead, 1206 South Wabash avenue; Carl J. Logsdon, 1428 South Wabash avenue; Gilbert E. Gray, 2300 South Michigan avenue; William F. Morris, 2300 South Michigan avenue; Ernest R. Waldron, 2300 South Michigan avenue; Jack A. Stowall, 2300 South Michigan avenue; Bertha Popp, 2617 Cottage Grove avenue; Jane Downs, 2801 South Park way; Grace E. Say, 2809 South Park way; Miriam M. Mellman, 2822 Cottage Grove avenue; George Lohr Jr., 2830 Cottage Grove avenue; William Galvin, 238 West 25th place; Frank Venezio, 2617 Shields avenue; Paul Balzano, 313 West 25th place, and Anthony Bentivegna, 2742 Shields avenue.

Many Problems Offered.

Prosecutor Cashen said the 1st ward offered many problems and his experience has been that when one member of a precinct election board was arrested the others were hard to find. Hence, this early morning invasion of the 1st ward, which for several generations has been a Democratic citadel commanded by Ald. Michael [Hinky Dink] Kenna, was to be accomplished with strategy, Cashen explained.

All the 22 election officials were arrested some time Saturday night or before sunrise Sunday, and all were sent to the county jail. There, they said, they were given coffee without sugar. [Incidentally, some one later visited them and offered to sell them sugar for the coffee.]

The 22 men and women were fingerprinted and given the regular jail routine. Those who talked to newspaper reporters said they had no previous police records and this statement was borne out by the statement of an official that if they had previous records they would not have been selected to act as officers of the County court.

Yesterday afternoon the 22 officials were released on a total of $15,000 cash bail. The money was supplied by the 1st ward Democratic organization. In bills of all denominations, it was supplied for Democrats and Republicans alike.

Hundreds Put in Jail.

Since he was elected County judge the first time in 1922, Judge Jarecki said, he has been proceeding against crooked judges and clerks of election. He says his method is to punish them for contempt because they are officers of his court. He has put hundreds of them in jail, some under sentences as long as three years.

[The duty of prosecuting any one other than a judge or clerk of election, when votes are stolen, is the state's attorney's, and he proceeds thru a grand jury investigation and trial in the Criminal court. The election cheaters are liable to penitentiary sentences; Jarecki may impose only jail terms.]

Last month, as it was explained yesterday by Mr. Cashen, the grand jury conducted a short inquiry into some election frauds and then recommended that the inquiry be continued. This report was sent to Judge Jarecki, who called Mr. Courtney and asked him to file a petition for a recount of the ballots cast in every ward in the city in the last three elections.

Judge Jarecki thereupon ordered such a ballot recount.

Wage Fund Depleted.

Prosecutor Cashen said his pay is $10 an hour for preparing cases and $20 an hour for time in court—that is, when he gets it, meaning the money. Ald. Arvey has told him the fund for his employment has been depleted. Every 60 days he gets 10 per cent of what he earns, he said.

It is so with other bills contracted by the election board under Judge Jarecki's orders. The funds from which Judge Jarecki's printing bills are paid is empty, Ald. Arvey has informed them, Cashen said.

Prosecutor Cashen said he is not under Courtney's direction.

Adamowski Acts as Adviser.

State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, attorney for the election board at $7,000 per year, does not do any of the prosecuting, Cashen said, but acts as the legal adviser to the board appointed by Judge Jarecki.

The 1st ward arrests were based on evidence collected by a crew of 15 men working in the election commissioners' office, Cashen said. The 15 are captained by James Connery, a former employé of a stock brokerage house. Connery lives in Courtney's ward, but is not rated as a political factionist.

Connery's staff works in a section of the election board's office which is roped off. No outsiders are permitted to pass the roped area—not even the election commissioners.

Appointed by Judge Jarecki.

Connery was appointed a special commissioner by Judge Jarecki to recount every ballot cast in the city at the judicial election last June, the mayoral election last spring, and the county election last fall. Jarecki was reëlected last fall and the vote in Chicago at that time decided the election of United States Senator Scott Lucas.

Judge Jarecki said wards recently under Connery's recount besides the 1st were the 4th, where Mayor Kelly lived until last summer; the 11th, a democratic stronghold on the south side, the 24th, home ward of Ald. Arvey; the 28th, home ward of National Committeeman Patrick A. Nash, and the 29th, a west side battle ground of Democrats.

An observer in Judge Jarecki's court yesterday heard some of the discoveries by the Connery counters. In the 18th precinct of the 28th ward [Nash's ward] the judges and clerks counted 359 for Kelly and 50 for Green last April. Connery's figures made it 327 for Kelly and 59 for Green, a net gain of 41 for Green, who was defeated by 185,000 votes.

On trial before Judge Jarecki were Miss Anna Acuri, 2220 Grand avenue, Democratic judge of that precinct; Miss Ethel Moss, 2214 Grand avenue, Republican judge; Frank Feffer, 2137 Race avenue, Democratic judge; John Matuszewski, 2009 Race avenue, Republican clerk, and Joseph De Roso, 2024 Grand avenue, Democratic clerk.

They were charged with contempt of court, and their attorney, Joseph T. Harrington, had sought in vain for a bill of particulars or some specific information of what they had done that was wrong. Judge Jarecki had ordered their arrest on a complaint signed by John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the board of election commissioners.

Harrington called Rusch to the witness stand and asked him on what basis he signed the complaint and what he knew about what had been done that was wrong. Judge Jarecki called a halt and told Harrington he would not stand for any dilatory tactics.

Gets Figures from Witness.

Harrington, who said this was his first appearance in an election irregularity case, was told several times by the court to sit down. He finally obtained from a witness the figures showing a discrepancy of 41 votes in the Kelly-Green contest, and then the trial was postponed to make way for the 22 ex-judges and ex-clerks of the 1st ward who had been arrested in the Saturday night raids.

Some of them had been in jail nearly 48 hours when Irving Schreiber finally found some one to take off his hands the bundle containing $15,000.

Finally the 22 were on their way. It was 5:30 p. m., and the trial of the ex-officers of the 18th precinct of the 28th ward was put over until today.

Meanwhile, it was reported that the grand jury had named three women and four men in true bills charging conspiracy to alter and miscount April primary ballots. The seven were election officials in the 43d precinct of the 20th ward.

The fight against ballot thieves is to go on for some time, the officials declared.

ETHEL SCHOENBAUM.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Ethel M. Schoenbaum to Judge James G. Barber of Evanston was made at a tea at the home of Miss Schoenbaum's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand C. Schoenbaum, in Milwaukee last Friday. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Miss Schoenbaum was graduated from Milwaukee-Downer seminary and is a student in the school of speech at Northwestern university. Judge Barber, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Barber, is a candidate for state senator from this district.

UNTIDINESS NO DIVORCE GROUND, COURT DECIDES

James Robertson complained that Mrs. Evelyn Robertson was an untidy housekeeper. He also said she had ordered him out of their home. But Judge Oscar F. Nelson ruled yesterday that an untidy house is not grounds for divorce.

Mrs. Robertson, 26 years old, 1825 45th street, was in court with her attorney, Victor Frohlich, asking separate maintenance. Robertson, 28, of 5741 South Honore street, sought a divorce. Both charged desertion.

Mrs. Robertson denied she was an untidy housekeeper. She told the judge her husband had informed her he wanted to marry some one else. Asked how many times he had begged his wife to let him come back, Robertson said once. After this testimony, the judge awarded Mrs. Robertson $14 a week and dismissed Robertson's cross bill.

CHARLES DEWEY WARNS BUSINESS OF WAR FETTERS

Urges Protest Be Lodged with Congressmen.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 27 [Special].—Charles S. Dewey of Chicago told Bloomington business leaders tonight how laws—passed and contemplated—would set up a dictatorship and destroy civil rights in the event this country is drawn into war. He urged them to oppose these measures.

Dewey, a banker, former assistant secretary of the treasury and former financial adviser to Poland, spoke before a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce. After outlining the mobilization plans of the war department and aims of the Roosevelt administration, he urged voters to call upon their congressmen and tell them personally that they oppose any laws under which congress would abrogate its power in favor of the President.

Congressmen at Home.

Dewey said writing letters to congressmen might be effective when congress is in session in Washington and then reminded his audience that congress is not in session and that their congressman is at home in his district. He believes personally expressed views in opposition to the dictatorship bills will have more weight than letters and telegrams.

To emphasize the all-inclusive aims of the war department, Dewey quoted from a proposed bill which says: "All economic functions which must be exercised are interrelated and interdependent. It therefore is highly important that some major emergency agency be created to coördinate the performance of these functions" and "Other administrations for the coördination of various phases of our national economy may be organized as required by circumstances."

Capital and Labor Regimented.

"Economic functions," said Dewey, "include the production and processing of all raw material and the transportation and labor involved, the manufacturing plants and all stock and commodity exchanges. In fact, capital and labor would be under complete government domination.

"The person who will supervise all these economic functions will be a chief administrator, appointed by and reporting directly to the President. This is good executive procedure, but presidential appointees generally are approved by the senate. In the proposed bills the senate has nothing to do with the appointment. The administrator is responsible to the President only.

"Under the proposed laws the President will declare the emergency which gives him such extraordinary power and the President is the only person who can curtail this power by declaring the emergency terminated."

DODGE WORKERS RESUME JOBS AS CIO PICKETS JEER

Enter Chrysler Foundry Thru Police Lines.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27 [Special].—Jeered by 3,500 C. I. O. pickets and protected by 1,000 policemen, 205 men entered the Dodge division foundry of the Chrysler corporation this morning. There was no violence.

Eighteen men were sent out of the plant when it was learned they were not Dodge employés. Fifty others who sought work were turned back at the gate. Six white and 181 Negro foundry employés were put to work and stayed in the plant thruout the day.

When the workmen started thru the picket line a C. I. O. spokesman warned pickets to let them alone. "There aren't enough of them to operate the plant," he said, "and what the corporation wants is for you to stop them and start a fight."

Plant to Be Kept Open.

R. J. Thomas, president of the C. I. O. branch of the United Automobile Workers of America, last night asked K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler corporation, to announce that all plants would be closed today. Thomas said he feared rioting and bloodshed.

No reply was sent to Thomas' request last night, but today Keller sent him a telegram in which he said: "There was no rioting this morning and there will not be any if you and your union obey the law. We plan to keep all plants open to employés for whom we can provide work, notwithstanding your effort to keep them out."

Two policemen and six civilians were injured last Friday when about 50 workmen tried to enter the Dodge plant, key division of the Chrysler corporation.

Dickinson Answers Critic.

In Lansing, Gov. Luren D. Dickinson replied to Congressman Clare E. Hoffman of Allegan, who in a letter made public yesterday asked the governor why he did not enforce the law in the Chrysler strike.

"For weeks," the governor wrote to Hoffman, "we have been exhausting every resource permitted by the state to learn what can be done in the Chrysler situation. We have offered every kind of service and have stated that any help needed, the state is ready to provide.

"We have had occasion to put our ideas into practice five times in the last two months—five different strikes where we have called out the state police, who enforce law and order. We have definitely and publicly said a great many times that we recognize two fundamental ideas in industry and labor.

Will Protect Industry.

"This policy was announced again last week in a public statement as follows:

"'Any industry that wants to operate will have our protection, and workmen who really want to work will be protected in trying to do so to the full extent of all the power and authority of the state. We first depend upon local authority to protect workmen from intimidation, threats and violence in preventing them from going to work. When local authorities cannot do that, we will step in with all the power at our command.'

"I gather from your letter you would have us send the state police or state troops without any request or information from local authorities that the situation was beyond their control. Apparently you would have us send them in to fight the local police as well as the law breakers.

Police Performing Duties.

"If you had read the papers last week, you would have noticed that the local police did their duty in the Chrysler strike. My information today is that they will have no hesitation in continuing to do so. If they need help and want it, they will get it.

"We have, too, as you say, gone further and asked for Divine wisdom and direction. We do believe that this is a help. God may have made some mistakes, but we are going on at least for some time using all that is at our command, humanely and divinely, and trusting His wisdom continually on these same lines. If we see it is useless to follow this course, we may then have to appeal to you for something better."

Growth of Federal Deficit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—Increased expenditures of the federal government and diminished receipts are disclosed in the following statistical financial summary. FISH MAY SEEK PRESIDENCY ON ANTI-WAR SLATE

Raps Internationalism of Roosevelt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—Hinting that he may be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, Representative Hamilton Fish of New York, ranking minority member of the house committee on foreign affairs, expressed the belief tonight that the Democratic party, under President Roosevelt, will be the recognized war party in America within the next six months.

"For the last four years," Fish declared in a radio speech, "the Democratic party, under President Roosevelt's leadership, steadily has become the party of internationalism, which tends to involve us in European conflicts.

"I sincerely believe that within six months the Democratic party will be the recognized war party in America, not only thru the sale of arms and ammunition for war profits, but also by loans to England and France."

Prods Other Candidates.

Fish accused Republican candidates for the presidency of failing to present the issue of keeping out of war as the paramount issue. Unless they do so, he announced, he may take the issue direct to the people in the presidential primaries.

"While I have no particular desire or ambition to enter the list—as I feel I can, as a member of the foreign affairs committee, exert my influence for peace—I have received a large number of letters from all over the country urging me to become a candidate, particularly from war veterans," he said.

"If there develops a real demand for a veteran candidate who believes in keeping out of European entanglements, I will consider seriously making the fight."

The New York congressman said he does not charge that the President intends to drag us into wars in Europe or Japan.

No Question of Sincerity.

"I admit his sincerity and his right to be an internationalist," he said. "But I confess I have no faith in his long and consistent advocacy of internationalism, of the league of nations, collective security, economic sanctions, determining the aggressor nations, and policing the world.

"The Democratic party has departed further and further from the principles of neutrality, nonintervention and no entangling alliances, established by Washington and Jefferson.

"I shall oppose in every way any effort to give President Roosevelt more discretionary power to declare war.

"The time has come not to give the President any additional power, but to take back some of the emergency powers already granted and restore representative government in the United States."

Garbage Service Improves 30% in 9 Years, Says Hewitt

Garbage collection in Chicago is 30 per cent better than it was nine years ago, Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, told members of the Women's City club at a luncheon at 410 South Michigan avenue yesterday. Hewitt said collections in 1938 cost $832,000 less than in 1929, when the total was $3,199,000. Reductions have been made in the cost of disposing of refuse and in payments for truck hire, he said.

TEACHERS' UNION IN GRIP OF REDS, COMMITTEE TOLD

N. Y. Educators Testify at Dies Hearing.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 [Special].—Charges that the New York City local No. 5 of the American Federation of Teachers is communist controled were laid today before the house committee investigating un-American activities. The committee also was told that the entire federation appears to be dominated by communists and that the American Student union is used to spread communist doctrine among students in many colleges thruout the country.

Testimony on the teachers' federation came from Dr. Henry B. Linville, for some years head of local No. 5 and now active director of the unaffiliated New York Teachers guild. The federation is an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

Dr. Linville recounted the fight waged by what he termed liberals in the local against the communist element. The battle ended in 1935 with the withdrawal of a group of about 600 to form the guild.

Asserts Reds Are Minority.

He said the communists in the local were a minority, but a very aggressive one which his group felt was sure to gain full control in another year. After withdrawal of the liberal group, headed by Dr. John Dewey, two communist factions, the Stalinists and Lovestoneites, obtained control of the local and still retain it, the committee was told.

That the entire American Federation of Teachers is also communist controled is indicated, Dr. Linville said, by the position it has taken on many public issues.

He mentioned that the anticommunists in the federation appeared to have won a victory recently by electing as national president Dr. George S. Counts of Columbia university. Linville added, however, that every open opponent of the communist faction who ran for the executive board of 15 was defeated.

Hartmann Testifies About Reds.

Dr. George W. Hartmann, associate professor of educational psychology at Teachers' college, Columbia university, gave a picture of the way communist members of teachers' organizations work to obtain control altho in the minority, covering much the same ground later covered by Dr. Linville.

The student union was described by Hartmann and also by an earlier witness, Maj. Hampden Wilson, an investigator lent to the committee by the veterans' administration, who reported: "The student union always is a noisy minority wherever it exists. Invariably it gets representation on the school paper, if not full control."

The prospect of a President's wife testifying before the committee arose today. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told her press conference she would be willing to testify on the American Youth congress, whose leaders she has defended against accusations of communism.

GENERAL MOTORS TO FIGHT COURT'S WAGE ACT RULING

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 27 [Special].—Counsel for General Motors corporation today filed notice in Ingham County Circuit court here of a general appeal to the United States Supreme court from a recent opinion of Judge Charles H. Hayden upholding a 1931 statute prohibiting discrimination by an employer in the amount of wages paid men or women for performing the same duties.

The corporation had sought an injunction to prevent enforcement of the law, attacking the measure as unconstitutional and ambiguous. Defendants in the corporation's suit were Thomas Reid, attorney general; Richard B. Foster, Ingham prosecutor, and commissioners of the state department of labor and industry.

A group of women, several former employés of the Oldsmobile division of General Motors here, have brought suit in federal district court at Detroit for back wages claimed due on the basis of the Michigan law.

Mother! Don't Grope When Your CHILD CATCHES COLD

Depend on this VapoRub Treatment to Relieve Misery

When colds strike and spread misery—stuffiness, coughing, muscular soreness or tightness—it's no time to "grope". It's no time to experiment with untried remedies or risk upsetting the stomach with constant internal dosing. Most mothers realize this.

So to relieve discomforts they use the external poultice-vapor treatment developed specially for children . . . VICKS VAPORUB.

Massage throat, chest, and back thoroughly with VapoRub at bedtime—then notice how this home-approved treatment works! You will like it, and so will your child.

Relieves Misery 2 Ways—Almost before you have finished applying VapoRub, it starts to relieve cold misery two ways at once. It acts on chest and back like an old-fashioned warming poultice. And at the same time its pleasant—helpful—medicinal vapors are released by body heat and are breathed into the cold-irritated upper air passages.

Into the night VapoRub's poultice-vapor action keeps on bringing relief. It invites refreshing sleep as it soothes away misery. And by morning you will probably understand why Vicks VapoRub is a family standby in 3 out of every 5 American homes.

SELFRIDGE TELLS POOR BOY'S RISE ON STATE STREET

Own Success Exemplifies Opportunity in Nation.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

(Picture on back page.)

America's romantic possibilities in the business world seemed to be exemplified last night in H. Gordon Selfridge, the guest of honor of the seventh annual dinner of the Association of State Street Seniors.

H. Gordon Selfridge.

This white haired former partner in Marshall Field & Co., who recently retired as head of London's greatest department store, told his former associates how he forged his way from a poor farm boy into the aristocracy of the mercantile world. Mr. Selfridge is 86 years old.

The dinner was given in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House and was the association's largest. Fifteen hundred men and women, including representatives of 183 firms established in Chicago before 1890, sat under the gay banners and joined in the celebration, which partook in part of a renewed dedication to the intangible but real "spirit of State street."

Street's Struggles Recalled.

It is on these occasions, looking at the pictures of the 14 pioneers who founded the traditions of the street, that its history and struggles out of the mud are recalled and its motto of "courage, integrity, loyalty" is emphasized and reaffirmed.

Mr. Selfridge told of coming to Chicago from Ripon, Wis., when 15 years old with a letter to Marshall Field, and of reporting for work in the basement of the old wholesale store at Madison and Market streets.

Rebuffs, criticism, and friendly advice met him. He worked hard and sought ideas. One of the critical steps in his career, he said, was in finding a booklet describing innovations introduced in a store in Boston, Mass. It opened a new window in his imagination and led him to visit Boston and New York, on his own savings. He also worked nights without pay in a retail store to learn of that part of the business. Mr. Field noticed him, and from there on he rose to a partnership.

Early Days Called Fine School.

The early days in State street, he said, were a fine school.

"It showed me many things," he said, "among them that man's word could not by any means be surely depended upon, that there could be no patent or copyright of an idea that real ability almost always demonstrated itself, and that no matter how severe the competition might be it was wiser to refrain from personal ill feeling.

"Business in those early days was a truly inspiring thing, and to those fine seniors of State street whom this council honors and to the example they set in their business lives, to their fearlessness, their initiative, and their imagination Chicago owes much of her enterprise, her prestige, and her everlasting energy."

Henry C. Lytton, honorary chairman of the association, last living member of the pioneers of the street, spoke at the dinner. David Mayer Jr., president of the State street council, and Francis O. Stevens, chairman of the State Street Seniors, also spoke. Walter L. Gregory was toastmaster.

STEAL 3 CASES OF WHISKEY.

Three Negro bandits held up Jean's tavern at 6068 State street last night and stole three cases of whisky, two wristwatches, and an unknown amount of money.

BLACKETT SEES G. O. P. VICTORY TREND IN STATE

Expects 10 Seat Gain in Next Congress.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Hill Blackett, Republican national committeeman, told an enthusiastically responsive audience last night that Illinois will send 10 more Republicans to congress in 1940 if the party does its work efficiently.

As a guest speaker at the second monthly meeting of the Deneen group in the Morrison hotel, Blackett cited statistics which he said proved that the present Illinois Republican delegation in the national house of representatives will be doubled if the recent trend toward the party is continued.

Calls Congress Last Bulwark.

"If that trend continues at even one-third of its present rate," he said, "Republican victory in Illinois is certain. In 1940 the war issue will have abated and domestic issues will be the issues of the election.

"With Justice Pierce Butler no longer in the Supreme court and the possibility that a radical will be appointed in his place, the high court may cease to be the great bulwark of our liberties. Then congress will be our last bulwark and the Republicans must gain 50 more seats for the safety of the nation. If Illinois gives 10 more it will be a wonderful contribution to the cause."

In presenting his statistics Blackett said that in 1936 the Republicans cast 42 per cent of the vote polled for United States senator and that last year the party vote on the same office was 48.4 per cent of the total. He said a further gain of only 1.7 per cent will spell victory in 1940.

Only 1 Per Cent Short.

Blackett said the total Republican vote for candidates for congress in 1936 was 44.2 per cent of all votes cast and that last year the corresponding figure was 49.1, or less than 1 per cent short of a majority.

Taking up the 25 congressional districts, he gave figures showing strong Republican trends in seven which went Democratic last year. They were the 7th, 9th, 21st, 22d, 23d, 24th, and 25th. He listed only seven Chicago districts and one downstate district, the 20th, as probably Democratic in 1940.

Between 300 and 400 attended the meeting. Former Senator Charles S. Deneen presided. Roy O. West, former secretary of the interior, spoke briefly.

TEXAS QUADRUPLETS TO OBSERVE SECOND THANKSGIVING DAY

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 27 [Special].—The Badgett quadruplets, now 10 months old, enjoyed themselves last Thursday when their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Badgett, observed President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving day. Now they are looking forward to another celebration when the state will observe another Thanksgiving on the last Thursday in November. Texas is observing both days.

The Badgett quadruplets, all girls, were born Feb. 1. Their mother had been told by her physician to expect triplets and was surprised when she learned there was a fourth child. So was their father and the physician.

Badgett, 36 years old, and his wife, 35, come from families in which multiple births are not unusual. Mrs. Badgett is a twin and Badgett has twin brothers. The girls are named Joyce, Jeraldine, Joan, and Jeanette. They are in excellent health and have made steady progress.

Heatherbell Busy Taking Lessons in Highland Fling

Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison of the Scottish Old People's home in Riverside were busy yesterday teaching the Highland fling to Heatherbell MacPherson. Heatherbell, who lives at 7930 Birchdale street, Elmwood Park, is one of four girls chosen to dance at the feast of the haggis in the Stevens hotel Saturday night. The feast will be held by the Illinois St. Andrew society for the benefit of the old people's home.

MOTHER CATCHES UP WITH INFANT WHO WENT BY-BY

With Katherine, her 3 month old daughter, cuddled safely in her arms, Mrs. Herta Ware Geer of Los Angeles declared yesterday that traveling with a baby is no problem at all. The worry comes, she said, when the baby travels right on without you.

Mrs. Geer and Katherine are on their way to New York where Mr. Geer is studying to take over the rôle of Jeeter Lester in "Tobacco Road." Sunday evening in Kansas City, Mrs. Geer, who is 22, left Katherine in a lower berth of the Santa Fe Scout while she dashed into the station for a cup of coffee. She stayed too long. The train pulled out for Chicago.

Their reunion took place in the Dearborn station yesterday when Mrs. Geer got off the Santa Fe Ranger. Miss Elsie Skyrud, train hostess, had heard the baby's cries, and had taken care of Katherine during the night.

KRUETGEN URGES EARLY MAILING OF GIFTS TO EUROPE

Because of the war, Christmas packages intended for Europe should be mailed early. This advice was given yesterday by Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen, who explained that there are no deadlines because all sailings are irregular. At least three weeks will be required for delivery, he said. No mail, however, is being accepted for shipment to Germany or Poland.

Elsewhere Mr. Kruetgen listed the following deadlines for Christmas mail: Japan and China, Dec. 1; Philippine Islands, Nov. 28; New Zealand, Dec. 3; western and northwestern Canada, Dec. 18; Ontario, Dec. 20; Mexico City, Dec. 18. Latin American deadlines range from Nov. 29 for Argentina to Dec. 18 for Cuba.

COMING EVENTS
GREY
GREY is the cloud on the far horizon. Grey are the shadows cast softly ahead. Choose grey with your weather-eye cocked towards the spring: these greys are prophetic of more grey to come. Wear grey for a lift on your holiday rounds. Take it north for the skiing and south for the sun. Have it, mantled in fur, in a drifting chiffon. Wear it, tailored superbly, for travel and town. Think of grey for your play clothes and spectator sports . . . crisp in stripes, cool in prints, and serene in the sun. You can spike it with color or leave it alone. But whatever your grey-way, establish it now. Grey is good, mark our words, and by spring will be great.

LA BELLE NOUVEAUTE

By CALEB

BEAUTIFUL novelty is a phrase of purest parentage Parisian. Only from rare sources, according to connoisseurs, could possibly come certain articles that aesthetic standards and the test of time stamp with classic authenticity. Such as—

These mirrors for Milady; each wrought of the finest French gilt bronze and backed with flawless cloisonne, bearing the hand-painted miniature of some grande dame. You could scarcely expect to find such examples of excellence in any but one place: the crowded shop of Madame Klein. And what a character is its proprietress! Always bustling and petite . . . always complaining of the poverty of her business . . . yet appearing each day in jewels a queen would envy. Definitely an ancienne; for her establishment is very old. And still doing business in precisely the same way, from the same loft, with the same designs, as her forbears.

Or these time-mellowed Gobelin tapestry reproductions, to whose making are brought yarns deftly matched for colors that wear the semblance of long lying under a soft French sun. Each a prize from a prized source—the centuries-old needlepoint house of Filature St. Epin. A bit of the incomparable Paris—where the women who serve you, with their pompadoured hair and high collars, look as if they had stepped out of the Godey's Ladies' Book of our great-grandmother's day.

Many such romantic spots are the rendezvous of our buyers in normal times. Like that which gives us the suave pottery modelings made famous by the foremost house of its kind in Paris: Primavera. Radicals in decorative innovations, Collette Guedin it was—their designer—who exploited such excitements as the painting of furniture on walls . . . and one catches the Gallic independence of their ideas in such articles in our collection as exotic mermaids and cryptic horses, distinguished by strong pastels of violet and rose accenting the white plaster.

And then . . . an "Ah!" of quickened admiration greets the crystal objects—scent-bottles and powder-jars for the boudoir; perhaps a man's curious desk lamp, with its crystal-gazer's ball and parchment shade—that bring to Field patrons the work of the finest glass-maker in France: Baccarat. Mention that name, and our buyer exclaims: "A place like a museum—but what they have done with glass!"

Very intriguing—these informative glimpses I catch, from time to time, into Field questings abroad for the exceptional, the exclusive, frequently the induplicable, creations that do so much to render every hour of shopping a lovely adventure.

IF GIRL DRESSES FIT TO KILL, SHE KILLS JOB HOPES

Business Colleges Urged to Teach Art of Dressing.

Why are girls hired or fired? This is the second of a series of articles intended as a guide for the young girl seeking work.

BY MARCIA WINN.

The young girl just out of high school or business college who is looking for work needs a course in how to dress. Lack of such knowledge costs many of them jobs.

This is the advice of Miss Helen Pearson, personnel director in charge of women for the Wrigley company. Some 250 girls are on her general office staff, and each year 125 or so are hired for temporary work. To find these girls she interviews more than 1,000 a year.

Miss Pearson says frankly that appearance means 50 per cent to her. The girl who is neat in appearance, she contends, will be neat in her work. Consequently, the current crop of young girls, who come in bareheaded or swinging their hats, annoys her.

Office Isn't a Tennis Court.

"You'd think they had just come from a tennis court," she exploded. "The business colleges and high schools evidently give them a course in how to write a letter of application, because I know that the letters we receive are just copied from forms, but why don't they tell them how to dress?

"Fully half of them don't even wear hats. You want to tell them, 'If you have a hat, wear it!'

"Then, again, some of them seem to feel that the more lip rouge and mascara they put on, the better impression they make, which of course is wrong. They also seem to think they must put on their best and fanciest clothes, but it would be so much better if they just dressed simply and neatly and were clean.

Extremists Aren't so Good.

"Extremity in anything, dress, hats, or fingernails, makes a poor impression. My experience with girls who go to extremes in dress has been that as a rule they care more about how they look than how they work. And that doesn't go very well.

"As a rule, too, these girls are really seeking a husband. While talking to me their eyes roam around eyeing the men. I want to stop the interview to say, 'I'm sorry, but most of the men around here are married.'

"Sometimes girls seem to be more interested in impressing you with the good jobs they once held than they are in stressing their willingness to take a job and work up. I can't see that type."

Good Grammar an Asset.

No specific education is demanded by her firm, Miss Pearson says, but good grammar is an asset. If she were forced to choose between two applicants for a job, one of whom had brains but typed awkwardly and one who was slightly stupid but an excellent typist, she would take the stupid one. "You don't need brains for an expert typist," she explained, "but you do, of course, for a secretary." A girl with directable initiative is preferred to the quiet, self-effacing mouse, and a gossip is not wanted at any time.

The ideal business girl, she says, is one who is ambitious, willing to do whatever is to be done and neat about her appearance and her work.

DODGE HEIRESS GETS 10 MILLION MORE ON HER 25TH BIRTHDAY

Frances Dodge Johnson.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27 (AP).—Frances Dodge Johnson, accustomed to spend $25,000 a year for clothes and $100,000 to maintain a stable of blue ribbon horses, was richer by some $10,000,000 in her own name tonight.

Twenty-five years old today, the young heiress to one of the nation's first automotive fortunes came into control, by terms of her father's will, of her share of his estate. She was only 7 when John F. Dodge, one of two brothers who accumulated millions in the automobile industry, died. His will provided for a trust fund of $40,000,000 for four of his children.

Income from the estate has paid for the education and upbringing of Frances Dodge, once known as Detroit's "Number One glamor girl."

She was married in July, 1938, to James B. Johnson Jr., of Elizabeth, N. J., and Detroit.

Heads of Rail Maintenance Brotherhood Meet in City

Officers of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employés opened their annual meeting yesterday in the Morrison hotel. The brotherhood, which represents maintenance of way workers on all Canadian railroads and the major systems in this country, is free of all "isms," said President F. H. Fljozdal. The constitution forbids the members from joining the communist party, he said.

1,100 STAY AWAY; PROTEST SCHOOL GROUP MEETING

A special meeting of the Chicago division of the Illinois Education association was boycotted last night by 1,100 members who contend it was held illegally. The 1,800 members who attended ratified by-laws adopted at the Nov. 4 annual meeting and approved a new elections committee. The meeting was held at 32 West Randolph street.

Newly elected officers were in charge of the meeting. They comprise a slate supported the Chicago Teachers' union. The opposition slate was backed by the Chicago Teachers' federation and allied groups. The union members are generally hostile to the present Chicago school administration.

The old elections committee, named by 1937 officers, had declared last night's meeting illegal on technical ground and obtained a parliamentarian's ruling backing their stand. The association parliamentarian, Mrs. Gertrude C. Lieber of Winnetka, held the meeting was legal.

MRS. M'LAUGHLIN FILES SUBPENAED IN DIVORCE SUIT

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin's divorce case against Maj. Frederic McLaughlin moved a step forward yesterday when Judge Robert C. O'Connell issued a subpena for records of her earnings. The records are those of the last two years. They include her income as a consultant in the filming of the recent movie based upon her dancing career with her first husband, Vernon Castle. The subpenas were issued at the request of her husband's attorney, Frederic Burnham. The records are intended to show that she has an income in addition to that she receives from her husband, Burnham explained. The records are to be produced next Tuesday.

COUNTY HOSPITAL PROGRAM TOLD BY DR. DAVISON

No radical changes will be undertaken to improve Cook County hospital, Dr. Marshall Davison, newly appointed medical director, said last night. He spoke at a welcoming dinner given by the executive committee of the hospital staff and by Gen. Manus McCloskey, hospital warden.

"Our problem is not as great as we have been led to believe," said Dr. Davison. "Much of the outside criticism has been without foundation. We have a fine institution and by working together we can improve it and keep it at the top."

Dr. Davison will assume his new post Dec. 1. At the speakers' table last night were Clayton F. Smith, president of the board of county commissioners; Dr. Karl A. Meyer, hospital superintendent; Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke, chairman of the hospital committee; Dr. Raymond W. McNealy, president of the attending staff of the hospital, and Dr. Charles Davison, father of the new medical director.

UNIFORM SYSTEM OF TAXES URGED IN ALL COUNTIES

Commission Asks for Full Value Assessments.

The Illinois tax commission yesterday recommended the adoption of a uniform system of assessing property for tax purposes in all counties of the state. The basis of taxation should be the full value of properties, the commission said.

The proposal was made in a two volume, 886 page report on property taxation and assessments of Illinois' local governments, made public by Simeon E. Leland, chairman of the commission.

The report said inequalities have arisen from the present assessment system in Illinois, because the assessed valuations are not the full valuations in most counties and the ratio of assessed valuations to full value varies among the counties.

For example, the constitutional debt limit for an Illinois county is 75 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, but a $100 valuation in one county does not mean the same thing as $100 in another county.

The commission's report included a compilation of valuations, tax rates, and extensions on taxable properties over the period of 1927-'38 for the state's 15,100 taxing bodies. Included in the study were these findings:

Almost three-fourths of the $375,000,000 in revenue taken in by the state's local governments comes from taxes on property, either real or personal.

The most significant tendency in property taxation for the decade 1927-'36 was the extreme variation from year to year in the total taxes billed by local governments. From a record high of 427 millions in 1930, the total dropped to 276 millions in 1933 and then rose to 317 millions in 1936. There was little change in 1937 and 1938. The variation in Cook county closely followed changes thruout the state.

Levies in Cook County.

Cook county governments account for two-thirds of the taxes billed on properties in the state. In 1938 tax extensions in Cook county were $206,231,000, and the state total was $317,898,000.

The six local governments in the state that levy the most property taxes are all in Cook county. They are, in order of amounts levied: City of Chicago, Chicago board of education, Chicago park district, sanitary district of Chicago, Cook county, and Cook county forest preserve district.

Adjustments of assessed values to actual values of property have been made tardily. For example, altho the index of farm values in Illinois showed a decline of 43 per cent from 1929 to 1933, the drop in assessed values of real estate was only 26 per cent for the same period. Moreover, altho by 1936 the full value of farm land was 20 per cent higher than in 1933, assessed values had dropped another 6 per cent.

Private Capital Is Seeking to Buy Federal Barge Line

New Orleans, La., Nov. 27 [Special].—J. M. Johnson, assistant secretary of commerce, said today that private interests have made inquiries with a view of buying the federal barge line from the Inland Waterways corporation. It is reported that Chicago and New Orleans capitalists are interested in the proposal to sell the line.

The Inland Waterways corporation operates freight barges on the Mississippi, Missouri, Illinois, and Warrior rivers. It hauled 2,767,210 tons of freight last year and reported a profit of $1,105,440.

Legislation authorizing a federal barge line to be operated as a private corporation and without governmental restrictions was suggested to congress in 1923 by Maj. Gen. Thomas Q. Ashburn, then head of the inland and coastwise waterways service of the war department.

Offered as Yard Stick.

Gen. Ashburn then said restoration of waterway service on the rivers would restore economic balance to the middle west. He urged operation without federal restriction because he said the line should be used to prove that a water freight line could be operated successfully in the Mississippi valley.

The first cargo of freight carried by the line left St. Louis on June 13, 1931. Gen. Ashburn was appointed head of the corporation at a salary of $10,000 a year and had a $5,000 expense account and use of a government owned yacht.

The barge line was successful almost from the start. The line earned half a million dollars in 1936 but only a quarter of a million in 1937, when new wage scales forced up operating expenses almost $900,000 over the previous year.

Ousted on Hour's Notice.

Gen. Ashburn remained head of the Inland Waterways corporation until two weeks ago when he was asked to resign at the instigation of Harry L. Hopkins, secretary of commerce. Assistant Secretary Johnson carried Hopkins' request to Gen. Ashburn and gave him an hour to vacate his office. Ashburn and Johnson had been at odds ever since July, when the corporation was taken from war department control and placed in the commerce department under a Roosevelt reorganization order.

Chester Thompson of Rock Island, Ill., a lame duck congressman who was defeated for reëlection in 1938, was appointed to succeed Gen. Ashburn. He came here today with Johnson to learn about operation of the barge line.

An audit of the barge line's books is being made in Washington. Johnson said the department of justice is studying the $5,000 annual expense account allowed Gen. Ashburn. The yacht formerly assigned to the general is tied up and for sale. Johnson said it cost $20,000 a year to operate it.

CITY, COUNTY ACT TODAY TO CHANGE MUNICIPAL COURT

Plan Legislative Appeals to Revamp Setup.

Twofold action will be taken today in the drive to empower the city council to fix the annual budget of the Municipal court and to relieve the county of contributing to the court's upkeep.

1. A city council subcommittee, headed by Ald. Robert C. Quirk [48th], will meet to draw up a tentative plan for the submission to the legislature of a bill to divest the judges of budget fixing powers and give council control of court financing. The plan, designed to stop alleged extravagance, will be discussed by the council tomorrow.

2. Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, will propose at the board's regular meeting that William Tuohy, assistant state's attorney in charge of tax matters, be authorized to draw up a bill which would change the present Municipal court act so that the county will not have to share in the expenses of the court.

County Protests Burden.

Both bills, sponsors emphasized, should be included in Gov. Horner's forthcoming call for a special session of the legislature.

Smith, speaking before the City club yesterday, declared that the present law is unjust. It requires the county to pay an average of $450,000 each year for operation of the city courts, altho residents outside the city have no dealings with them.

At a meeting yesterday of the council committee on consolidation, reorganization, and taxation, several aldermen declared there was an immediate need for the proposed legislation.

"The taxpayers hold us responsible for the appropriations in the Municipal court budget," said Ald. Roy E. Olin [8th]. "They don't realize that we have nothing to say about it."

Ald. Frank Keenan [49th], chairman of the committee, said he was especially interested in the budget for the office of Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby.

Budget Excess Half Million.

The total appropriation for the court this year, including probation officers, the staff of the psychiatric institute, and the 32 associate judges, was $542,561, as compared with $505,633 in 1938. Of the 1939 appropriation $67,000 was budgeted for the chief justice's own office staff.

Chief justice	$15,000
Assistant to chief justice	7,500
Three assistants at $6,000	18,000
Two assistants at $5,500	5,000
Two court reporters at $3,500	7,500
Law clerk	3,500
Two law clerks at $3,000	6,000
Two law clerks at $2,500	5,000

Judge Sonsteby declined to comment on the prospective action.

KUHN ATTORNEY BLAMES POLITICS FOR PROSECUTION

New York, Nov. 27 (AP).—Fritz Kuhn's trial on charges of misappropriating $1,217 from his German-American bund entered a final forensic stage today, with his attorney asserting that it had been a "political" prosecution.

Making his closing argument to the jury, Defense Counsel Peter L. F. Sabbatino accused the state of having had motives of publicity in offering evidence that Kuhn had written extravagant protestations of love to Mrs. Florence Camp, altho he was and is a married man. The prosecution had contended Kuhn spent $717 of the bund's money to move Mrs. Camp's furniture.

The defense attorney concluded late in the day and the state's argument will come tomorrow.

WELL, PROFESSOR, HOW DO YOU LIKE THE LOCATION OF YOUR SHOP?
OH, IT'S ALL RIGHT.
I SEE THE POLICE ARE HAVING QUITE AN ARGUMENT AMONG THEMSELVES, TRYING TO DECIDE WHETHER THE MAN THEY TOOK OUT OF THE BURNING BUILDING IS YOU OR THE BUTCHER.
I DON'T LIKE THAT, STOOGE! THAT KILLING WAS UNCALLED FOR.
IF ONLY I COULD RUB THIS ADHESIVE TAPE OFF MY MOUTH, I MIGHT BE ABLE TO CALL SOME ONE.
BUT IT'S NO USE! GEE! HOW LOUD THE TICK OF MY WRIST WATCH SOUNDS DOWN IN THIS WELL! HM? A LITTLE WATCH, TOO!
TICK TICK TICK
YES—A LITTLE WATCH...JUST A SIMPLE LITTLE WRIST WATCH.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

How do you account for the failure of the police to solve a high percentage of the labor murders?

Where Asked.

Near north side.

The Answers.

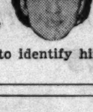
Miss Betty Sevak, 1448 West 71st street, stenographer—A labor murder isn't as simple to solve as a crime of passion. High officials are afraid of revealing things that might hurt the men to whom they owe their jobs. More could be done, however.

Miss Ghean Miller, St. Clair hotel, dancer.—It's because police get no coöperation from people who know something about labor murders. Usually everybody shuts up like a clam. This makes it twice as hard for the police to solve the case.

Al Vaskie, 3444 Elaine place, grocer.—Two reasons: [1] A real investigation might hurt high-ups in both labor and political circles; [2] the police department's work is made more difficult by the scarcity of information concerning the real motives.

Al Friedman, St. Clair hotel, music publisher.—The police aren't entirely to blame. They won't get much help from union officials. What's more, certain key persons are usually spirited away until the heat is off—and then it's too late.

Miss Evelyn Caan, 48 East Oak street, clerk.—Labor murders are harder to solve than any other types. There are usually fewer clews and the motives are more obscure. Even when some one is arrested, it's difficult cult to get witnesses to identify him as the killer.



3 BANDITS ROB OIL FIRM; FLEE IN SHOT-TORN AUTO

Three bandits held up the Schiffman Brothers Oil company at 4010 South Wells street yesterday, taking $80 from Theodore Schiffman, one of the owners, and keeping six men and women at bay with their guns. Schiffman said they were the same men who robbed him of $200 a month ago. A fourth man was with them then.

They fled in a car which had a bullet hole in the windshield. This led to belief that they were the gang which escaped under fire from a Maxwell street police squad Sunday night after robbing three north side taverns.

LAWYERS ARGUE PLEAS TO QUASH ANNENBERG CASE

Attorneys for Moses L. Annenberg and eighteen co-defendants yesterday delivered oral arguments in support of their motion to dismiss federal lottery and income tax evasion indictments on technical legal grounds.

Their arguments followed the lines outlined in written briefs. Judge James H. Wilkerson ordered government attorneys to file answering briefs tomorrow, and gave the defense until next Monday to file their replies. Neither Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia publisher and New Deal critic, nor any other defendant was in court.

The defense contended in one of its arguments that the presence of certain assistant attorney generals before the grand jury was irregular. These officers, who were investigating another phase of the Annenberg case, appeared as observers before the grand jury which investigated the income tax and lottery cases.

FEDERAL AGENTS QUIZ GAMBLERS ABOUT INCOMES

Assistant United States attorneys and federal agents yesterday began questioning gamblers and handbook operators preparatory to beginning a federal grand jury investigation into income tax violations later this week.

The inquiry resulted from disclosures during the grand jury investigation of William Skidmore, reputed collector and fixer for the gambling syndicate. He was indicted in September on charges of income tax evasion.

William J. Campbell, United States attorney, said gamblers who had been found to be willing to talk to his assistants and to agents of the treasury department would not be asked to appear before the grand jury, but that those who were recalcitrant would be summoned to testify.

It was said the jury also might scrutinize the income of several police captains and that of Dennis Cooney, until recently a 1st ward café operator.

Causes Arrest by False Information; Fined $100

Gresset Boudes, 2765 Clybourn avenue, was fined $100 by Judge Michael Tremko in Town Hall court yesterday for giving false information to police. On Nov. 20 Boudes told Sheffield avenue police he knew a salesman, living on the north side, who was wanted for the murder of a policeman in Martin, Tenn., three years ago. The salesman was arrested and held in jail four days before it was learned that Boudes' information was false. Boudes said he did not know why he did it.

LABOR BOARD BUYING PRINTING OF NONUNION SHOP IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Nov. 27 [Special].—The National Labor Relations board and two other government agencies here are buying printed matter from the Law Brief press, a nonunion firm which has been picketed for two months. This was revealed today by local No. 6 of the International Typographical union.

Mrs. Elinore Herrick.

The pressmen's union and local No. 6 [known as Big Six] charge that no union firm could bid on the government work due to the specifications in the contract under which the printing is purchased by the NLRB, the department of justice, and the Securities and Exchange commission. The Typographical union called a strike on Sept. 12, charging that the firm had inaugurated an open shop in violation of its I. T. U. contract.

Mrs. Elinore Herrick, regional director of the board, said: "We are bound by contract. There is nothing that we can do about it here."

The union, according to Elmer Brown, its president, appealed to all local officials to cease buying from the firm. He said the NLRB was set up to protect union labor by forcing employers to bargain with unions.

Six Detectives Attend Stag; 4 Women, 4 Men Seized

Four hundred and six persons attended a stag party last night in a hall on the second floor of 714 Roosevelt road. The six extra guests were Detectives George Davis, Stewart McCutcheon, John Lamb, John O'Gorman, James Fast, and Stephen Glom of the Maxwell street station. They arrested four women and four men. George Pierce, 42 years old, who gave his address as 118 North State street, was booked as the keeper of a disorderly house. Miss Billie Lewis, 23, was charged with giving a lewd performance, and the others were booked as inmates of a disorderly house.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BUGS MORAN IS JAILED TO SERVE YEAR'S SENTENCE

Drops Appeal in Check Counterfeiting Case.

George [Bugs] Moran, whose gang dominated north side beer and booze rackets in prohibition days, was committed to the county jail yesterday to serve a year's sentence imposed last May.

George Moran.

Moran was convicted by a jury of conspiring to flood the country with $500,000 worth of forged travelers' checks of the American Express company. Only $62,000 in counterfeit checks were involved in the trial.

Moran's partner in the enterprise was Frankie Parker, the millionaire airplane bootlegger of a decade ago. Judge James F. Fardy of the Criminal court sentenced Moran to jail and fined him $2,000.

Parker Also Gets Year.

Parker also received a year's sentence which will be served when he completes a two year federal prison term for his conviction in another counterfeiting case.

Moran had been free on a $35,000 bond pending arrangements to take his case to the Appellate court. Yesterday the time limit for his freedom on this bond expired. Judge Fardy issued a mittimus for his commitment to jail.

Refuses to Discuss Plight.

Moran refused to confirm reports that he is broke. His attorneys also were noncommittal. But they indicated he lacked sufficient funds to finance an appeal.

Last April Moran had similar trouble. He remained in jail for a week before he was able to obtain the necessary $30,000 bond.

Before starting his profitable career in liquor, which was cut short by the Capone slaying of seven Moran gangsters in the St. Valentine's Day massacre of 1929, Moran served an apprenticeship in prison. From 1910 to 1923 he served three terms at Joliet for robbery and burglary.

TRIAL DATE SET FOR 2 NAMED IN M'GARRY QUIZ

Judge Joseph A. Graber of the Criminal court yesterday set Jan. 3 for the trial of two former codefendants of Municipal Judge Eugene L. McGarry in a bail bond investigation. The indictments against Judge McGarry were dismissed last week by Judge Graber on the ground that a judge could be impeached but not indicted for alleged abuse of judicial discretion.

The defendants are Samuel Brin, a saloonkeeper, and Harold Gendon, owner of a $97 lot which Judge McGarry approved as surety for bonds many times its value. Gendon and Brin are charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court announced Judge McGarry would be assigned to a civil branch next Monday. He has been inactive since the bail bond investigation reached a climax last August while he was sitting in the Felony court.

Yesterday Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin suggested that the Brin-Gendon case be transferred to another judge for immediate trial because Judge Graber's calendar was clogged. Judge Graber was severely criticized by State's Attorney Courtney for his dismissal of the indictments against Judge McGarry. After Defense Attorney George M. Crane objected to a venue change Judge Graber set the trial date.

WIFE, 69, SLAIN BY HUSBAND, 71; SISTER, 72, SHOT

Henpecked for 25 Years, Declares Killer.

Wilson J. Fish, 71 years old, a retired traffic manager, last night shot and killed his wife, Elizabeth, 69. He said they had quarreled for nearly 25 of their 40 years of married life.

Fish also shot his wife's sister, Mrs. Emma Kilian, 72, a widow, in the left hand. Then he waited for Woodlawn police, to whom he described himself as a henpecked husband.

The shooting occurred in the Kilian apartment, above the Fish home, at 6140 St. Lawrence avenue. Mrs. Kilian said she and her sister were knitting when Fish came upstairs cursing.

Sister Tells of Shooting.

She said Mrs. Fish told him to stop, and shook him. Then, Mrs Kilian said, he shot his wife twice in the head with a revolver. Mrs. Kilian said he fired one shot at her before she was able to disarm him.

Fish told Capt. Patrick Collins and Assistant State's Attorney Charles McNamara that he went upstairs and asked his wife to prepare a cup of tea for him.

"She refused," he said, "and when I protested she said she'd choke me if I didn't shut up. Then she grabbed me by the neck, and the next thing I knew I was firing."

Unable to Describe Details.

3 BANDITS PLEAD NOT GUILTY TO POLICE SLAYING

Pleas of not guilty were entered yesterday for three young hoodlums arraigned in the Criminal court for the murder of Policeman Harry Francois during a holdup Nov. 20. Chief Justice John Prystalski assigned the case to Judge John Sbarbaro, who announced that an early trial date would be set as soon as preliminary motions are heard on Friday.

The defendants are Jerry Mangano, 22 years old, 2216 Taylor street, confessed slayer; Joe Russano, 18, of 821 North Francisco avenue, and Italo Begani, 16, of 2501 Harrison street, Mangano's companions. All have been identified in several other robberies.

Russano at first entered a guilty plea. This was withdrawn by Attorneys Elisa Di Gilio and Don D. Rogers, who said they were retained as his counsel. Begani, it was announced, will be represented by Attorney William Scott Stewart, and Mangano by Attorney James M. Burke.

BOWEN AND THREE POST BONDS ON MANTENO CHARGE

A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, and three others indicted on charges of malfeasance in office in connection with the typhoid epidemic at the Manteno State hospital, posted bond yesterday when arraigned before Circuit Judge Luther Bratton in Kankakee. Judge Bratton continued the cases until Dec. 11.

Bowen and Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, suspended managing officer of the hospital, posted bond of $5,000 each. Dr. D. L. Steinberg, assistant managing officer, and Miss Lillian Williams, dietitian, each posted bond of $3,000.

State's Attorney Samuel H. Shapiro, whose investigation of the epidemic which cost 53 lives led to the indictments, said the trial probably would be during the January court term.

3 SUE TO PLACE SURFACE LINES IN BANKRUPTCY

Petition by Bondholders Asks Reorganization.

A petition asking the reorganization of the Chicago Surface Lines under federal bankruptcy laws was filed yesterday in the federal District court on behalf of three persons owning $19,000 of first mortgage bonds of the surface lines.

The bill, filed by Attorneys Warren Canaday and Joseph A. Struett, asserted that altho properties of the street car companies have been in receivership for 12 years little, if any, progress has been made toward a solution of the traction question.

"The dominance of the various committees controling the various securities of the companies makes it impossible for any one, particularly the court, to deal directly with the security holders themselves," the petition said.

Broader Powers Cited.

Canaday said the powers of the court to take action to clear up the traction muddle would be broadened if the transit properties were reorganized under the Chandler act, a federal law enacted last year.

Under the Chandler act, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who has jurisdiction over the transit properties, would be empowered to appoint a trustee who could operate the properties and recommend a plan of reorganization to the court. Judge Wilkerson then could ask the securities holders' committees for lists of the securities holders and could present the plan directly to them without dealing thru the committees.

A bankruptcy petition similar to the one filed yesterday has been pending before Judge Wilkerson for more than two years, but he has taken no action on it pending the outcome of present attempts to merge the surface and the elevated lines under one management with a single franchise.

Committee Now Negotiating.

The federal court at present has broader powers over the surface lines than are usually vested in the court in receivership proceedings, observers said yesterday. A three man committee representing the court has been negotiating with the city for a unified franchise, and the securities holders' groups have delegated their powers to this committee in the negotiations.

Present plans for merging the surface lines and elevated lines would be thrown overboard if the surface lines went into bankruptcy.

Judge Wilkerson has scheduled a traction hearing for this morning, at which time he will hear from the court's negotiators and from representatives of the securities holders' committees of the surface and elevated lines. The court will seek to determine whether the securities groups want to continue to negotiate with the city for a unified franchise.

The bondholders on whose behalf yesterday's suit was filed are Bernice L. Burdett, Jack Mott, and Robert H. Eberle.

Police Department Taxi Service Costs Woman $5

Miss Mary Butler, 28 years old, telephoned police from a drug store at Lincoln and Webster avenues Saturday night. "Quick!" she shouted. "I've been robbed!" When Policeman John Currin arrived in a squad car, Miss Butler told him she thought the robber had gone to 1223 Diversey parkway. This puzzled Policeman Currin, but Miss Butler explained yesterday to Judge J. M. Braude. "I live at 1223 Diversey," she said. "I just wanted a ride home." Judge Braude fined her $5 for disorderly conduct.

13,322 ENTRIES TO SET RECORD AT STOCK SHOW

$100,000 Prizes Will Be Awarded.

The best of the this year's crop of prize farm animals began arriving in volume at Union stockyards yesterday from many parts of the United States and Canada. The fortieth annual International Live Stock exposition opens Saturday in the International amphitheater at 43d and Halsted streets. It will continue thru Dec. 9.

B. H. Heide, manager of the exposition, announced that entries this year have reached a new record with 13,332 head of blooded horses, beef cattle, sheep, and hogs, and more than 5,000 crop exhibits listed in the competition for prizes exceeding $100,000. There were 11,621 animals entered in last year's exposition.

More Entries from Canada.

Live stock entries would have been even larger this year, Heide said, had the lists not been held down in some departments because of lack of space to house the animals. Canadian entries are heavier than ever before, largely due to cancellation of the regular fall stock shows there as a war measure.

The first load of beef cattle came in Sunday from the University of Alberta at Edmonton, Alta. Other early arrivals from that province were seventeen head of pure bred Angus cattle from Calgary, entered by the Canadian Pacific railroad.

Hereford cattle arrived yesterday from the White Mountain Hereford ranch, Springerville, Ariz., and from the Wyoming Hereford ranch at Cheyenne, Wyo. Twelve Belgian draft horses from the farm of Dr. H. E. Alexander of Saskatoon, Sask., were among the first arrivals in the draft horse department.

Twenty Acres of Exhibits.

More than twenty acres of floor space has been prepared for housing the exhibits. Heide said all the leading breeds of beef cattle will be represented by more entries than ever before.

The grand champion steer, the most coveted prize of the show, will be picked by J. Gordon-Davis of Buenos Aires, Argentina. He also will judge the Hereford classes. Nearly twice as many Herefords have been entered as competed in the show last year.

Thirty breeds of horses, beef cattle, sheep, and hogs are included in the entry list. Forty-one states and six Canadian provinces are represented in the live stock and crop exhibits. More than 200 stockmen from fifty-one counties in Illinois alone will compete in the live stock department.

ANGLE PARKING BAN TO BE EASED IN MADISON ST.

Practice to Be Permitted During Holidays.

BY HAL FOUST.

Diagonal parking is to be permitted again in Madison street between Pulaski road and Austin avenue. Diagonal parking is in accordance with traffic practices of many years, but is in violation of the Chicago ordinance. The ordinance permits only parallel parking.

Walter Kelly, secretary of the Garfield Business Men's association, yesterday informed the council traffic and safety committee that Mayor Kelly had told a delegation of merchants from West Madison street that diagonal parking would be permitted in that area until after the holidays. The retailers said the recent enforcement of the ordinance prohibiting it was hurting their holiday trade.

Committee Orders Hearings.

The mayor's decision is in opposition to a police campaign to enforce the prohibition of diagonal parking thruout the city. The council committee directed that public hearings be started after Jan. 1 on the question of amending the Chicago traffic code to authorize angle parking on streets 75 or more feet wide.

In answer to questions by aldermen, Capt. David Flynn, head of the police traffic department, said the pace of traffic had increased 25 per cent by the elimination of diagonal parking. Enforcement of the ban gives moving traffic an additional lane in each direction and delays to street cars are reduced.

Report Accidents Fewer.

Accidents also are said to be reduced by enforcement of the ordinance. The Chicago Motor club is preparing to fight the legalization of angle parking on a safety basis. The club said that in backing from a curb a driver's vision of oncoming traffic is obstructed by any car parked to his right.

Surveys have challenged the merchants' contention that diagonal parking substantially affects their businesses. There is a small increase in the storage capacity of their curbs thru angle rather than parallel parking, but studies have indicated that the total increase is too small to be of much concern to the business houses.

A CERTAIN Chinese dignitary, so the story goes, was visiting the United States for the first time. Among other events in his honor, his hosts planned a trip to the horse races.

To their puzzled surprise, he firmly but politely declined. When pressed for his reason, he answered:

"Beg to observe, gentlemen, it has long been established that one horse can run faster than another."

They might have shown him one race where American business men believe exactly as he does—and place their money accordingly.

In the race to sell merchandise, advertisers who consistently win with their money place it more heavily on The Saturday Evening Post than on any other magazine.

Second place has changed back and forth over the years. Third place has been a race to watch. From fourth on down has been a scramble.

But first place has not changed. Advertising-wise it has been established that one horse always runs faster.

The reason? Advertisers rate the Post first because readers rate it first. People say, "I like to read the advertising in the Post." Again and again, year after year, in dozens of surveys they make it clear that the Post is their favorite place to read advertising.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

IF WORST CAME TO WORST.

Winston Churchill said the other day that if the British and French lose this war Europe will be enslaved and the United States will be left single handed to guard the rights of man. The statement is accurate enough of itself, but the implications it carries are false.

We in the United States will fight to preserve the rights of man—in the United States. This is not to say that we would not regard their extinction in Europe as a great tragedy. But such a tragedy would not be of our making, and only one thing would justify the tremendous sacrifices that we would be called upon to make if we intervened to prevent it. England and France cannot justly claim they are fighting our battle unless it can be shown that we are incapable of fighting our own battle, alone and unaided, in the event of their prior defeat. If we can defend ourselves without their help their battle is not ours.

The worst thing that could come out of this war, from the American standpoint, is that Hitler might force the surrender to himself of the British fleet, more or less intact. The idea that Great Britain could be forced to her knees with her fleet still intact borders on the fantastic, but that is the only event that would offer a serious threat to American security.

The German fleet, the German and Italian fleets, or even the German, Italian and Japanese fleets cannot make a serious attack upon the United States. Our coasts might suffer from sporadic raids, but we could not be attacked in force. The distances involved are too great, particularly in the Pacific. There is sound military and naval opinion that even if our fleet were held in the Atlantic the Japanese navy could not attack our coast, and would have difficulty even in attacking, let alone capturing, Hawaii.

The same factor of distance makes negligible the danger of any attack on our Atlantic coast. The operating radius of a fleet is only 2,000 to 2,500 miles, and somewhat nearer the smaller figure than the larger in the Atlantic, due to European ship types. A fleet must have a base from which to operate and to which to retire for repairs. The European base nearest the United States is Berehaven, in Ireland, which is 2,600 miles from Boston.

With the British fleet Hitler would have an imposing armada, on paper, but he would have difficulty in getting it to sea. He could scarcely use British crews on the seized ships, and the training of a crew to real battle efficiency is fully as slow a process as building the battleships they man. Against any such fleet, a hodge podge as regards speed, armor, guns and tactics, we would present a fleet built and trained to fight as a unit.

The invading force would be close to or past its effective range of operations by the time it crossed the ocean. It could not hover off shore, waiting a favorable opportunity to strike, as fleets could in the days of sail. It would have to strike immediately, find the American fleet and destroy it, to accomplish its mission.

But the American fleet would be under no compulsion to give battle immediately. A fleet cannot attack well fortified harbors, because land guns outrange its own. Neither can its carriers transport enough aircraft to oppose effectively a shore based air force. The invader could harass our coast, but not seize it.

Our own fleet could well afford to lie safe in harbor until bad weather, accidents, lack of supplies, the harassment of our air force, and other factors had so scattered and weakened the invading force as to make its destruction a foregone conclusion when battle was joined. In short, the risks of a full dress invasion of American waters are so great that no admiral in his right mind would undertake them, however great the superiority of his fleet to ours on paper.

Since an invasion of American soil would require the prior destruction of our fleet, such an idea is a further step in to fantasy. A transport fleet would hamstring the actions of any battle fleet which it accompanied. This, with the fact that months would be required to assemble and load the ships needed to carry an expeditionary force against the United States, rules out the possibility of a surprise attack.

Two factors must be understood to realize the virtual impossibility of an armed invasion of the United States. The first is that a modern army cannot land on some lonely beach, as we landed troops in Cuba in 1898. It cannot fight without its heavy equipment, and such equipment can be unloaded only in a first class harbor. Not more than five or six Atlantic coast ports have the docks, cranes, and other equipment to handle heavy military machines, and they are well defended.

The second factor is the enormous ship tonnage required to transport an army and its equipment, about twelve tons of shipping to each man and his proportional share of tanks, guns, gasoline, and other supplies. An invading army of 100,000 men would require 1,200,000 tons of shipping. This is three-fifths of all Germany's seagoing vessels of 2,000 tons or more. Even if our fleet were destroyed, our present air force and a field army of 110,000 men could successfully resist the landing of an expeditionary force anywhere in the United States.

CURB SERVICE FOR THE MASSACRE.

Attorney General Cassidy says there is nothing in the Illinois liquor laws to keep a saloonkeeper from getting motorists drunk at the wheels of their cars. Curb service or service of drinks in a parking lot is placed in the same classification as the serving of food or ice cream sodas.

It goes without saying that no self-respecting saloonkeeper will indulge in such trade. Unfortunately, the proportion of liquor retailers who will do anything to keep their cash registers jingling, and who seek every loophole to dodge the responsibility for their sales, is high. The only way to keep their conduct somewhere near the bounds of decency is to keep kicking them around.

The large number of deaths and injuries in highway accidents arising from drinking naturally come to mind first in consideration of this traffic that the attorney general says is legal, but equally strong objection lies in the ease with which minors can get liquor under such circumstances. The curbstone bartender is not going to look into the back seat to see whether a 16 year old girl is getting the whisky he serves.

This loophole in the liquor laws should be closed at once. It is doubtful that any one will have the effrontery to defend the practice in public. If the subject is included in the call for the special legislative session, the votes to pass an anticurbstone amendment will be available. In considering the subject the legislature might well adopt the prohibition which many states already have of carrying any opened bottle of liquor in an automobile.

Meanwhile, police thruout the state should have no difficulty in putting the brakes on saloonkeepers greedy enough to make curbstone sales. A permanent detail to their premises and a few arrests will stop the practice. No motorist will take a chance on drinking behind the wheel if he knows he is to be arrested for driving while intoxicated the moment he starts up his car.

GIFTS FOR EDUCATION.

President Hutchins of the University of Chicago called attention again, a few days ago, to the manner in which endowed institutions are being squeezed these days. Interest rates have fallen sharply, with the result that income from previous gifts is greatly reduced. At the same time new contributions to endowment are coming in much more slowly than they used to.

What to do? It is remarkable that the men in Mr. Hutchins' position have thought of a great many policies and expedients to be pursued, but for the most part have missed what seems to the outsider to be the obvious course. The difficulties arise largely, if not entirely, from the spending and taxing measures of the federal government. The money that isn't going to Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Chicago, Stanford, Columbia, and the rest is being spent instead on an immensely wasteful burocracy, on useless public works, etc., etc. Financing the government's deficits has forced interest rates to the present low point. The fantastically high rates of taxation on incomes and inheritances have prevented the accumulation of money for gifts to endowed institutions and also have forced the conservation of private resources to meet inheritance tax bills.

In the circumstances it would seem that the best way to safeguard the universities would be to bring about a reduction of public appropriations and a corresponding decrease in taxation. The universities might well organize to exert their considerable influence for the restoration of something like sanity in the government's fiscal policies. Certainly as long as the present rates of spending and taxing continue in effect the effort to raise money for anybody but the tax collector is not likely to produce much.

PAPER BOTTLES.

A good many people think that the use of paper containers for milk would save the dairy companies money and enable them to sell milk more cheaply to the people of Chicago. That would be helpful not only to the millions of consumers, but also to the farmers, because more milk would be sold.

So far as health is concerned, the paper bottle appears to be at least as satisfactory as the glass bottle. Paper bottles have been used with safety in many communities, including Chicago's suburbs. The United States Public Health Service approves paper containers for milk. A majority of the city's board of health has taken the same position.

In spite of these facts, milk dealers in Chicago are still denied permission to make the substitution. The recommendation of the board of health has gone its circuitous course from Corporation Counsel Hodes to the city council, to its health committee and back again. The buck passing has been artful, but not artful enough to quiet suspicion. There is much reason to believe that some one, or, more likely, a number of some ones, for reasons of their own are trying to block progress.

The people of Chicago and the farmers who supply the community with its milk may well inquire how long the public officials of the city are going to be allowed to swindle the producers and consumers by these tactics.

THE "OLD MANSE."

[Indianapolis News.]

The movement to preserve Concord's "Old Manse," home of Ralph Waldo Emerson and Nathaniel Hawthorne, is more important than the amount involved in the enterprise—$25,000—suggests. It was here that Emerson found the path to intellectual independence and that Hawthorne passed the happiest three years of his life and wrote "Mosses from an Old Manse."

It will be a memorial to two men, and the Americans are not unmindful of Hawthorne's greatness and still read his masterpieces with interest and pleasure, there are special reasons at this time for turning the mind to Emerson and his dominating theme, "the infinitude of the private man." It is good to know that the "Old Manse" will stand. It will be good to go there, and to remain long enough to read one of his essays. It might be the one containing Emerson's moderate statement of his vital optimism: "The genius which preserves and guides the human race indicates itself by a small excess of good, a small balance in brute facts always favorable to the side of reason."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

TOUR THRU THE SANCTUM.

The first copy of the Line Book of 1939 is off the press and on the desk of its maker, and the edition will be placed on general sale next Friday. This compilation of items from the columns of the last year may be bought at newsstands, bookshops, and the Public Service offices of THE TRIBUNE. Over the counter it costs no more than a Sunday newspaper; if you prefer the mail order method, the Public Service office will fill orders promptly at 13 cents [coins or stamps].

We are often asked how this book is prepared, and if the type is saved from the daily columns, and who arranges the items in order, etc. So prepare to read a little essay on the art of Line-Booking. The procedure represents a tricky and unusual problem in editing and publishing.

No, the type is not saved, and it's not the same kind of type. It's a complete job of resetting.

Every day we save a column for the Line Book file, and at the end of every month we clip freely. These snippets are filed in envelopes, thus: Poems—long, medium, short; prose—leads by Collins, long, medium, short, last lines. By Sept. 1 we have about 1,500 items and then we begin to select, in the meantime continuing the clipping until Oct. 20. The process of selection is a severe strain on the attention; an hour or two a day is all we can stand.

As we select we begin to paste clippings on sheets of copy paper, but not at random. We try to find relations or contrasts in themes; in other words, to form a pattern rather than a jumble. We shuffle sheets and clippings until we get paste in our fingernails, our eyebrows, and our hair; and then we call it a day and wonder if the job will ever be finished.

While we are pasting we are also counting lines, for each line in the original represents approximately a line in the new type, and there are about 60 lines to the page, with no "turns" except on pages 1 and 33. In other words, while preparing "copy" we are also "making up" the book, in a rough way, often leaving space for fillers. Finally, after solving the special problems of the first, middle, and last pages, we arrange the sheets in appropriate order, number them from 1 to 64, and send them to the composing room.

Let's skip the story of proofreading, final makeup, page-proof reading, and electrotype-proof reading.

SONNETS TO SUPERMEN—II.
[Sir Isaac Newton, 1642-1727.]

The multitude go nightly to their beds
Like the tired marchers through a stony land—
Life and the world, a mass of tangled threads
From which relief in sleep was wisely planned.
Even the wealth, the rich diversity
Of ocean, mountains, stars, the ancient wood,
Troubles the brain with strange perversity,
Palls when requiring to be understood.
But one there was who burned the challenge out,
Plucked from discordant chaos noble laws,
Pushed through the fogs of hesitance and doubt
With knowledge freed from arbitrary cause.
Great minded Newton, scientist sublime,
Who almost touched eternity with time!

BAD TEETH MAY MEAN POOR HEALTH.

THE importance of normal teeth has been emphasized again and again, but perhaps we have not sensed to the full the necessity of removing diseased structures because of the possible after effects upon general health. More than a century ago Benjamin Rush of Philadelphia called attention to the fact that victims of rheumatism improved greatly following the extraction of decayed or abscessed teeth. For the last 20 years or so we have accepted the doctrine that infection within the mouth can endanger well being.

There is a fair degree of unanimity among research workers in the field of dental hygiene that two or three types of streptococci are common offenders, each of which may enter the blood stream. Now, some of these microbes may reach the kidneys via the circulation. In consequence, true inflammation may be set up within these vital organs and damage may be inflicted with actual destruction of the secreting machinery, including the finer blood vessels.

But this is not the only danger. Some investigators believe that the same factors—bacteria flowing in the blood stream—may involve the delicate capillaries of the stomach wall and aid and abet the formation of peptic ulcers. It is thought that clumps of organisms may actually plug minute channels of the circulation and, while abscess may or may not ensue, the loss of blood supply will lead to gangrene in extremely small areas, with the birth of an ulcer crater.

We must not forget that the lining of the heart [endocardium] may likewise be injured. With every attack of acute rheumatism, for example, the patient is put to bed promptly, movements are restricted, and diet and medication are designed to raise resistance. In spite of this the bits of tissue which comprise the heart valves may be attacked, with the development of tiny nodules which may persist for life. Thereafter the smooth closure of these gates is impossible because their edges are roughened. This accounts for the sound which the physician hears—a murmur.

Whether rheumatism can be traced to the teeth is questionable. Nevertheless, infected molars, diseased tonsils, or sinuses packed with microörganisms cannot fail to lower reserve even tho they are not included among the immediate causes. Certain it is that with the advent of rheumatic fever, organisms found frequently in the neighborhood of joints will reproduce the characteristic lesions.

We have no right to assume, therefore, that growing nests of germs anywhere in the body may be regarded with impunity. They are abnormal, vicious invaders not intended by nature to be entertained. The only safe rule to follow is to rout them out. But well planned attacks upon their lairs can only be made after all signs of trouble, such as temperature, swelling, etc., have subsided.

It is safe to say that numerous individuals are substantially below par because they are harboring somewhere within their bodies an almost insignificant focus of infection—one that is kept alive year after year. It becomes more active as a producer of toxins in the presence of a cold, an attack of flu, or some similar illness.

Minor breaks in one's hygienic program lead frequently to disaster. We acquire good habits and we observe sensible routines as to clothing as a means of protecting the system from chill and dampness. If one sits with wet feet for a half day, even in a comfortable office, the appearance of a sore throat the next morning need not be wondered at. But thinking persons will not indulge in these indiscretions because they have learned the consequences.

Many of us, however, will tolerate a tooth that grumbles now and then, feeling that there is no occasion to bother about it just so long as it does not bring incapacity. X-ray films of the dental apparatus are made so easily, with so little bother, and with but small expense that an annual checkup in this respect is well worth while.

WON'T CURE TUBERCULOSIS.

R. F. writes:

1. Do you agree with the theory that tuberculosis can be arrested by fever therapy?

2. Is it your opinion that this disease can be cured?

REPLY.

1. No. In fever therapy the body temperature cannot be raised safely above 106 and then for relatively short periods of time. This temperature will not kill tubercle bacilli.

2. Yes. Many cases respond to rest alone. In others, some form of pneumothorax will hasten recovery greatly.

HANDS UP—IT'S A HABIT.

R. R. writes: Why is it that I cannot fall asleep unless I have my arms above the head?

REPLY.

This is a habit—your method of relaxing. Years ago it was thought that any one who so indulged was a victim of heart disease. There is no truth in this saying.

USUALLY NERVOUSNESS.

N. U. writes: What causes a persistent sensation of tightness around the waistline?

REPLY.

Nervousness is the most common cause. Occasionally a true nerve disorder may be responsible.

IS DRAMSHOP ACT A RACKET?

Chicago, Nov. 25.—I think dramshop suits [of which I have heard] are becoming a racket, second only to the heart balm racket. The retailer of alcoholic beverages, under the dramshop act, should first be a chemist to be able to judge whether a customer will walk out intoxicated after having a short beer or walk out strictly sober after drinking a quart of whiskey. The customer should also file an affidavit, before being served, that his decision to beat up his wife or mother-in-law is not due to the drink he is about to be served, but rather on general principles. He should also state the amount his wife receives as support; swear that he did not nor will he have a drink in any other establishment.

According to the act, the burden of proof rests on the retailer sued. He must prove, without perjuring himself, that of the several hundred customers he serves daily, the plaintiff is one who was not served, and if he did serve him that it was not the drink he served him but the drinks the customer might have had before entering or after leaving his place that brought on the grounds for the suit.

I have heard of people suffering bad effects from overdoses of headache tablets and other remedies the druggist sells, yet the druggist is not sued. I have heard of people who did not feel very good after smoking strong cigars, but no one sued the shopkeeper. Why is the licensed retail liquor dealer any different?

STATE CIVIL SERVICE.

Riverside, Nov. 24.—You print a letter condemning the state civil service. Let me say a few words. On March 24, 1938, I took one of the exams. On July 27, 1939, I received my grade. As there were over 38,000 papers to be graded this does not seem an unreasonable interval. On Aug. 8, 1939, in response to a letter to the commission, I was informed my name was 75th on the eligible list. On Oct. 21 I received a letter notifying me I had four days either to accept or reject a permanent position. On Oct. 23 I reported to the personnel officer here in Chicago and on Oct. 25 I was at work. I think no candidate was discriminated against because of race, creed, or political affiliations, and that an impartial investigation will bear this out.

FROM A YOUNG ENGLISHMAN.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Here's a quotation from a letter I recently received from a close friend, a young Englishman who is expecting to serve with the British army in France before long, after which he expects to return to his university to continue his studies for the British diplomatic service:

"As far as I can see, all the fine ideals we are supposed to be fighting for have been made to look silly by Russia's annexation of eastern Poland. I had no doubt we could beat Germany. It would be a bloody affair, no doubt, but I thought we should win in the end. But how can we even hope to clear Russia out of Poland? Yet we cannot escape our obligations to Poland without losing all we are supposed to be fighting for. I honestly cannot see the way out.

"Another thing worrying me is what is going to happen to Germany if we win. The government refuses to be tied down to any specific war aim. We are told that this is a war against Hitlerism and aggression and not the German people, yet it takes me all the time I have to combat anti-German sentiment which is gradually but surely increasing among a certain type of person. It is, of course, largely due to ignorance, but is not being made any better by some rather thoughtless propaganda which is being put about at present. One hears continually that we treated the Germans too leniently in 1919, that this time we must hit them so hard that they can never rise again! And we are a civilized nation."

WANTS THE BILLS ITEMIZED.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Today's article, "Should a Doctor Itemize His Bill," brings up a subject that has invited attention for years. Opening an unitemized bill is a good deal like a slap in the face. Its bland assumption that a patient has not common sense enough to want to know just what he is paying for is unflattering.

Unfortunately, the man of average income cannot regard money with the doctors' evident detachment, and the money spent for medical service is quite as hard earned as that which he pays out for Dr. Cutter's "groceries."

How the myth ever started that it was not "the thing" to question a doctor's bill is a mystery, but we should be enlightened enough in this day to put an end to it.

A patient is entirely within his rights in wanting an itemized bill and he should receive it as a matter of course, without having to ask for it.

HIGH SCHOOL HOME WORK.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The present system which allows high school teachers to force their pupils to engage in exhaustive hours of home work, sometimes taking the pupil six to eight hours to complete, after arduous hours at school, should be checked up by the superintendent of schools.

Such tactics have caused me to withdraw my daughter from the public school system and enter her in the private schools, where more tolerance and understanding prevail.

To allow her to remain in the public schools might seriously injure her health, for in the desire to "get ahead" she has nearly reached the hysterical stage.

SNUBS FOR AN OLDER MAN.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—A man of 53 who by the grace of God and his own ability has an office position where nearly a score of young men hold forth.

Never would I have believed such inconsideration could be shown an older person. Snubs I must take with a smile, remarks about old fossils and their proper place in the world. While I sit over my ledgers, seldom leaving the desk, these lads take time to go out and smoke and have what they term a "snifter." This is all viewed leniently by the one in charge, who evidently believes youth needs to have its fling.

Cannot the younger generation understand they too will some time reach the "fossil" age? Why should not the older men and women who, by force of circumstance must still be in the business world, be treated with respect and tolerance?

HEAD RESTS AND WHY.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—I have hit on a bright idea which the public would appreciate. Who knows, my name may go down in history for this suggestion: a head rest on the order of those you have seen on dentists' chairs, to be installed on the back of every seat in the elevated trains or street cars for the people who like to take a little nap on their way home from work. This would prevent them nodding back and forth and sideways and then finally nestling down on some one's shoulder.

I could overlook this where the ladies are concerned, but the men, never.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Nov. 28, 1914.

[123d day of world war; 39th day of present war.]

LONDON.—Great Britain has lost three more vessels to the enemy, all within a short distance of the home coast. The large collier Khartoum was blown up by a mine. The steamers Malchite and Primo were sunk by submarines. There was no loss of life.

PANAMA.—Capt. Odland of the American steamer St. Helens reported that it had been fired on by the British cruiser Berwick for failing to heave to as quickly as was expected. The freighter was searched and released.

PETROGRAD.—The Russians now are reported pressing inward with the object of inclosing a great part of the German army, which is halted within a crooked triangle between Lowicz, Lodz, and the Koluski railway junction. Official confirmation of the Russian advantage was lacking, however.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—The proclamation of a holy war against Great Britain, Russia, and France was published here. Signed by the sultan and 28 priests, it calls on the Moslem world to defeat the allies.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A thoro investigation of the efficiency of the American navy is contemplated by the house committee on naval affairs as a result of charges made to the committee against conduct of the navy by Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

MONEY LOANED.

Chicago, Nov. 2? [Legal Friend of the People].—Five years ago I loaned $600 to my uncle and aunt for their business. I did not get a note for the money, but gave them $200 cash and sent them checks for $400. They live outside of Chicago. About a year and a half later they gave me $300 in cash and they still owe me $300. My uncle got sick and just before he died he called his wife and son to his bedside to make a promise to pay me the $300 that they owe me. He died and left no will. He left a business and property to the wife and son, but they did not keep their promise.

1. Can I collect the amount due me?
2. Are the canceled checks as good as a note?
3. Is the wife responsible for husband's debts after death?
4. Can they refuse to pay even if called in court?

N. G. S.

1. You are entitled to collect if you can prove your claim, but under the Illinois evidence act, the testimony of the claimant is not admissible against a deceased estate. Hence, your chances of collecting would depend on what other evidence you may have.
2. We would not regard them as enough, standing alone, since you might have paid the money on a pre-existing debt rather than as a new loan.
3. Yes, for family expenses. No, for his business debts. We have answered your preceding questions in reliance on the statement that the loan was to both.
4. See preceding answers.

Meekers Will Give Party for Pioneer's Kin

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, who have been among Chicago's noted hosts for many years, are giving a very special party tonight. It is a dinner at the Casino for 40, all descendants, or the husbands and wives of descendants, of William N. Bentley, who came to Chicago 95 years ago.

Mr. Meeker is a great-grandson of the Chicago pioneer; Mrs. Eugene E. Griggs [a daughter of Mr. Bentley] was Mr. Meeker's grandmother.

William Bentley, who lived only four years after arriving in Chicago, came from New Lebanon, N. Y. He traveled in the most de luxe manner possible at that time: By coach to Albany, by canal boat to Buffalo, and by steamer to Chicago. The only other way of travel was by covered wagon.

Among the Meekers' guests tonight will be their son, Arthur Jr.; one of the three daughters, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, and her husband [the other two daughters live in California]; the former Margaret Meeker and her husband, James B. Forgan; the Richard Bentleys, the Stephen Hords, the Lawrence A. Meekers, and Mrs. Thomas G. McLaury. Mrs. McLaury is the oldest of the descendants. She is a first cousin of the late Mrs. Arthur B. Meeker.

Mrs. Forgan and Lawrence Meeker are children of Arthur Meeker's brother, the late George W. Meeker, and Mrs. Meeker, who lives in Chicago. Mrs. James Ransom Walker and Mrs. David Shields Cook, both of the Drake hotel, are Arthur Meeker's sisters.

Dinner Tonight on Opera Stage.

Two hundred and fifty Chicagoans and a dozen operatic stars will dine tonight as the guests of the Chicago City Opera company on the stage of the opera house. The stage will be set as the banquet scene from "Romeo and Juliet," the first opera given in the Auditorium 50 years ago.

Among the opera talent at the party will be Grace Moore, Lily Pons, Gladys Swarthout, Dusolina Giannini, Mobley Lushanya, Ernest McChesney, Henry Weber, Carlo Morelli, Giovanni Martinelli, Jan Kiepura, and Joseph Bentonelli.

A plan to guarantee the future of Chicago opera for a period of three years, at least, is to be presented to the guests. Mayor Kelly, Jason F. Whitney, Robert Hall McCormick, and Mrs. John Aiden Carpenter will be the speakers. Mrs. Carpenter is the chairman of a newly formed woman's committee that will assist in the drive for funds. Her co-chairmen are Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, and Mrs. Howard W. Fenton.

Praises Great Cast in Vivid Play of Death

"OUTWARD BOUND."

Drama in three acts and four scenes, by Sutton Vane. Presented by William A. Brady and the Playhouse company, in the Harris theater, Monday evening, Nov. 27, 1939.

THE CAST.

Scrubby.....Morgan Farley
Ann.....Diana Barrymore
Henry.....Henry Richards
Mr. Prior.....Harry Ellerbe
Mrs. Cliveden-Banks.....Florence Reed
Rev. William Duke....Stephen Courtleigh
Mrs. Midget.....Laurette Taylor
Mr. Lingley.....Louis Hector
Rev. Frank Thomson.Reynolds Denniston

BY CECIL SMITH.

"Outward Bound" took 16 years to reach the professional stage in Chicago with its eerie serio-comic questioning into the mysteries of death and the unknown, but it was worth waiting for. With an altogether extraordinary cast, headed by Laurette Taylor and Florence Reed, Sutton Vane's fantasy of a handful of dead folk sailing an unknown sea together toward an awesome destination still flies high on the wings of imagination; it still has the power to interrupt the placidity of our routine thinking and to weave an emotional spell that lasts long after the descent of the final curtain.

Seven human beings, a motley assortment, start out together on the fateful cruise toward heaven and hell. Half the strength of the play lies in the vivid, dissecting realism with which these people are revealed as the awareness that they are dead steals over them.

Somewhere between half and nine-tenths of the gripping, inescapable power of the present performance comes from the unusual capacity of the players to etch their separate characters with sharp theatrical skill without once marring a perfect harmony of total mood.

To Laurette Taylor, emerging at last from a regrettable retirement, falls the touching rôle of Mrs. Midget. Her Cockney scrubwoman, dressed in self-effacing, old fashioned black, and plaintively hoping for a heaven in which she may some day find the renegade son who spent all her frail resources, is the undisputed heroine of the evening. A bit of the wistfulness of "Peg o' My Heart" still lingers with her, and the passing years have not hidden the fresh sweetness of her face.

Florence Reed, with blindingly brilliant effectiveness, offers a brittle and heartless lampoon of Mrs. Cliveden-Banks. A stock character out of English comedy of manners, this selfish, faithless wife from the upper crust loses her hollow, vindictive wit in the face of a crisis she is not brave enough to withstand.

Despite the superb projection of these two stars, the surrounding rôles all have exceptional force and warmth —Harry Ellerbe's tense, neurotic, but charming drunkard; Morgan Farley's compassionate steward, the only one in the boat who is already dead; Louis Hector's crooked, boastful business man; Stephen Courtleigh's earnest young minister; Henry Richards' young boy who is not dead yet; and not least of all, the vibrant honesty of Diana Barrymore, John's daughter, as Henry's sweetheart, who along with Henry is still in the half-way between death and life.

That they a dozen blossoms will grow
I wait to be convinced.

With interest breathless and absurd

About Miss Gertrude Stein.

A nice picture of Miss Gertrude Stein in her seventeenth century château at Belley, France, is brought back by Dr. Samuel M. Steward, instructor in English at Loyola university, who visited her there this summer. . . . Miss Stein working in the garden and walking her dogs. . . . Miss Stein sitting in one of the two wicker rocking chairs that are part of the furnishings of the drawing room, hung with paintings by Sir Francis Rose. . . . Miss Stein entertaining Cecil Beaton and the Henry Luces at tea and fuming because they were late. (She herself is always on time.) . . . Miss Stein hastening to arrange for 200 gallons of gasoline from the local garageman when war was imminent.

The expatriate American writer, who is considering coming to America for a second lecture tour, Dr. Steward says, expresses frequently her opinion that the trouble with American writers is that they are "haunted by the spoken word." Also that you can get a physical sense from a syllogism. We leave that thought with you to ponder over.

Cuff Notes.

John Barrymore took his daughter, Diana, who made her bow to a Chicago theater audience last night in Outward Bound, to the Moulin Rouge opening Sunday evening. She has the dark hair and sparkling dark eyes of her mother, Mrs. Harrison Tweed (Michael Strange). . . . Victor Moore and William Gaxton of Leave It to Me were there, too, in a box, Mr. Moore looking exactly the timid, kindly, henpecked little man he is in Leave It to Me.

Red haired Chicago composer Leo Sowerby introduced Italian composer Mario Castelnuova-Tedesco to fellow Cliff Dwellers at luncheon yesterday. Born the same year, works by both of them are to be played by the Saidenberg Symphonietta at the Good-man this evening. They were friends in Rome. Tedesco learned English so he could read Shakespeare in the original, has written many orchestra numbers for Shakespearean themes, and has named two sons for Shakespeare characters, Lorenzo and Petruccio.

Gloria Strang, a young Chicago artist who lives at the Three Arts club, painted a portrait of Katharine Cornell while she was in town and Miss Cornell bought the picture.

First Santa Claus story of the season: A little lad who was watching a street corner Santa Claus in the loop jingle his bell and wave at the children whispered to his mother: "Wouldn't he be embarrassed if he knew I didn't believe in him."

Dilemma.

Some friends of Edith Mason sent her a Thanksgiving day telegram the morning after she sang Madame Butterfly with the opera. It was one of those rhymes to be sung over the wire to the recipient. The girl at the telegraph office got Miss Mason on the telephone, then gave up and read the message.

"I couldn't sing it to you, Miss Mason," she said timidly, almost in tears.

Newest Party Dresses Flash, Billow, Swish

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Some of the most exciting new party dresses designed for young slips of things come with such modest price marks that they'll startle the veteran shopper. Ethereal net by the yards and yards makes billowing skirts that accent mere scraps of bodices. Slipper satin that gleams even in harsh daylight is the big glamor fashion note of the hour. Coverall costumes in this shining satin are plenty effective for the budgeteer's cash supply.

Waistlines are whittled down by the low hip fullness of the very full skirts and the long fitted tight sleeves. Hunter's green, stop light red, white, pink, and blue all shine most enticingly in these new gowns of satin.

Romantic pale gray, always expensive looking, is used in some knockout dinner and party dresses cut with a definitely clinging silhouette. The thick crêpes fall graciously in long lines and in soft folds in the molded bodice; then, as the only contrast, a wide glittering midriff section flashes with sequins or multicolored beads.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This is very much Sacha Guitry's picture. The French actor-playwright-director wrote "Champs-Elysées," directed it and in it plays three rôles.

It was Monsieur Guitry's idea to show in panorama three centuries in the history of France with the Champs-Elysés, famous Paris boulevard as a sort of unifier. He has succeeded in crowding a great deal into one movie. Rather too much, for, after a while, the picture drags.

The action starts in a schoolroom, where the teacher, a great-grandson of Louis XV, decides to intrigue his pupils' interest with some French history, presented in story book fashion.

So, starting with the days of Louis XIII., when Concini, Florentine adviser of Marie de Medici, gave birth to the idea of the royal park cut in the forest, which was later to become the Champs-Elysées, the master tells a colorful tale, much of it relating to the loves and liasons of kings, and being, if you ask me, highly improper thought fodder for little boys.

The royal park becomes a public domain where taverns flourish, duels are fought and the people make love and make merry. . . . As its aspect changes, one king gives place to another and then another. Bonaparte comes and goes. . . . And so, to the end of the narrative when the schoolmaster presents his own 10 year old son to the other boys as one in whom there courses the blood of a king, an emperor, a revolutionist, and a republican. But, tho his ancestry is confused [says papa], every drop of blood is patriotic and the lad's watchword that of all Frenchmen—"Vive la France."

Backgrounds and costumes are fascinating and the film sports no end of pretty women. . . . English titles are explanatory. The acting is suave and photography pleasing.

See you soon.

Neat and Smart

Before and after a little hair styling. The young girls are at last wearying of the conventional long hairdress that falls around the neck in a formless mass. Hair of this length can easily be styled. Front hair can be brought up and off the ears, back hair gathered in a cluster of ringlets topped with a George Washington hair bow. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Pace Too Fast, but the Opera Has Flagstad

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Edwin McArthur, an American lad whom Kirsten Flagstad raised from obscurity to national renown when she made him her official accompanist and conductor, last night directed a performance of "Tannhäuser" in which his powerful friend appeared as Elisabeth. This presentation marked the beginning of the fifth week of the Chicago City Opera company's seven week season at the Civic Opera house.

The performance had so much drive to it that it seemed at times as if the conductor's principal idea was to get "Tannhäuser" over with as quickly as possible. This, it might be argued, is a praiseworthy purpose, but there is no doubt that several excellent passages suffered greatly thru this haste.

Take the march in the second act, for instance. There is some glorious music here, especially in the chorale-like sections. Performed at such a furious pace, the majesty and dignity of the piece quite disappeared. Some of it, in fact, turned into a cakewalk.

But all this aside, Mme. Flagstad made her usual great appeal when she swept onto the stage for her "Dich teure halle." The song had the magnificent, long breathed Flagstad phrases and the imperious Flagstad ring.

The Tannhäuser was sonorous, competent Paul Althouse. Elen Longone, George Czaplicki, and Douglas Beattie sang Venus, Wolfram, and the Landgrave, respectively. The Littlefield ballet made the scene in the grotto a pleasant orgy.

Because chorus men make terrifying foes, and because this column recently carried a less than enthusiastic comment on the company's male chorus, acknowledgment is made here of the fact that the pilgrims' song last night was beautiful of texture and noble of line.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Vox Populi.

Dear Mr. Sullivan: In your "Reviewing Stand" re your vivid comments on the death of the earl of Essex in "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex," may I recall in this connection two points of enormous dramatic value: One is that fateful ring which I saw in a little receptacle on the sarcophagus of Queen Elizabeth in Westminster Abbey. The other, the scene of Lady Nottingham's deathbed confession that she had withheld the ring. The queen, in her agony of remorse and despair, shook the dying countess in her bed and cried: "God may forgive you, but I never can."

H. M. HERRICK, PH.D.,
Rockford, Ill.

Dear Ed: In a recent column, on courtroom scenes, you recall William Powell swallowing a vial of poison in "The Great Mouthpiece." It is my recollection that it was Warren William, not Bill Powell. Haven't you become confused over Powell's appearance in "The Lawyer Man?"

JOE STOUT,
Balaban & Katz.

Dear Joe: Not only confused but bewildered. Warren William played the part as you and too many others have pointed out.

Dear Ed: Just read your full page story about me and Tyrone in THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE, and I want to thank you very much for the nice things you said about me. You are one friend in Hollywood on whom I know I can count. SONJA HENIE.

Dear Edward: I want to take this opportunity of thanking you sincerely for the very kind things you have said about me and my pictures. As you probably know, I've had a long hard pull since all of my trouble of a few years back, and it sorta makes you feel good to know that one of your friends from the New York days hasn't forgotten you. Thanks so much and, believe me, it's from the heart. BUSBY BERKELEY.

Dear Mr. Sullivan: Your discussion of famous trials of the movies and real life was very interesting. The mental attraction of trials, I think, is that a trial enlists the regard of people for others in the toil of humanity, their sympathy for those wrongly accused, their mental revolution against despotic or dictatorial authority, but you omitted the trial of Jesus Christ before the Sanhedrin and the judgment of Pontius Pilate, and I am astonished at finding such an omission, for generally you have been very astute, clever, and shrewd in your deliberations and writings. I enjoy your column even tho I do not always agree with same.

W. A. RUEGG,

Dear Ed: A year ago, in Hollywood, we promised you that we'd get revenge for the Southern California beating. Sorry to disappoint you last Saturday. They have a great team. Notre Dame sends you its very best. to thank you very much for the nice things you said about me. You are

Danger on the Border

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

[Copyright: 1939: By Frederick R. Bechdolt]

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard speeds west by car after finding that the sample of ore sent to him by his sick friend, Dillon, is rich in gold. In Copper City he picks up two strange companions, Mrs. Sebastian, who owns a Mexican roadhouse, and Louis Mestres, who claims to be a bus jumper. They leave just after the pay car of the Golconda mine. In a lonely spot they come upon the car—all occupants murdered and the three holdup men still on the scene. They chase Leonard's car with a machine gun. Mestres drops tacks in the road and stops their pursuit. He recognizes one bandit as the mine's paymaster, Paul Collins, a crooked local assayer, tests Dillon's ore, and gives him a false report. He enlists the aid of another rascal, Kent, to cheat Dillon. Dillon breaks the sad news to Pat, an orphaned girl who owns an old hotel, and who had staked him; then goes off to collect his tools. Arriving at Pat's hotel Leonard doesn't get a chance to ask her about Dillon. He sees her slip out in the night with a gun. Distrusting Kent, Collins sends two hirelings to follow Dillon and locate his claim. Kent, suspicious, puts Papago, an old watchman, on the trail. Taylor, the Golconda's paymaster, arranges with Kent to have Leonard blamed for his crime. In Collins' office Pat finds the correct report on Dillon's ore, but Kent and Collins discover her there. Kent kidnaps the girl in his car—her old Chinese servant clings to the spare tire. Leonard goes to see Mrs. Sebastian and walks into a trap set to capture him. Mestres is hobnobbing with one of the bandits and Mrs. Sebastian pretends not to know him.

INSTALMENT XIV.

THE LAW OF FLIGHT.

As Leonard zigzagged his way, holding to a northerly course, halting at every corner to look around it for some sign of the men who were hunting him, he considered his predicament.

In San Ilario he was a fugitive, and if he were captured, he had a pretty definite idea as to what was going to happen to him. There was an old rule which had been in force for many years before the revolutions when the Rurales were riding the line—the so-called Ley de Fuego, the law of flight. By its tenets a prisoner who was striving to escape took his own chances of a slug in the back as he was fleeing.

And by its practice, flight was no necessity as far as the officers were concerned. In other words, the idea was to shoot an unpopular captive and to make a report that he had died while running away. In such isolated communities as this, where the authorities were not under strict supervision by the national government—and therefore still corrupt in many instances—the practice had not been abandoned.

"So," Leonard reflected, "the best thing I can do is to get back to the American side. I'll take my chances there. I'll look up the mining company and I'll tell my story."

He had reached the fringe of scattered houses at the edge of town, the lights of Golconda were twinkling beyond the open plain. He saw the two lonely specks of yellow radiance which marked the customs shacks. He heard the humming of a motor behind him and the glare of the headlights bathed him, his shadow shook and took new shapes upon the level roadway. The car roared up to him and the tires shrieked as it came to a sudden stop. A voice said:

"Ride, friend?" It was a smooth voice, with the thickness of heavy crude oil. But Leonard was not paying any attention to its quality, he was thinking that, the chances were, this car would pass the customs as the other car had passed earlier in the evening, without inspection. And that, he told himself, was a break.

"O. K." He started toward the car. "Much obliged."

The two men on the seat changed places, the front door opened and one of them stepped out. He said:

"You ride in front, friend. I'll get in behind." As Leonard drew near he turned his face away. That seating arrangement which he had proposed was a natural precaution to take with a stranger who might turn out to be a highwayman. Leonard climbed into the front, the door behind him banged shut. He felt something hard pressing his shoulders and he saw the man beside him smiling.

A little man, thin shouldered, with a swollen midsection. His hair was black, and in the faint light of the dash lamp his face showed, dead white.

Kent backed the car and he was starting forward again, beginning to make the turn which would head it toward San Ilario. Leonard said:

"I suppose that's a gun you're trying to shove thru my back." The man in the rear seat laughed unpleasantly.

"If you've got any doubt about it, just try and start something," he suggested.

The car started forward with a lurch. It was, Leonard reflected, not so much luck as it was large odds against him, that had resulted in this last development. He was beginning to believe that the most of the population on both sides of the line here must have been interested in the holdup of the pay car in one way or another.

There were the Golconda company's paymaster, the two thugs with the sub-machine guns, the constabulary of San Ilario, Louis Mestres, Mrs. Sebastian, and this pair in the car whom he had never seen before—all of them either active participants in the crime itself or in his capture—and the latter, of course, meant protection of the real criminals. He regarded the man beside him more closely as he spoke again.

"It might interest you to know that I'm representing International Gold and Copper," he said. "They know I'm here, and if anything should happen to me they'll start an investigation which will blow the lid off of that robbery this afternoon."

The first portion of that statement seemed to catch the one to whom it was addressed, his face tightened and his eyes narrowed, but he made no reply.

They were nearing the main portion of the town now. The car slowed up at an intersection and came to a stop. Kent honked the horn and thrust his head out of the window. The man in the rear seat pressed the muzzle of the revolver a little harder against Leonard's spine.

Two men detached themselves from the shadows of a doorway on the opposite corner and came across the street. One of them wore a shabby olive drab uniform and flat topped cap. His coat was unbuttoned and the braid facings were badly frayed. The other was an American, who had the general appearance of a deputy sheriff or a small town chief of police, either of them would have been the better for a shave.

The Mexican was above middle height, but the thickness of his chest made his stature seem brief. He had an enormous black mustache, its waxed ends were turned up at a sharp angle. He wore a star which looked as if it were gold but was, no doubt, plated. As he drew near the car he raised one hairy hand to the visor of his cap. He started to say something but Kent cut him short, not too short, however, to prevent Leonard from recognizing the deep bass voice which he had heard delivering commands in Mrs. Sebastian's night club a half hour or so ago, or from hearing Kent's name.

"I think," said Kent, "you're looking for this man, Teniente."

The huge officer glanced at Leonard and his dark face became alive. He reached into his pocket and brought forth a whistle, he blew three long blasts. He nodded to his companion and the two of them stepped to the car door. The Mexican lieutenant threw it open.

"Come out," he said, and added, "mucho pronto!" The other held the muzzle of his carbine against Leonard's back as the latter obeyed. The door slammed and Kent threw in the gears, the sedan made a U-turn and roared off northward.

Footsteps sounded on the wooden sidewalks. The members of the posse appeared in twos and threes. They gathered in the middle of the street, forming a circle of which Leonard and his two custodians were the center. There were, in all, a round dozen, and of these four were wearing portions of uniforms mixed with civilian clothes. Among the remainder Leonard saw several whose garb proclaimed them as miners.

Louis Mestres and the highwayman with the rabbit chin were keeping close together at the outer edge of the group, and the little paymaster of the Golconda Copper company edged his way into the middle of the ring. He glanced swiftly at the prisoner, and as swiftly averted his eyes. He nodded to the lieutenant.

"That's your man," he announced. "I saw him plainly on the bank, pumping a machine gun just before the car turned over."

"Some day," Leonard said, "you're going to do time for that." The American officer jabbed the muzzle of the carbine into his back with a force that nearly knocked him from his feet.

Dressing Baby Requires Skill and Gentleness

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Did you ever see some one have hold of a baby's hand when he wanted to pull it away? Did you notice how the baby struggled and pulled? Then, if the person kept on holding it, did you ever notice how red the baby got as he struggled harder, and finally cried with what gave every evidence of anger?

If you hold his head of his feet, the same thing is true. He simply can't stand having you interfere with his freedom of movement. He may not want to do anything with that particular hand or foot, but whether he does or not he evidently considers it his own sacred business and you're not to hamper him in any way.

To all intents and purposes, this is why so many babies raise such a rumpus when they're dressed or undressed, or bathed or made ready for their outings. Each one of these operations involves the baby being repeatedly held or restrained in his freedom of movement.

But all babies don't cry thru these necessary performances. While some of this acquiescence may be accounted for by a natural docility in the baby, most often it is because the baby is deftly handled.

Roughness, a hard or heavy touch, a too tight hold of his hands when they go thru his sleeves, or of his feet and legs when his stockings are being put on—such things as these makes a baby conscious that his freedom is being tampered with and make him cry or howl his protest.

Facile Tongue Is a Big Help in Gaining Friends

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: I'm 17, have red hair, weigh 145 pounds, and am 5 feet 11 inches tall, which proves, doesn't it, that I am not too unattractive? But my trouble is that when I meet a group of boys and girls I know, all I can do is to tip my hat and bid them the time of day. I don't know how to start a conversation. When I go to a dance, all I can think of to say to a girl is: "It was a nice day today, wasn't it?" or something of that sort. Miss Blake, I don't want to be a lemon, or a stick-in-the-mud, or unpopular. Can you tell me how to carry on an interesting conversation? JOHN."

No time like the present to make a stab at it, so here are a few conversational tidbits to work on until you can branch out with a few ideas of your own. You've heard of a "line," haven't you? A "line"—a good one—can entangle the heart of a fair damsel. The first thing we'd advise you NOT to do is to talk about the weather, unless, of course, there is a hurricane or a cyclone. We'd advise you, instead, to look deeply into the eyes of the young lady with whom you're dancing, note their soft color, and tell her what pretty eyes she has. This flattery should pave the way for another smooth compliment a few minutes later.

But, in the meantime, you can talk about your school activities, the radio programs in which you are interested [asking her what ones she likes], discuss news items noted in the daily newspapers, books, magazine articles, recent movies, etc. Or, it may be you can make conversation a little more personal by talking nicely about your mutual friends, mutual interests, or whatever subject occurs to you.

It's Rabbit Time, but We Mean 'Welsh'

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

It's rabbit weather again—Welsh rabbit weather, I mean. Chilly noons and evenings bring on an appetite for that ancient, cheesy delicacy.

Any good meltable cheese may be used in a rabbit. The various American cheeses, pimento flavored ones, sharp cheddars, and the processed old English are good candidates. Swiss cheese and Liederkranz are approved by many rabbit addicts.

Connoisseurs differ about beer. Some swear that a rabbit is not a rabbit unless it is flavored with beer. Others say that a good cheese doesn't need the help of beer in zipping its flavor. Take your choice. We have both recipes.

Standard Recipe for Welsh Rabbit.

[Serves four.]

½ pound cheese
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon flour
½ cup milk
Salt
Dash of cayenne pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
Few drops Worcestershire sauce

Choose a good cheese which will melt readily. Blend butter and flour, add milk and seasonings, and cook in the top of a double boiler until thickened and smooth. Add cheese, cut into small pieces. Stir until cheese has melted. Serve at once, on slices of crisp toast. Garnish with strips of bacon, if desired. Vary this recipe by changing the kind of cheese used.

Welsh Rabbit with Beer.

[Serves six.]

1 pound sharp, aged American cheese
½ cup beer or ale
1 teaspoon dry mustard
Dash of cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Shred cheese and combine with beer and seasonings in the top of a double boiler. Stir until cheese has melted and mixture is blended. Serve at once on toast.

George Rector's recipe for rabbit with beer calls for 2 eggs in addition to the other ingredients. The slightly beaten eggs are to be added last, stirred into the rabbit and the mixture cooked for a minute longer.

It will be observed that there is a difference between these two recipes. The first calls for a little flour; the second requires none. A rabbit which is made on a white sauce base, as is our standard recipe, is less difficult than a rabbit which has no white sauce stabilizer. The "real thing" probably has no sauce base, but it must be made quickly and served pronto if it isn't to curdle, thicken, or "string." Overcooking a rabbit is fatal.

Milk and beer aren't the only liquids in which to melt cheese for a rabbit. Tomato juice often is used, sauerkraut juice has been tried, wine is a possibility. Seasonings may be varied, too. Catsup, tabasco sauce, onion juice, and chili powder may be listed among the choices for a discriminating cook.

Sometimes anchovy or sardine paste is spread on toast before the hot sauce is poured.

"THE CHALLENGE" — In 1865 Edward Whymper climbed the Matterhorn after many unsuccessful attempts. The actual ascent was high drama, and with the incidents preceding the conquest, proved excellent material for a dramatic production. In "The Challenge," these incidents have been authentically recreated, climaxed by an actual scaling of the peak. The photography is superb, the acting competent, and the background a refreshing departure for eyes too familiar with American scenes. bers to view the masterpieces of Italian art hanging there.

Dr. Ulrich A. Middeldorf, acting chairman of the art department at the University of Chicago, will conduct a tour of the exhibit. Alfred E. Hamill will preside at the meeting. Assisting Mrs. Hamill as hostesses will be Countess Bolognesi, Mrs. Hambleton Kirk, Mrs. George L. Wilkerson, Miss Elizabeth McCormick, and Mrs. John M. Handley. Three pretty young members will act as ushers, Miss Anne Jay Bryant, Miss Mary Alice Bacon, and Miss Jane Stude.

Chauncey McCormick, who is responsible for having brought the famous paintings and sculpture to Chicago, is chairman of the board of directors of the society. He will be present tonight. Dr. Middeldorf is an authority on Renaissance painting and sculpture.

More Romantic News from U. of C.

The University of Chicago would seem to be Dan Cupid's favorite hunting grounds this fall, for yesterday an announcement was made of the engagement of one of the instructors in the mathematics department, Otto F. G. Schilling. Mrs. Michael J. Stanton of 3648 Lake Shore drive is making the formal announcement of the engagement of her daughter, Dorothy, to Mr. Schilling, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Otto Schilling of Apoldo, Germany.

Miss Stanton, a member of the Chicago Junior league, is a graduate of Radcliffe college and then studied two years in Paris and Rome. Her fiancé is a graduate of Trinity college at Cambridge, England. After coming to this country he continued his studies at Princeton and Johns Hopkins. The wedding will take place after Easter. Mrs. Stanton is inviting some of her friends to meet her daughter and future son-in-law next Sunday at tea time.

Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Gertrude Wassermann, daughter of Prof. Friedrich Wassermann of the University of Chicago and Mrs. Wassermann, to Edwin S. Fletcher Jr., an instructor in the department of physiology at the university. Last week Miss Damaris Kathryn Ames and Prof. Bernadotte E. Schmitt, and Miss Elisabeth Mann and Prof. Giuseppe A. Borgese were married.

Miss Marion Kuehn Becomes Bride.

Still another marriage with university connections is one that took place last Friday in Bond chapel with the Rev. Edward Scribner Ames officiating. The bride was Miss Marion Kuehn, daughter of Mrs. Harry Irving Staley of 2373 East 70th street. The bridegroom was John Scott Stevens, son of Dr. and Mrs. David Harrison Stevens of Montclair, N. J. Dr. Stevens, who was best man, formerly was professor of English and assistant to the president at the university. Now he is director of humanities for the Rockefeller Foundation of New York.

Mr. Stevens and his bride have gone to New Orleans on a wedding trip and will make their home on the south side. The bride attended the Starrett School for Girls and is a graduate of the University of Chicago, at which she was a member of Mortar Board. Mr. Stevens also was graduated from the university.

Daughter Is Born to Henry Fields.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Field at the Passavant hospital yesterday. The baby is to be named Marianna after Mr. Field's mother, Mrs. Algernon Burnaby of England, and her grandmother, Mrs. Jedediah H. Lathrop [Marianna Bryan]. Mrs. Burnaby, nee Field, always has been called Minna, but the Fields' baby is to be known by her full name. Mrs. Field, the former Placidia White Knowlton of Thomasville, Ga., has two other daughters, Patsy and Wendy. The daughter is Mr. Field's first child.

The many who annually enjoy Abbé Ernest Dimnet's visit to Chicago will be glad to learn that he is due tomorrow. As usual, he will divide his time in Chicago between the Max Epsteins and Mrs. Welch Dickinson. He is so busy lecturing, however, that he does not have much time for social engagements during his Chicago visits.

Hull House Shop Holds Sale Today.

The last pre-Christmas sale of goods from the Hull House shop will be held from 10 until 6 o'clock today at the Lake Forest home of Mrs. Robert A. Gardner. A number of "surprise" items will be on display. Some will be modeled by Miss Mary Gardner and Miss Margaret Hutchins.

D. A. R. President Guest of Illinois Members

Two hundred fifty Daughters of the American Revolution came from all parts of Illinois yesterday to a luncheon for Mrs. Henry M. Robert Jr. of Washington, D. C., president general, at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Robert is touring America in the interest of the national society's golden jubilee celebration next October.

The Housewife

It's a convenience to find a loaf of bread already sliced for you, but those slices are far too thick to make attractive little party sandwiches or Melba toast, so along comes a clever invention that turns the trick. It consists of a little kit which contains a very thin, sharp knife and a metal gadget which holds a single slice of this ready-sliced bread. With the slice held in the gadget it is simple to slice it in two, thus getting properly thin pieces of bread for making little rolled sandwiches or Melba toast. This slice-a-slice invention is brand new.

Paneling Is Distinctive

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

Paneling creates distinctive styling and lines for this daytime frock. The center front panel is narrow at the V and draped neckline, and broadens to points at the bustline. At the waist it is narrow and slim, and widens again gradually to the hemline. The sleeves, puffed at the shoulders, gradually become more slender as they extend to the wrists, or they may be short, above the elbow. This is a grand frock with which to wear costume jewelry. It makes up well in crêpe and sheer woolen in black, gray, blue, and misty or jewel tones.

Style No. 2147 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19. Size 15 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! For 15 cents buy the fall and winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Pattern for Mexican Motifs

BY NANCY CABOT.

Activities in Mexico generally are the same as those in any country, but the figures and costumes reveal a gay and carefree spirit which makes the people popular the world over. These figures are worked in outline and in vivid colors, and may be used on towels, curtains, tray cloths, or pillows, as well as for wall hangings.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the Mexican towels of the week, No. X-531, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

You can usually tell a good player by his habit of studying the dummy for a minute or so before playing to the opening trick. The value of such a perusal is so well known that few declarers with any claim to skill fail to employ it. What do the defenders usually do when declarer goes into this brief huddle? If the first glance assures them that the opening lead has not been totally disastrous both of them sit back thinking of the last movie they've seen or a hand they played last week, or something of that sort. They simply wait for declarer to make his play.

This, of course, is a terrific waste of a very important opportunity. Both defenders should try to determine what line of play probably will be adopted and what measures of defense should be taken. This often enables a defender to make a neat defensive play later on, without a fatal, telltale hesitation. Furthermore, the defense may stand or fall on the play to the first trick. Today's hand falls into the latter category.

West, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 diamond	1 spade	2 hearts
3 clubs	3 hearts	4 clubs	4 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding was spirited on both sides, but quite proper. East and West were unwilling to sacrifice at five clubs, since they were vulnerable against nonvulnerable opponents, a fact which might make the sacrifice more expensive than the loss of a game.

West opened the jack of spades, dummy played the queen, and East won with the ace—a fatal mistake. He returned the ten of spades and dummy won with the king. The jack of hearts was led for a finesse, West winning with the queen. West now was out of spades and could not give his partner the lead. His choice of a club return was as good as any, but South had the ace and won the trick. Declarer now finessed the queen of diamonds and led another trump from the dummy, picking up both adverse trumps. The ace of diamonds next was taken and a diamond conceded to West's king. This was the third and last trick for the defenders. West had to return a club, permitting declarer to ruff in dummy and discard the losing spade from his own hand.

If East had been concentrating on the hand when the opening lead was made he would have had a better chance to defeat the contract. West's failure to support spades at any time, in addition to his choice of the spade jack, made it apparent that he did not have a four card spade holding. East could therefore feel sure that failure to play the spade ace at the first trick would not cost anything unless South could discard all his remaining spades on dummy's diamonds before losing the lead. This danger also was not to be feared, for if South could obtain such discards his contract was unassailable and the loss of one spade trick would be of no importance. Therefore East should have let dummy's spade queen hold the first trick and should have discarded the spade ten to encourage a continuation of the suit whenever West should regain the lead. This would have defeated the contract. West eventually would gain the lead with either a trump or the diamond king and then a spade lead would produce two spade tricks instead of the one which the actual defense obtained.

Tired After a Busy Day? Try These Tricks

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"When you come home tired out from a day at the office or shopping, and have a big evening date, don't reach for the telephone and break the date. Try, instead, this triple pickup treatment that no bartender, however expert, can mix for you," advises Ellen Ballon, concert pianist, a vivid, vital little person, who measures just five feet in her stocking feet, and who never seems to get tired. This is her recipe for that "gone feeling," and one hour is all that is needed to make this "cocktail" work.

And into that hour goes:

1. A hot bath. Turn off the light [set the alarm clock, if necessary], so that the eyes may rest, too. Get into the bath, relax, and soak.

2. Lots of kitchen salt. Fill your hands full of ordinary kitchen salt and rub the entire body vigorously. Use no soap and lots of salt. It's as invigorating as a dip in the ocean. Rinse off under a tepid shower and follow with an alcohol rub.

3. Astringent. Take three soft linen napkins, saturate them with your favorite astringent [Miss Ballon keeps a bottle of astringent in the refrigerator at all times], bind two of the napkins on your wrists and forearms so that they look like wristlets. Bind the third one around the back of your neck. These are the spots where the nerves are closest to the surface.

4. Then lie down flat on the bed and place a couple of pillows under your knees to elevate the feet. Turn off the light again and set the alarm so you'll wake up in time to dress, for you are almost certain to go right off to sleep. If you sleep for only ten minutes, you will arise feeling so refreshed that you'll hop right up when the alarm goes off.

AMUSEMENTS.

INDIANA NAMES JIM LOGAN MOST VALUABLE

CONQUERORS OF 4 CHAMPS SEEK C. Y. O. TITLES

16 to Battle in Final Bouts Tomorrow.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Among the 16 boys who will fight for Catholic Youth organization championships tomorrow night in the Stadium are four who have reached the finals by overthrowing former titleholders. These are Charley Alicoate, Jack Ballangee, Isaiah Wells, and Harry Sparrow.

Charley Alicoate.

The battle for the featherweight championship should be particularly spectacular because two of these boys — Alicoate and Ballangee—will meet in the final in that division. While slugging his way thru the earlier rounds of the tournament, Alicoate defeated Frank Bausone, last year's 118 pound open champion, and also eliminated Bob La Savita, 1938 featherweight novice title holder.

Ballangee whipped Wayne Fidler, last season's featherweight titleholder in the course of his march to the final. The Alicoate-Ballangee bout, therefore, will be a battle between two confident, seasoned fighters, both of whom will be spurred on by chances for their first open division championship.

Wells to Oppose Pazy.

The other two conquerors of last year's titleholders are Wells, who put out Hiner Thomas in a middleweight semifinal and Sparrow, who scored a decision over Joe O'Connell in a welterweight bout in the same round.

In the finals Wells will be paired with James Pazy of St. John Canisius parish and Sparrow will oppose William Goldsmith, one of two last year's titleholders who have survived to this stage of the tournament.

Old timers who remember Billy Stift, a light heavyweight of the first rank 30 years ago, will be particularly interested in the heavyweight final in which James Stift, a member of the same family, will meet Cornelius Young. Billy Stift fought against Jack Johnson, Tommy Ryan, Jack Root, and other first class performers. He subsequently was a member of the Chicago police department and was on the retired list at the time of his death several weeks ago.

Alicoate Wins 30 Out of 40.

Alicoate, who resides at 6236 North Campbell avenue, is returning to amateur boxing competition after a layoff of several years. He fought in C. Y. O. tournaments in 1935 and 1936 but was unable to get very far. In his comeback, however, he has shown marked improvement. He is a cool, level headed boxer with a particularly strong defense.

Alicoate is 20 years old. He has competed in 40 bouts, winning 30 of them. He attended Lane Tech for two years and is now interested in the sheet metal trade.

Ballangee is comparatively new at the boxing game but to date he has done everything he has set out to do, competing in 13 bouts and winning all of them. Three of those victories were by knockouts. He is a graduate of Mount Carmel High school, where he was captain of the boxing team. He is 17 years old, resides at 1908 East 72d street and is now a student at Wilson Junior college.

The 32 finalists—16 novices and 16 open division fighters—went thru their last boxing sessions yesterday.

Hanna, Ind., Prep Coach Resigns; Starts Mystery

La Porte, Ind., Nov. 27 [Special].—Considerable mystery tonight surrounded the resignation of Charles D. Palmer, popular basketball coach and teacher for 17 years at the township grade-high school at Hanna, a small town about 20 miles south of here.

Palmer, who is 37 years old, formally resigned last Wednesday to "accept another job elsewhere." Trustee Ellis Dowell, who accepted the resignation, said last night that the resignation was voluntary.

At the same time it was reported that fingerprint tests might have influenced Palmer's resignation. Trustee Dowell asserted he knew nothing about them. So far as he was concerned, the Palmer matter was closed, he said. Deputy Prosecutor Alvin Smith of La Porte county, said he had heard of Palmer's resignation, but he didn't believe there was anything in it to interest his office—unless, he added, some one formally demanded an inquiry.

Palmer himself made his resignation more enigmatic.

"I quit for the good of the school," he said, "after a lot of false rumors were circulated in town concerning me. It looks like a set job to me. I intend to fight back. I'm a victim of petty gossip."

DR. NAISMITH, BASKETBALL'S INVENTOR, DIES

Succumbs at Age of 78 to Heart Attack.

Lawrence, Kas., Nov. 28, Tuesday.—(AP)—Dr. James A. Naismith, 78 years old, inventor of basketball, died early today of heart disease following a cerebral hemorrhage.

Dr. Naismith, professor emeritus of physical education at Kansas university, suffered a critical hemorrhage Nov. 19, but rallied and returned home from a hospital last Wednesday. He was stricken with a heart attack Friday and had been in a coma since noon yesterday.

From the obscurity of an instructor in physical education, Dr. Naismith became known around the world as the father of basketball.

The game, originated as a means of winter exercise for a class at the Y. M. C. A. Training school in Springfield, Mass., now Springfield college, met with popularity from the beginning. Unlike other games which evolved from middle century sports or resulted from years of changes and perfections, basketball came into being almost on the spur of the moment. That was back in 1891, when the physical training class at Springfield consisted of 18 men.

Naismith Solves Problem.

Dr. Luther H. Gulick, then head of the physical training department, was finding it difficult to keep the men busy outside the regular class exercises during the period from December to March. He wanted something that would keep the men in top physical condition during the winter so that they could take up their spring activities without undue fatigue or overexertion. Discussing with Dr. Naismith the problem that confronted him, Dr. Gulick instructed his assistant to invent some sort of a game that would occupy all the men and which could be played on the gymnasium floor.

Dr. Naismith began a study of various games and forms of exercise, including duck-on-the-rock, lacrosse, and Rugby football. In a short time he presented his plan and it met with immediate approval. Duck-on-the-rock suggested to him the tossing in an arc rather than hurling an inflated ball, lacrosse contributed the arrangement of the players, and Rugby furnished the means of putting the ball in play.

A goal on the floor was deemed too easy to defend, so it was decided to elevate them. The balcony around the gymnasium was nine feet above the floor and that served to solve the problem of the goal's position. The baskets, as they were named, were attached to the balcony at the ends of the court and that elevation became the standard for the game.

Had Nine Men on Side.

Basketball as originally played at Springfield college had nine men on a team because of the necessity of taking care of the eighteen members of the class. The number later was reduced to seven and finally to five.

Dr. Naismith was a native of Almonte, Ontario, where he was born Nov. 6, 1861. He was graduated from McGill university, Montreal, in 1887. For three years thereafter he was director of physical education at the university while he studied at Presbyterian college. He then took the physical training course at Springfield and remained there as instructor until 1895.

In the latter year he went to Denver, Colo., as physical director of the Y. M. C. A. and entered Gross Medical college in that city. Graduating as a doctor of medicine in 1898 he went to the University of Kansas as professor of physical education.

As a member of the 1st Kansas regiment Dr. Naismith served four months on the Mexican border in 1916 and was with the Y. M. C. A. in France during the world war.

Skrbec, Euclid Hills Golf Pro, Dies in Clubhouse

Louis Skrbec, 36, of 16220 Perry avenue, golf professional for the Euclid Hills Country club, near Orland Park, died in the clubhouse last night, apparently of heart disease.

Nellie Burns.

Nellie Burns was a member of
That shining sisterhood
Whose lives are made of a pattern
Of going about doing good;
She was one of those folk people think about
When trouble clouds their day,
But forget about when parties
Or the like are under way.

But Nellie never minded
Or took offense or slight,
Thought nothing at all of sitting up
With sick neighbors half the night;
When death befell 'twas Nellie
Who seemed to understand.
She didn't just murmur her sympathy,
She took everything right in hand.

"Who shall we leave the children with?"
Why, Nellie Burns, of course—
She never seems to mind at all,
She's such a good 'old horse'";
When the church gave suppers Nellie never Appeared where the bright lights shone,
But out in the kitchen, cleaning up,
Nellie pottered—alone.

In every neighborhood, I'm sure,
There's a grand old Nellie Burns,
One of that gallant sisterhood
In whom old fashioned loyalty burns;
A general who does brave deeds in wars
A gleaming monument earns,
But the shining shaft of love in our hearts
Is reserved for Nellie Burns!

Father-in-Law's Perspective.

Weddings are such funny things—you laugh and cry and jest.
You kiss the bride and bridesmaids and want to kiss the rest.
Then your mind turns to common things as beans and bread and meat—
You wonder as you see them there, What are they going to eat?
And then you think of love and happiness and life of sweet content,
And then you think of babies and the coming blessed event;
And then you know it is God's law and all is for the best.
You swell with pride, again kiss the bride and laugh and cry and jest.

LIONS LOSE STAR GUARD FOR GAME WITH PACKERS

Feldhaus' Leg Fracture Blow to Bears' Hopes.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Chances of a playoff for the western division championship of the National football league or the league playoff itself coming to Chicago were dimmed considerably yesterday with the announcement that Bill Feldhaus, veteran Detroit guard, had suffered a fractured leg in Washington Sunday, where the Lions lost to the Redskins, 31 to 7.

Feldhaus was an important factor in the Detroit line and his loss increases the handicap the Lions will carry into the final game of the season Sunday against Green Bay in Detroit. Chicago's playoff chances depend on this game, since only a Packer defeat would lift the Bears into a tie for the division title.

Detroit Out of Race.

Five teams remain very much in the championship picture as the season enters its final week. Washington and New York are tied for the eastern division lead and for the third consecutive year will decide the issue in the last game of the regular schedule in the Polo Grounds on Sunday.

In the west Detroit remains an important factor, altho its defeat at Washington eliminated it from championship possibilities. Its part now is that of mediator in the title contest. As Detroit goes Sunday, so goes the title. Anything short of a Lion victory will leave the Packers in undisputed possession of the title and stymie the Bears in second place.

Breaks Go Against Lions.

Outside of Feldhaus' mishap Detroit survived the Washington game in good shape. Bill Radovich of Southern California, who has been serving as relief for the former University of Cincinnati star, will be moved up to the starting lineup and Bill Rogers, a reserve tackle from Villanova, will be turned into a guard to back him up.

The Lions came away from Washington disappointed but not down hearted. Scouts report they played an excellent game, succumbing to a series of breaks.

Arrange Playoff Dates.

Green Bay passed thru the city yesterday en route back north from its scare in Cleveland where Cecil Isbell's eighteen yard pass to Joe Laws and Tiny Engrebretsen's extra point in the last 20 seconds gave it a 7 to 6 victory over the rampant Rams.

Coach Curley Lambeau, who went on to Pittsburgh to help arrange playoff schedules in a special league meeting today, will fly back to Green Bay tonight prepared to shake the squad loose from any feeling of security that might have developed from recent successes.

It was understood Lambeau would insist that the league playoff, provided the Packers win the western division title, be played in Milwaukee.

The Cardinals disbanded yesterday, thoroly disgusted with themselves and the world in general after the 48 to 7 trouncing the Bears handed them in Wrigley field Sunday.

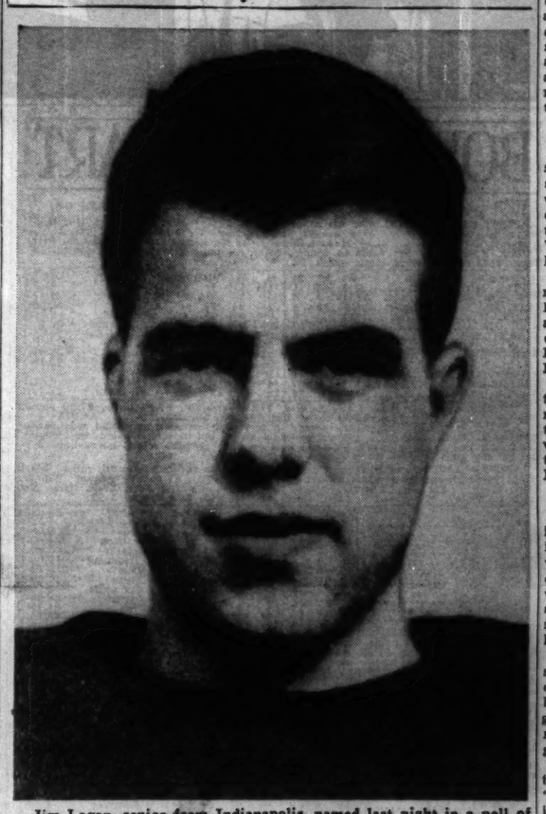
Acclaimed by Indiana Mates



Jim Logan, senior from Indianapolis, named last night in a poll of his teammates as Indiana university's most valuable player during the 1939 season. Logan, captain of the team, starred at guard for three seasons.

There's Real Football Gold in Those Conference Lines

BY WILFRID SMITH.

To be chosen the most valuable football player in the western conference is an honor that is unequaled in the sport, since it means endorsement by the coaches and a group of veteran officials whose opinions are highly prized. These men know football and this knowledge is guarantee of the merit of the award.

To each of the 10 players nominated for the final voting the choice of being the most valuable player to his squad probably is a greater honor. The reason is evident, for this award, represented by a miniature white gold football, presented by THE TRIBUNE, is made by the boys themselves.

It's Players' Choice, Too.

Undoubtedly the choice involves leadership, enthusiasm, and spirit as well as ability. Football players scarcely would name a teammate most valuable merely because of his ability. They must also like him, and it is open to question whether a player who was disliked by his associates could be extremely valuable regardless of ability.

In the annual choice of 10 players from the Western conference universities, generally one-half of the group is from the line. Last year, for instance, six of the 10 were linesmen, whose work seldom is noticed by the average fan except when they are on defense and gain the focus attention by stopping the ball carrier.

How About the Linesmen?

This is natural and cannot be changed as long as the ball indicates progress. It probably is true, however, that 80,000 people in Michigan's stadium scarcely saw Vic Marino, Ohio State guard, before or after he caught Don Scott's pass for a touchdown Saturday. Yet Marino's catch of that pass was the easiest accomplishment in his day's work.

These same thousands paid scant attention to Michigan's great guards, Ralph Fritz and Milo Sukup. Tom Harmon, Fred Trosko, Forest Evashevski, the ends, and perhaps Capt. Archie Kodros, since he generally backed up the line, monopolized attention. Yet Harmon's passing and running needed Fritz and Sukup, even as the Michigan ace needed interferers and pass receivers.

Guards Stopped Buckeyes.

Defensively, Fritz and Sukup were most valuable, for they contributed to victory by making the center of the line practically impregnable to plunges by John Hallabrin and Don Scott.

The same idea could be expanded to include many of the Big Ten's guards, centers, and tackles, altho the centers have more opportunity to attract attention since the customary defensive position is to back up the line and to assist in the pass defense by covering receivers rather than to rush the passer.

Northwestern, of course, had the best center in the conference in John Haman, but the Wildcats also developed a quartet of guards, Hal Method, Don Guritz, John Goldak, and Joe Lokanc. Three of them will be graduated next spring.

Other Forwards Valuable.

Mike Enich, Iowa tackle; Capt. Win Pedersen of Minnesota, also a tackle; Capt. Steve Andrako, Ohio State center, and Capt. Mel Brewer, Illinois guard, are other linesmen whose performances this fall rate highest praise.

Any player is eligible to selection by his team as most valuable to his university. It will be extremely interesting to note, as these selections are made this week and next, how many linesmen win this highest award from their teammates.

JIM LANGHURST ELECTED OHIO'S 1940 CAPTAIN

Columbus, O., Nov. 27 [Special.]—Earl J. Langhurst, full back from Willard, O., tonight was elected Ohio State football captain for 1940.

Langhurst, the leading scorer of the Western conference in 1938, with six touchdowns, will succeed Steve Andrako, who led the Buckeyes to the Big Ten championship. Last year Langhurst was voted the most valuable player by his team mates for the CHICAGO TRIBUNE award. Jim again ran wild this year before a leg injury suffered in the first two minutes of the Illinois game benched him for the remainder of the season.

TEAM'S CAPTAIN STAR GUARD FOR THREE SEASONS

Becomes Eligible for Tribune Award.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 27 [Special].—Capt. Jim Logan, right guard, tonight was voted by his teammates as the most valuable player on the 1939 Indiana university football squad. Logan is a senior.

The election was held at the annual dinner honoring the football squad and coaching staff. Arch Ward, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which sponsors the most valuable player award in the Big Ten and presents a trophy to the player adjudged the most valuable in the conference, was the principal speaker.

Committee Picks Winner.

The nine other Big Ten squads will select their most valuable. Then the selection committee of 23 members will meet and vote. The player receiving the most votes is adjudged the Big Ten's most valuable. Howie Weiss of Wisconsin won the award last year.

Logan, 23 years old, a veteran and mainstay in the Indiana line for the last three years, is a medical student and will enter the university's medical school in Indianapolis next fall. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Logan of Indianapolis.

Logan formerly played football on the Morton High school team in Richmond. He enrolled one semester at the University of Illinois, where he was regarded as being too light for the squad. He later transferred to Indiana.

McMillin Praises Logan.

Logan, an aggressive, hard charging and tackling guard, played both in the line and backed up the forward wall. As a running guard, he was an effective blocker in helping clear the way for the ball carrier. He played all eight of the Hoosiers' games this season, but was injured in the Fordham contest.

"Jimmy Logan improved as the season progressed," Coach Bo McMillin commented tonight. "He played fine ball in every game, but in the final game against Purdue last Saturday he not only was a great player, but a great leader."

Mr. Ward, whose address followed the election, told the Indiana squad "you are playing an important rôle in the life of the nation.

"Football leaders and those in other intercollegiate sports," he continued, "are helping to keep alive a rule of fundamental action of competition. There never was a time when we had such a need for competition."

SUGGEST ONLY A FEW CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES

New York, Nov. 27 [Special].—Few suggestions for changes in the intercollegiate football rules have been advanced this year, Walter R. Okeson, chairman of the rules committee, disclosed today.

Two proposals are designed to make punt runbacks, a spectacular feature, more numerous. Harry Mehre of the University of Mississippi, according to Okeson, thinks spot kicking out of bounds should be stopped, and suggests a penalty of 15 yards for it.

Another idea is that a tackler should not be allowed to get within five yards or three steps of a punt receiver before the latter has caught the ball.

The rules chairman said that three other recommendations had been revived, namely, those which would put the goal posts back on the goal line, eliminate the second half kickoff and permit a pass to be thrown from any point behind the scrimmage line.

Pittsburgh Sportsmen Move to Keep Football Pirates

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 27 (AP).—Learning that a Boston syndicate had offered Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh football Pirates' franchise, $50,000 for a part ownership if he would transfer the team to Boston, Vincent Scully, representing a local group, said he was prepared to match the offer and would be willing to take 49 per cent of the stock.

WEATHER MAN! TAKE A NOTE ON THAT PREP GAME

Please Deliver a Good Day for Fenger, Mt. Carmel.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

The weather man, a foxy fellow who sometimes fails in calling his shots successfully, has an opportunity to assume a hero's rôle if he produces clear skies and moderate temperatures for Saturday's All-City prep championship football game between Mount Carmel, Catholic league champion, and Fenger, Public School league title holder, in Soldiers' field.

When the same two elevens met for the title last year, 80,000 were in the stands altho the temperature was 20 degrees above zero. If perfect weather conditions prevail Saturday, officials of Mayor Kelly's Christmas Benefit fund hope for an attendance of 100,000.

Remember the 1937 Game?

Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel and secretary of the benefit fund, who now is finding time to consult meteorologists and stuff weather maps in his portfolio, hastens to point out the ideal afternoon in 1937 when Austin's Bill De Correvont and Leo's Johnny Galvin helped lure a record throng of 115,000.

Officials were selected yesterday for the game. They are William F. McHugh [De Paul], referee; Roy E. Quant [George Williams], umpire; Frank McElligott [Marquette], head linesman, and P. J. Pierce [De Paul], field judge.

Contenders Hold Light Drills.

The two championship elevens engaged in light kicking and passing drills yesterday afternoon. Coaches Chuck Palmer of Fenger and Wally Fromhart of Mount Carmel expect the players to settle down to hard work today and there will be no letup until Friday, when signal practices will conclude preparations for the charity game.

Fromhart is concerned with ways and means of stopping Fenger's shifty Donald [Flash] Griffin, who last Saturday slipped thru Schurz's defense for three touchdowns and completed five out of seven forward passes, one for 36 yards and another for 18 to Bob Wallis, which scored a touchdown. His performance against Schurz revealed the 185 pound quarter back is considerably improved over last year when Fenger defeated Mount Carmel, 13 to 0, for the Chicago championship.

Meakim, Andretich Good, Too.

There are several others in Fenger's cast who, Fromhart believes, are capable of breaking loose for touchdowns. Joe Kredens, left half back, displayed his running ability against Schurz by scoring two touchdowns, one on a 61 yard run. There's also Ray Florek, 16 year old full back, who scored eleven touchdowns in seven games, and Henry Stevenson, right half back, and the team's leading kicker.

Meakim and Andretich, in the opinion of several coaches who watched both the Catholic and Public School league title games, are two of the outstanding ball carriers in the Chicago area. Meakim scored two of the three touchdowns against St. Ignatius, one on a 22 yard run and another on a 34 yard dash after catching a 24 yard pass from Andretich.

Andretich can match Griffin in passing and he can be depended upon to shake off would-be tacklers if he finds himself in the open. Johnny shot thru the St. Ignatius line, wiggled around the secondary and sprinted 61 yards for a touchdown.

HAWKS RETURN HOME TO DRILL FOR RANGER GAME

The Blackhawks returned to Chicago yesterday after their victory over the Red Wings Sunday, and were excused from practice until late in the afternoon, when Manager Paul Thompson sent them thru a two hour drill in preparation for Thursday's clash with the New York Rangers. The Hawks defeated the Rangers, 3 to 2, in their only meeting this season.

Thompson reported the injury to Earl Seibert's leg would keep the big defense player out of action at least another ten days. Seibert suffered the injury in the Rangers-Hawks game Nov. 16 in New York.

CUBS SEEK TWO STARS (NEITHER IS JOE MEDWICK)

Slaughter and Padgett Figure in New Plans.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs' officials insist they weren't kidding when they announced they had definitely ceased to be interested in the acquisition of Joe [Ducky] Medwick, the fancy fly chaser and bat wielder of the St. Louis Cardinals

Enos Slaughter.

But the lack of interest in Medwick is not because of a lack of concern over the pressing problem of getting the Cubs back into championship circles. Medwick isn't in the picture, at least not at this time, because the guiding hands of the team that skidded from a 1938 pennant to a 1939 fourth place have a couple of other guys in mind.

It is whispered that the Cubs already have made suggestions to the Gas House gang leaders relative to the possible transfer to the P. K. Wrigley athletic pay roll of either Don Padgett or Enos Slaughter.

Desire for Medwick Cools.

This isn't reported with the recommendation that the suggestions ever will amount to anything. Off and on for two years the Cubs have been making sly offers for Slaughter and have made no headway. Feelers also were sent out at various times for Medwick, also without success. But the reason Medwick is no longer attractive is that the Chicago club, supposedly, has figured out that Padgett might prove more valuable. The lad can either catch or play the outfield and he isn't a bad hitter.

Conceding that the Cubs could use Padgett or Slaughter and that the Cardinals' master minds might listen to reason, there is the little matter of what the north side club could give outside of cash.

The Cards would think twice before turning down any proposition involving Second Baseman Billy Herman. But can the Cubs afford to peddle Herman until they have some fellow for his place? Would the Cards take Augie Galan? They are not exactly hard up for outfielders, so probably would not be interested in swapping one fly chaser for another even if the Cubs agreed to toss in a few loose dollars.

Rowland Contact Man on Deals.

In hopes of doing some business in the trade line the Cubs will open their shop next Monday in Cincinnati, where all the big shots of baseball are scheduled to assemble for a week. Clarence Rowland, nontitled member of the Cubs' executive force, will be intrusted with the task of thinking up swapping ideas and finding out what the other fellows think. Manager Gabby Hartnett will be on hand to give his opinion in case any of the Cubs' proposals reach an advanced state.

During the Cincinnati meeting the Cubs probably will announce they have purchased Outfielder Lou Novikoff from their cousins—the Los Angeles Angels. Novikoff isn't exactly an expert as a fly chaser, but has fashioned some impressive batting averages the last couple of seasons at Moline, Tulsa, and Los Angeles.

PETERS TAKES LEAD IN THREE CUSHION MEET

Ed Peters, defending city champion, last night took the undisputed lead in the Chicago open three cushion billiard tournament, held in the 131 South Wabash recreation, by defeating Allen Hall, tournament favorite, 42 to 35, in 51 innings. Each had high runs of five.

Jess Jacobs won the second match of the night in the shortest game of the meet when he defeated Tom Fitzgibbon, 42 to 27, in 45 innings. Jacobs had a high run of four against Fitzgibbon's six. Standings:

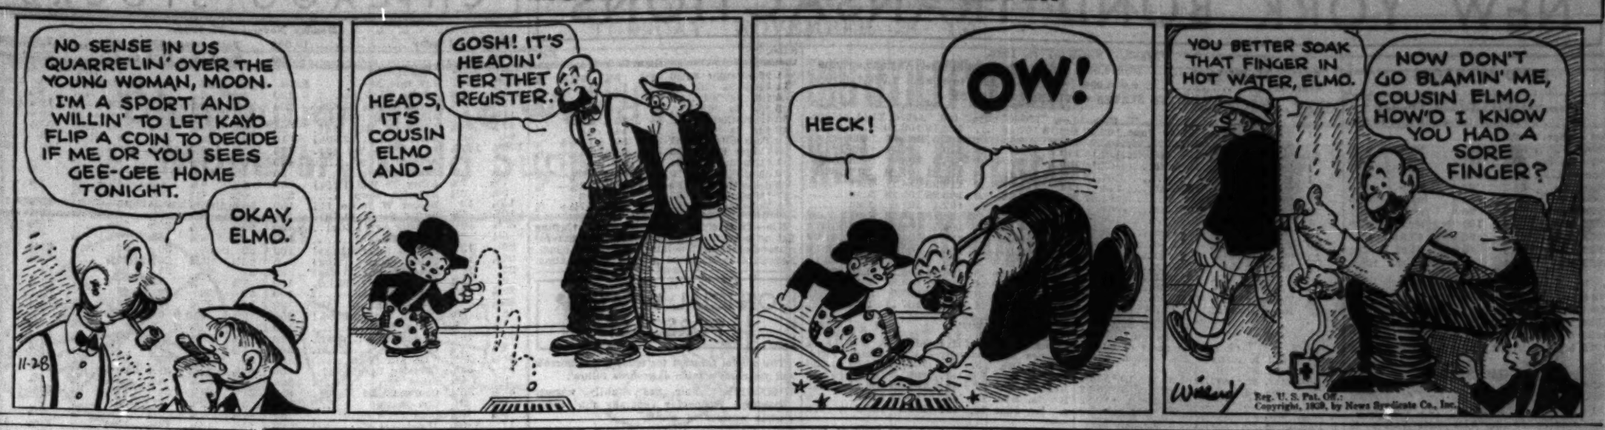
MOON MULLINS—THE FAST STEPPER



Mehl Captures National Cross Country Title

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 27 [Special].—Walter J. Mehl, ace distance runner from the university of Wisconsin, braved a cold northwest wind today, but covered the 4 mile course in 20:30.9, winning the individual title in the second annual National Collegiate Cross Country meet and the fourteenth annual Central Collegiate event.

Taking the lead at the 3 mile post, Mehl was an easy winner over William Southworth of Butler. Forest Efaw, Oklahoma A. and M. runner, one of the favorites, tired at the start of the final mile and finished eleventh. Harry Gordon of Oklahoma A. and M. was taken to the college hospital after the race for treatment for a foot injury.

Spartans Win Team Title.

Michigan State, with one runner finishing in the first ten, won team honors with 54 points. Dick Frey, captain of the Spartans, placed fifth. Wisconsin with 57 points was second, and the University of Indiana was third with 84.

Mehl's time set a new course record, but fell short of equalling the meet record of 20:12.9 made by Gregory Rice of Notre Dame last year. Today's meet was run over a new four mile course. Twenty-two schools were represented by 79 entrants.

Other team scores were:

Drake, 104; Oklahoma A. & M., 114; Michigan Normal, 129; Alfred, 138; Notre Dame, 220, and Ohio State university, 230.

Other Individual Winners.

Individual place winners in addition to Mehl and Southworth were:

John Munski [Missouri], Tom Quinn Michigan Normal], Dick Frey [Michigan State], Ed Holderman [Purdue], William Jenkins [Iowa State Teachers], Gilbert Dodds [Ashland], William Farin [Wisconsin], Ed Hedges [Indiana], Forrest Efaw [Okla. A. and M.], Bradley Rendell [Alfred], Roy Fehr [Michigan State], Fred Wilt [Indiana Central], Will Morey [Drake].

The National Collegiate Cross-Country Coaches' association elected the following officers:

E. C. Hayes of Indiana university, president; J. A. McLane of Alfred university, vice president; Lauren P. Brown, Michigan State, secretary; Ralph Higgins, Oklahoma A. & M., treasurer.

Lello Batters Joseph; Bout Stopped in 8th

Pete Lello, 1936 Chicago Golden Gloves lightweight champion, scored his eighth consecutive victory by stopping Emil Joseph of Pittsburgh, Pa., in the eighth round of a scheduled 10 round bout in Marigold Gardens last night. Referee Joe McNamara called a halt after Lello had floored his foe for the fourth time.

The victory qualified Lello for a proposed encounter with Henry Armstrong in Milwaukee New Year's day. Lello weighed 135 pounds and Joseph 134¼.

Speed Bothers Lello.

Joseph's speed held Pete on even terms for the first three rounds, but when Emil slowed down in the fourth a right cross to the chin floored him for an eight count. Shortly after the seventh started Lello dropped Emil for an eight count, and five seconds before the round ended Joseph walked into a right to the jaw. The bell sounded while he still was on the floor. He was carried to his corner, revived, and came out for the eighth round, but Lello made short work of him, the fight being stopped after 14 seconds.

Booker Beckwith Wins.

Booker Beckwith, 1938 international and intercity Golden Gloves middleweight winner, knocked out Charley Banks in the first round of a secondary feature listed for four rounds. In other matches Emil Schulman knocked out Jake Lebovitz in one round, Eddie Camp stopped Ralph Chong in three, and George Kontopolis beat Ralph Guajardo in four.

HAPPINESS CANDY.

Kindly furnish me with a report on the Happiness Candy Stores. Is it an independent firm?—G. L.

Answer: The Happiness Candy Stores, Inc., has operated at a loss in every year for the last 10 years.

The company is controlled by Loft, Inc., which operates more than 40 Happiness Candy stores. The subsidiary leases the stores and receives from 20 to 25 per cent of the gross sales with which to pay the rentals. Loft pays all the operating expenses.

Net loss in 1938 was $234,447 before losses on closed stores and cancellation of leases. This compared with net loss of $236,754 in 1937.

FRACTIONATED SHARES.

If I own 97 shares of common stock of the Standard Oil company [N. J.], how much do I get of the stock dividend declared recently?—R. M.

Answer: Directors of the Standard Oil company [N. J.] have declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share and a stock dividend of three shares for each 200 shares of common stock held. These payments will be made Dec. 15 on stock of record Nov. 15 in addition to the regular semi-annual dividend of 50 cents a common share.

In making the stock dividend, the company announced that scrip certificates for fractional shares will be distributed. The distribution of three shares for every 200 shares owned is equivalent to giving one share for every 66⅔ shares held. Therefore, a stockholder owning 97 shares would be entitled to one full share for 66⅔ shares and a scrip certificate for 91-200ths of a share for the remaining 30⅓ shares.

WARNER-QUINLAN.

What has happened to the Warner-Quinlan company?—H. L.

Answer: The Warner-Quinlan company was incorporated in 1903 and manufactured gasoline, fuel oil, and asphalt. It also operated a chain of gasoline service stations in and around New York City. Thru reorganization it was succeeded in 1937 by the Cities Service Asphalt Products company, which was merged in 1938 with Cities Service Oil company [Pa.], a subsidiary of the Cities Service company.

Warner-Quinlan company [Tex.], former subsidiary of the old company of the same name, is now controlled by Cities Service Oil company [Pa.].

PRICES OF STEEL STEADY IN FIRST QUARTER OF '40

Schedule Fixed by Carnegie-Illinois.

Present prices for steel charged by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation will be continued, with minor exceptions, in the first quarter of 1940 "despite rising costs and many uncertainties," the company announced last night. The prices apply to shipments delivered and consumed within the United States during the three months ending March 31.

The corporation, a subsidiary of United States Steel corporation, is the largest steel manufacturer in the country. It generally is the first within the industry to post prices and its quotations usually are followed by smaller companies.

In reaffirming prices, Carnegie-Illinois said it wished "to coöperate in preventing inflationary tendencies."

Provision for Later Shipments.

Shipments after March 31 will be invoiced at the prices in effect at the date of shipment. Tin plate prices will follow within a few days, according to the announcement.

An increase of $2 a ton on hot rolled sheets and hot rolled strip was the only upward revision contained in the statement. Base prices on these items were revised to $2.12½ per 100 pounds delivered at Pittsburih and $2.13 per 100 pounds delivered at Chicago. Present prices are $2.02½ at Pittsburgh and $2.03 at Chicago.

Hot rolled sheet extras were revised downward. Prices were reaffirmed on rerolling blooms, billets, and slabs, sheet bars, forging blooms, carbon and alloy bars, structural shapes, steel sheet piling, rails, plates, electrical sheets, vitrenamel and galvanized sheets, long terne sheets, black plate, and cold rolled sheets.

Steady Prices Expected.

The Carnegie-Illinois continuation of prices was generally expected within the industry. Large third quarter earnings and prospects of further improvement in the fourth quarter had led most steel experts to expect only minor adjustments of existing prices.

Some observers said the attitude of the federal administration may have influenced the price extension. The monopoly investigating committee recently held hearings on price policies in the industry. During the hearings, Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general, said the department of justice had noted "with considerable satisfaction" the decision of most of the industries to carry third quarter prices over into the fourth quarter.

The American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday that steel operations this week will be 94.4 per cent of theoretical ingot capacity.

BIG UTILITY LOAN WILL BE OFFERED PUBLICLY TODAY

First Test of Market Since Start of War.

Bonds and debentures totaling $32,500,000, representing a refinancing program for the Public Service Company of Colorado, will be placed on the market today by an underwriting group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc. The offering is the largest in three months and one of the largest of the year.

[Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau yesterday announced a 500 million dollar bond issue. Story on page 1, column 3.]

Included are first mortgage bonds, 3½ per cent series due in 1964, amounting to $40,000,000, and $12,500,000 of 4 per cent sinking fund debentures, due in 1949. The issues are priced at 102 and accrued interest.

First Real Market Test.

Financial circles were reported to be watching the public reception of the offering because it will be the first important test of the investment market since the war began in Europe. Bond men expressed hope that the financing would mark the end of the drouth in corporate offerings.

Public Service Company of Colorado produces and distributes electricity, and also buys and distributes natural gas. Its main center of distribution is Denver, Colo., and vicinity.

The refinancing program, when completed, will leave the two new issues as the only funded debt of the company and its consolidated subsidiaries.

Net proceeds from the sale of the bonds and notes, together with funds from the sale of $2,190,000 of common stock [par value], will be used to retire various obligations of the company, including bonds and notes with interest rates ranging up to 6 per cent.

Terms of Redemption.

The new first mortgage bonds will be redeemable as a whole or in part by lot, on not less than 30 days' notice, at their principal amount and accrued interest, plus a premium of 7½ per cent if called on or before Nov. 30, 1940. Successive reductions in premiums after that date are provided.

The interstate commerce commission has authorized the Illinois Central railroad to issue $7,800,000 of equipment trust certificates for sale at par to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The road will use the funds to buy new equipment. The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad was authorized by the I. C. C. to issue and sell to the RFC at par $5,080,000 of equipment certificates to help finance purchase of equipment.

SENATORS FLAIL TRADE TREATIES AS BLOW TO U. S.

Charge Policy Hits Tariff Protection.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—Bitter denunciation of the whole reciprocal trade agreements program was heard today by the committee for reciprocity information as it opened hearings on a proposed trade pact with Chile.

Senator Johnson [D., Colo.] told the committee that because of the "most favored nation" principle incorporated in the trade agreements act requiring concessions granted one nation to be extended automatically to every other nation, the law amounted to nothing more than "an insidious formula for breaking down our tariff walls."

"If the Smoot-Hawley tariff act of 1930 needs overhauling," said Johnson, "it should be done directly in a constitutional way by the congress and not thru a sniping process under the guise of good neighborliness."

Charges "Joker" in Treaties.

He said that the "trick and the joker" in the trade agreement act was that this country opened its markets for unneeded raw materials "without imposing any obligation on the balance of the world to accept our goods."

"For these reasons, among others, I opposed the extension of this tariff slashing act in 1937 and am hopefully looking forward to next June, when I believe that the congress will strike it permanently from our statutes," Johnson said.

The Coloradoan said that "to deliberately make this nation dependent upon foreign sources for the raw materials which might easily be produced within our own borders is inviting disaster.

"We are the only nation deliberately urging the importation of raw materials of which we already have a surplus," he continued. "Such a grievous policy makes utterly foolish the wage and hour act and the multitude of other legislative efforts to raise the standards of living here."

Hayden Voices Criticism.

Senator Hayden [D., Ariz.] said that altho he was in agreement with the fundamental policy of the reciprocal trade program, he did not want the state department to do anything in the proposed agreement "that would materially injure any American industry."

He protested particularly against a reduction in the 4 cent a pound duty on copper imports, telling the committee that such action would create far reaching economic disturbances in the copper producing areas and likewise would be of little benefit to

Coal Industry to Fight New Seaway Plan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—Any new effort to revive the St. Lawrence seaway project will encounter the same resolute opposition of the coal industry as did the previous attempts "to foist this glittering and costly gold brick upon the United States and upon Canada," said John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal association, here today.

"The revision of the terms of the St. Lawrence treaty which the senate refused to ratify in 1934 may make the proposition more palatable to Canada, but certainly removes none of the fundamental fallacies nor the grave objections from the standpoint of our own citizens and taxpayers and from the standpoint of our own basic industries, coal, the railroads, the utilities, and our Atlantic coast ports.

Branded Billion Dollar Bubble.

"Changing the title and the emphasis from seaway and navigation and the western farmer to hydroelectric power and eastern industry does not alter the essential considerations. The attempt to wrap this defeated and discredited billion dollar bubble in the mantle of national defense is unworthy, and we are confident will be unavailing when it reaches the United States senate.

"One basic and fundamental objection from which there is no escape and no palliation is that the St. Lawrence-Niagara hydro power project as now sought by the New York state power authority and indorsed by members of the New Deal's national power policy committee will preempt the market for seven million tons of bituminous coal per annum.

Hold Power Cost Excessive.

"It will do this in the face of the fact that the electric power which will flow from the St. Lawrence-Niagara project could be more economically produced in coal burning steam plants if this additional power be in fact requisite either for industry or for national defense or for competitive crack-down by public power agencies upon private power agencies."

Manitowoc, Wis., Nov. 27 (AP).—A. J. Vits, president of the Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company, announced today a $100,000 Christmas bonus for 2,900 employés at the company's plants here and at Two Rivers, Wis. The bonus represents 2½ per cent of the employés' yearly earnings.

C. & E. I. SECURITY HOLDERS ACCEPT REORGANIZATION

Railroad's Plan at Most Advanced Stage.

Security holders of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railway company have voted to accept the final plan for reorganization for the road, the interstate commerce commission announced yesterday in Washington, D. C. Approval was voted by an average of 98 per cent of those voting on each class.

Benjamin Wham.

The commission certified the vote and said the C. & E. I. is the first class 1 railroad to reach that stage in reorganization proceedings.

In Chicago Benjamin Wham, trustee for the carrier, said the next step will be for the I. C. C. to file notice of its certification with Federal Judge John P. Barnes, who approved the plan here last June after hearing evidence.

Confirmation Expected.

According to expected procedure, Judge Barnes, after receiving the notice—possibly this week—will confirm the plan. The way then will be cleared for drawing up a charter for a new company. This will be done by a board of reorganization managers established under the law. This three man board includes representatives of the general mortgage bondholders and the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

This action toward putting the reorganization plan into effect is subject to appeal by any opposing parties within 40 days after the court's confirmation order. However, Wham said he knew of no opposition to the program.

Submitted Last Spring.

The plan of reorganization was submitted to Judge Barnes last spring, and was taken under advisement by him on April 10. The I. C. C. previously had given its tentative approval to the program.

The plan would cut the road's capitalization from about 85 million dollars to 61 millions, and would wipe out the existing common stock, the par value of which is $23,845,300. Fixed interest would be reduced by about $1,772,800 to $509,104 a year.

The C. & E. I. has been in bankruptcy since April 18, 1933. Charles T. O'Neal is president of the road.

Export Trade Margin Near Two Year High

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—Exports of American merchandise exceeded imports in October by the largest margin in nearly two years, the commerce department reported today.

Exports totaled $332,079,000 and imports $215,281,000. The $116,798,000 difference was said by the department to be the widest spread for any month since January, 1938.

The report showed a slight increase in exports to Latin America.

Lower Last Year.

In October last year, exports totaled $277,668,000 and imports $178,024,000, an export excess of $99,644,000. At $2,516,978,000, exports for the first 10 months of 1939 were $681,192,000 ahead of imports. In the parallel period last year, exports totaled $2,573,115,000 and were $960,220,000 ahead of imports.

A few war effects were shown by the October figures. Tobacco shipments totaled $6,190,000, compared with $29,489,000 a year ago. England has been cutting down tobacco purchases.

Cotton Exports Double.

Cotton exports, which had lagged in a serious manner, increased, however, to $47,254,000, or more than double the figure for October, 1938. Other export increases included fruit, automobiles and corn.

Imports, as well as exports, were larger than in October last year, due mainly to increased American purchases of foreign rubber, coffee, cocoa, woodpulp, newsprint, and silk.

United Air Lines Reports Gain in Mail and Express

United Air Lines yesterday reported gains of 13.5 per cent in air mail and 8.8 per cent in air express during October, compared with the corresponding month last year. The Railway Express Agency, Inc., meanwhile announced September air express shipments increased 18 per cent over those of September, 1938.

Hearings on Rock Island Equipment Plan Continued

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday continued to Jan. 8 hearing on a petition by the Chicago Rock Island and Pacific railroad for permission to purchase $3,775,000 worth of new equipment and to use $600,000 for repairs of present equipment.

TRIBUNE SHIP CARRIES SILICA SAND TO CANADA

The first cargo of silica sand to be transported to Chicago via barge on the Illinois waterway yesterday was loaded into the steamship Thorold at the Hoskins dock here. The Thorold, one of THE TRIBUNE'S fleet of paper boats, will take the sand to the Exolon company at Thorold, Ont.

The 1,450 ton cargo came to Chicago from the Ottawa Silica company at Ottawa, Ill., on a barge of the John I. Hay company. Previous shipments from the inland areas were made by rail.

The sand will be used by the Exolon company in the manufacture of glass and silicon carbide, an abrasive commonly known as carborundum.

2 BIG CHICAGO FIRMS AGAIN TO PAY DIVIDENDS

Two large Chicago companies yesterday declared the first dividends on common stock since 1937. Stewart-Warner corporation directors authorized a dividend of 25 cents on the capital stock, payable Dec. 20 to holders of record Dec. 8. The Crane company declared a dividend of 60 cents on its common stock, payable Dec. 20 to stock of record Dec. 9.

Stewart-Warner's last previous payment consisted of a regular dividend of 25 cents and an extra of the same amount on Dec. 1, 1937, bringing the total of that year to $1.

The Crane company directors declared a dividend of $1 on Dec. 15, two years ago, on common stock. The company is a large producer of pipe, valves, and heating and plumbing equipment.

Monetary Gold Supply Rises Nearly 61 Millions

The nation's monetary gold stock rose $60,935,478 to $17,318,041,042 as of last Friday, the treasury department reported yesterday. This amount represents more than 65 per cent of the world's known gold supply. Values of principal European currencies held within a narrow range in terms of the dollar yesterday at New York. The British pound closed ½ cent off at $3.92½. Belgian money lost 0.04 cent at 16.55 cents. French and Swiss units finished unchanged.

PALMER CANCELS CUT IN AUTO RISK FEES AT DIRECTION OF HORNER

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 27 (AP).—Ernest Palmer, Illinois insurance director, announced tonight, at Gov. Horner's request, the rescinding of an order to regulate automobile insurance commissions after Jan. 1, 1940.

Palmer's order, issued Oct. 10, would have restricted agents' commissions to 25 per cent and brokerage commissions to 15 per cent on fire, theft, and collision insurance. Suits challenging his authority to fix such limitations were filed in Cook county by the Insurance Brokers' Association of Illinois and the American Automobile Insurance company.

Palmer made public a letter from Gov. Horner stating, in part, the ruling "seems to me to exceed the specific authority vested in the department" by the insurance code. Palmer said Attorney General John E. Cassidy had "confirmed the governor's judgment." At present there is no limitation on auto insurance commissions.

ILLINOIS WAGES UP 7.3 PER CENT OVER LAST YEAR

Employment in Illinois last month exceeded that of October, 1938, by 3.6 per cent, while wages increased 7.3 per cent, Martin P. Durkin, state labor department director, said in a survey yesterday. In Chicago 4,077 establishments reported increases of 3.9 and 5.5 per cent, respectively, in employment and wages.

In a survey of business conditions in the 7th federal reserve district the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported that orders booked for steel castings during October were 714.4 per cent larger than a year ago.

Employment by industrial corporations in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Michigan was 15 per cent larger than in October, 1938, while wage payments were 22 per cent larger, the bank reported.

New York Stocks.

New York, Nov. 27 (AP).—Buying of rail shares caused a mild early rally in the stock market today, but it failed to hold. The list slipped at the start, then revived when it looked as if the carrier might go places. At the best, initial losses running to a point or so were converted into gains of as much. Cashing of profits in the final hour cut or canceled top marks and closing prices were not better than steady.

Transfers amounted to 518,330 shares, smallest for a full session since Oct. 16.

Part of the forenoon improvement was attributed to the belief of some that, in view of the recent drying up of selling a technical upward reversal was a possibility. On the other hand, Wall street still was a bit depressed by thoughts of new taxes in 1940, altho the opinion was expressed here and there that congress would balk at imposing additional revenues in an election year.

Business news was encouraging and many observers were beginning to believe a recession next spring could be much less severe than had been forecast. That European war orders were not developing in the volume generally expected was a source of some concern.

Rails were responsive for a time to estimates that October earnings may have been around the best level since 1930. The fifth consecutive weekly increase in steel mill operations to a record high since official estimates were started in 1933 gave selected shares in this group a temporary lift, but most backed down at the finish. United States Steel and Youngstown ended moderately higher, Bethlehem was unchanged, and Republic off a shade.

Chrysler was resistant, closing at its final Saturday quotation, on hopes of the ending of the nearly 2 month old labor dispute. General motors gained fractionally.

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 27 (AP).—A strong government bond market today greeted Secretary Morgenthau's announcement the treasury is offering for cash subscription around $500,000,000 of new 2 per cent bonds, callable in 9 to 11 years at the option of the government.

Treasury issues, after closing with gains ranging to 9-32ds of a point in the New York Stock exchange, continued firm with the advances retained in later over the counter dealings.

Corporate loans spent a lazy day, with values at the close just about where they were when trading ended last Saturday. Some medium priced rail issues lost fractions to 3 points, but for the most part the widest declines were scattered among less frequently traded loans. Gains and losses among industrials and utilities generally were small, with plus and minus signs about evenly divided.

Chicago Stocks.

Several volume leaders registered fractional gains on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday altho trading was small. Turnover totaled only 16,000 shares. Most issues thruout the list moved lower.

Advances ranging to ¾ points were shown by Commonwealth Edison, Armour, United States Steel, and Aviation corporation. Unchanged were Rollins Hosiery, Middle West, Chicago corporation, and Midland United preferred.

Bank Stocks.

A number of issues gained in active bank stock trading yesterday. Northern Trust advanced three points to close at 566 bid. Chicago Title and Trust and First National gained one point each at 124 and 227, respectively. Continental Illinois advanced ½ point to 87.

GRANGE ADOPTS 14 POINT FARM RECOVERY PLAN

Fears Dictatorship if We Are Forced Into War.

The National Grange yesterday announced a 14-point program which National Master Louis J. Taber said was "one behind which every group of farmers and Americans could rally to solve the problems of agriculture."

The platform, drafted in Chicago by the executive committee after the Grange's recent convention in Peoria, Ill., outlined these proposals:

1. Give agriculture its fair share of the national income so that it may be raised to equality with other groups.

2. Insist that the farm program be administered by farmers, with compensatory payments to tide over the emergency while farm prices are below parity; payments not to be used as a means toward compulsory crop control.

Remove Business Shackles.

3. Speed recovery by taking the shackles off business, by increasing employment and reducing the relief burden.

4. Recognize as fundamental the right of the American farmer to the American market up to the limit of his ability to supply it.

5. Close the doors to imports of foreign farm products; create a nonpartisan board with powers to regulate imports; terminate reciprocal trade agreements now in force which are injurious to agriculture.

6. Keep America out of foreign wars by maintaining adequate national defense; recognizing that war may bring dictatorial powers of government which may mean the end of democracy and individual liberty.

Develop Sound Credit.

7. Develop a sound rural credit program by establishing a farm credit administration as an independent agency; extending cooperative loans of farm credit; maintaining low-cost interest rates consistent with agriculture's needs and sound business.

8. Recognize that adequate transportation facilities are indispensible to the welfare of the nation; railroad regulation should be liberalized.

9. Base taxation on benefits received and ability to pay, and insist upon economy and efficiency in government.

10. Develop better markets for farm products by encouraging cooperative marketing; removing unnecessary trade barriers between states; opposing discriminatory and punitive taxation; research to find new crops and new uses for farm products.

Maintain Family Farms.

11. Maintain the family-sized farm as the standard of American agriculture and discourage large-sized corporation farming.

12. Continue soil conservation as a part of a permanent program for better use of land, but not as a means of crop control.

13. Promote a better and more satisfactory rural life thru development of educational facilities, good roads, and rural electrification.

14. Foster the American spirit of self-help in solving our problems; encourage cooperation between agriculture, labor, and industry.

BUSINESS BITS

Frank Phillips.

Frank Phillips, founder of the Phillips Petroleum company, will be honored today, his 66th birthday, in a celebration at Bartlesville, Okla. Between 8 and 10 thousand of the company's employés from all parts of the country are expected to attend the celebration, which was planned by them. The company's only official contribution has been to declare the day a holiday for all divisions. Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma will be the principal speaker. "Uncle Frank," as the chairman of the board is known, will receive a huge birthday cake.

Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Harold H. Swift, vice chairman of the board of Swift & Co., will speak at the 49th dinner meeting of the Economic Club of Chicago at the Palmer House tonight.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] and Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern corporation, will be the principal speakers at the 44th annual Congress of Industry in New York City Dec. 6 to 8.

The Illinois Road Builders' association will hold its annual fall meeting Nov. 30 at the Palmer House. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson will speak at the dinner meeting.

SECURITY FIRM INSOLVENT; SEC CANCELS PERMIT

Admission that Jansen & Co., securities dealer at 135 South La Salle street, has been insolvent since May 31 was made by Frederick E. Jansen, president, yesterday before Examiner Henry Fitts of the Securities and Exchange commission. The company consented to the entry of an order by the commission refusing it a dealer-broker registration to permit it to engage in interstate securities trading.

W. McNeil Kennedy, regional administrator of the SEC, had charged the company was insolvent and had made misleading statements to customers. No criminal action was involved.

Stanley L. Pogue, chief attorney for the Illinois securities department, was present when the company filed its admission. Pogue indicated he will file a report on the proceedings with the department in Springfield. The company has an Illinois broker-dealer license.

COURT ORDERS TESTIMONY IN LIVE STOCK CASE

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday issued a memorandum order directing two stockyards employés and three independent live stock dealers to testify at a department of agriculture investigation of an alleged $1,000,000 illegal weighing scheme at the yards.

The order was directed against Daniel B. Hickey, 4607 Union avenue; Daniel C. Freeman, 5236 South Peoria street; Edward C. Maher, 5332 Ellis avenue; Martin S. Polachek, 5234 Dorchester avenue, and Edward J. Wolfe, 7830 Jeffery avenue. Hickey and Freeman are the employés. The other three are dealers.

The men argued thru their attorneys they would be forced to incriminate themselves in violation of their constitutional rights if they were forced to testify. The case grew out of a complaint by the Roberts & Oake company that it had lost $720,000 to dealers who have been overweighing hogs for several years.

WHEAT VARIES; ARGENTINE CROP HURT BY FROST

Frost in Argentina which is said to have damaged the new wheat crop and continued lack of rain in the American southwest combined to advance Chicago wheat prices about ¾ cent at one time yesterday.

Profit taking checked the advance and the best prices were not maintained. Closing trades were ⅜ cent lower to ½ cent higher, the latter on the July delivery.

Estimates on the Argentine wheat crop are being revised downward as the result of excessive rains recently, followed by frost in the more southern sections of the main producing area in that country.

Corn prices held within narrow limits and averaged a small fraction of a cent higher.

TRADE UPTURN UNSOUND, SAYS STEEL LEADER

Asserts Federal Spending Blocks Recovery.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27 (AP).—E. T. Weir, steel producer, today described the current business upturn as unsound and declared that permanent recovery was prevented by government spending and the effect of New Deal "theories" on business.

The present high level of business activity, the chairman of the National Steel corporation said in an address before the Economic Club of Detroit, has resulted largely from anticipation of war buying from Europe. Permanent recovery, he said, depends upon sustained high volume of private investment in productive enterprise, and low profits in recent years have cut off this investment.

Flails New Deal Policies.

Weir asserted heavy taxation and the disruption of business by new regulation and control of government were responsible for low profits and business losses.

He declared the "New Deal master minds are concentrating on ways and means to increase the national income" in an effort to avoid increasing taxes in an election year and to avoid curtailing expenditures.

For that reason, he said, "experiments are being softpedaled; mysterious submarines have taken the place of economic royalists as threats to the natioal welfare, and according to Washington observers, plans are being made to give business 'a shot in the arm' if there is any sign of contraction in the rate of business activity."

Rips Wagner Labor Act.

Weir termed the Wagner labor law and its administration by the National Labor Relations board "major factors" in "producing the greatest period of labor disturbance in the history of the country," and added:

"No natural disaster can equal the destructive effect of continuing labor dissension. Prudent men will no more build enterprises in communities that become notorious for labor strife than they will build on a possible battleground of warring armies."

GENERAL MILLS ADOPTS PENSION PLAN FOR 7,300

An employés pension plan has been adopted by directors of General Mills, Inc., Minneapolis cereal manufacturers and distributors, Donald D. Davis, president, announced yesterday.

The plan, known as a contributory employés pension system, will be presented to stockholders for approval on Dec. 18 at Wilmington, Del. Davis said the plan had been under consideration for several years. He estimated that 7,300 employés will be affected.

Provided by the plan are: [1] Retirement allowances at the age of 65; [2] Disability allowances after 10 or more years of service; [3] special retirement allowances to employés involuntarily released from service after 60 but before 65 years of age; [4] death benefits for members dying in active service; and [5] return of contributions for members leaving the service prior to retirement.

PLAN INCREASING BOEING STOCK AS ORDERS EXPAND

The Boeing Airplane company yesterday called a special stockholders' meeting for Dec. 22 to consider an increase in authorized capitalization to finance expanded operations.

The company's backlog of unfilled orders totaled $27,954,175 on Sept. 30, compared with $12,308,112 on Sept. 1, and bank loans of not to exceed $5,500,000 were negotiated. While company officials said the loans would enable completion of orders now on hand, it was felt that expenditure of equity capital would be more satisfactory.

A letter sent stockholders proposed an increase in authorized capitalization from 800,000 to 1,250,000 shares. The letter stated a plan to offer stockholders rights to subscribe to a portion of the additional shares is under consideration.

Democratic Sena

BY WILLARD EDWARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—
Roosevelt administration's ne law has lessened the possibility of America's involvement in the European war, why is there a necessity for vast increases in military and naval expenditures?

This question, put by Senator Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.] of the senate appropriations committee today, may form the keynote of opposition to the President's proposal to appropriate two and a billions of dollars for armam
the next session of congress.

Mr. Roosevelt proposes to a least half a billion dollars mor

May Not Get As Much.

"The administration will be

"We were told that the enact the new neutrality bill would were told, there ought not to increase in the costs of war p

When congress meets next Ja the whole question of adequa tional defense will be raised immediately. The first major measure appropriating 272 dollars to repair deficiencies army and navy funds for the p fiscal year caused by the s

"limited emergency" proclama
the President.

His orders to increase the e strength of army, navy, and corps and to fling out a pe force over American territorial spend funds at a rate which w haust them before the end fiscal year. The deficit must be up by congress.
